Uncompleted Task to Be Finished From New York to Here.

Steel Mills, Labor Will Be Boomed

$51,000,000 Advances To Roads for Rails, Aim of Ickes.

The Pennsylvania Railway yesterday was allotted $84,000,000 by the Public Works Administration to complete electrification of its line from New York to Washington. The loan includes $2,041,000 to be used in reconstructing the Virginia avenue tunnel here.

Out of the same funds, $750,000 will be expended in reconstruction of the line at Elkton, Md., and $2,611,000 for rebuilding and widening the tunnel at Baltimore.

Of the total amount awarded the Pennsylvania to finish electrification, already accomplished as far south as Wilmington, Del., $15,000,000 will be used for material.

132 New Locomotives.

For 132 new locomotives, the railroad was advanced $16,525,000, and it will use $1,087,000 of the total for building 23 multiple-unit cars. Seven thousand steel freight cars will be built with $16,000,000 of the fund.

Secretary Ickes, administrator of public works, in announcing the advances, made public plans of the P. W. A. to loan $51,000,000 to railroads to purchase rails and other steel products between now and the end of 1934.

Allotment of funds for steel rails had been held up for several weeks by high prices demanded by manufacturers. President Roosevelt called steel officials to Washington early this week and reached a compromise on a price of $36.37½ a ton. This made possible the use of public funds to stimulate employment in steel mills and on railroads.

Electrification plans include construction of a freight line from New York to Wilmington and on to this city. The railroad is electrified for passenger service between Wilmington and New York.

Waite Reveals Plans.

Deputy Administrator H. M. Waite said the steel orders would extend through 1934, completing the initial plan of the administration to assist railroads. At the same time, he said, the advance represents one of the first big moves of the Government touching upon aid to capital goods.

"In machinery and freight cars," he said, "$55,000,000 out of the $84,000,000 advance will be for absolute capital goods expenditures."

Air Crash Kills Moffett's Kin

Son-in-Law of Late Navy Officer Dies When Amphibian Falls.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., Nov. 2 (AP).—Elliott McFarlane Moore, former naval air officer and son-in-law of the late Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, and George Baker, Airline pilot, were killed when a 10-passenger amphibian plane of the Wilmington-Catalina Airways, Ltd., capsized in taking off a half-mile from shore today.

Walter Sieler, a pilot, was seriously injured.

The fatal accident was witnessed by Mrs. Moore, the former Janet Moffett. With her three small children she had accompanied her husband to the Avalon Air Terminal to wave good-by.

No passengers were aboard the amphibian. Witnesses said the plane taxied out on the water and just as it was about to soar into the air suddenly whipped over and turned upside down.

Lost Gold Mine In Mexico Found

Discovery by Englishman Creates Sensation.

Mexico City, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—The fabulously rich Maria Sanchez Gold Mine in the State of Zacatecas, lost for more than a century, has been rediscovered by Jay Norman Kourt, an Englishman, it was announced today.

The mine, one of the richest operated by Spaniards during colonial times, was deserted during the war of independence and its location was lost. Hundreds of persons have sought it.

Farley Gives McKee Vote in N. Y. Race

Moley Puts Weight of Pen Behind Recovery Candidate.

Postmaster General James A. Farley last night announced that he will vote for Joseph V. McKee for mayor of New York City.

His announcement followed by two days his declaration that he is against the "present leadership of Tammany," and added new impetus to the uproarious New York campaign.

Although Farley was careful to emphasize that he was making his declaration as an individual citizen, and not as Democratic National chairman, Cabinet member or administration representative, the statement was interpreted as assurance the administration would welcome a change in New York control.

Farley's statement, which he handed out at a press conference, said:

"As chairman of the Democratic National committee, I, of course, take no part in local municipal elections, whether they take place in San Francisco, Kansas City, New York or elsewhere.

"On the other hand, as everyone knows, I exercise my personal right to vote, and I have never hesitated to say how I have cast or intend to cast my individual ballot. Therefore, if it is of interest to any one, I have no reason to be at all secretive in declaring that in the coming city election in New York, it is my purpose to vote

U. S. Age Ban Hit by Chiefs Of Personnel

Officers Claim They Never Were Consulted About 40-Year Rule.

Sharp opposition to the new Civil Service Commission 40-year age limit employment rule developed yesterday among appointment officers in Government departments.

Statements criticizing the ban and denying they had been consulted were made by several personnel chiefs. Previously, the commission insisted the employment officials were virtually unanimous for the lowered limit.

A broad study of the situation was launched by Secretary Perkins at direction of President Roosevelt. It was made known she will confer with the Civil Service Commissioners and bureau chiefs involved. The Labor Secretary is known to consider the policy "short-sighted." She reiterated the rule would set a bad example for industry.

"Forty Is Too Low."

"We haven't been asked our opinion," declared James E. Harper, Treasury Department appointment chief.

"I think 40 is too low," he added. "Great Heavens! If we bar people at 40 what about industry? It is true younger people stand up better under some types of work."

Robert C. Starr, Labor Department appointment officer, opposed the rule. He denied he was interviewed by the commission.

Starr conceded an age limit of 40 should apply to immigration inspectors, firemen, policemen and others assigned to hazardous duty.

Norman W. Baxter, appointment officer of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said the situation had not been brought to his attention officially.

"Domination" Claimed.

Another personnel chief, who declined to be quoted, charged the Personnel Officers' Association, composed of representatives of the departments, was "dominated" by the Civil Service Commission. He said E. Claude Babcock served as president of the personnel organization while secretary of the Civil Service Commission, though not himself a personnel officer.

Charles Piozet, acting president of the personnel association, said his organization had not voted on the question. He declared he was in sympathy with the commission rule.

Chairman Cochran, of the House Committee on Expenditures in Government Establishments, instigator of the movement to change the new commission age limit, said he had received many letters protesting against the rule.

Senate Calls For Sinclair In Bank Quiz

Oil Man to Testify About Pool That Netted $12,000,000.

Harry F. Sinclair, multimillionaire oil operator, whose refusal to answer a Senate committee's questions once cost him a three-month jail sentence, yesterday was called by the Senate Banking Committee to tell his part in a 1929 million-share pool in Sinclair Consolidated oil stock. The pool was said to have netted participants nearly $12,000,000.

Meanwhile, the committee was hearing how Albert H. Wiggin, retired Chase National Bank board chairman, turned official connections with other companies to his personal profit.

Wiggin disposed of stock in the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Co. two weeks before it passed its June 20, 1932, dividend, acting on information gleaned as chairman of the company's finance committee, he testified.

Tales of Pool Profits.

While a director in Underwood Elliott Fisher Co., he participated in a pool in that company's stock which, in July, 1929, netted him a $55,539 profit, he told the committee.

Previously the committee heard how he piled up a $3,881,620 personal income in the last five years, not counting income from his family and privately owned company holdings. He paid $1,365,234 in Federal income taxes in that period.

Wiggin's private company, Shermar, sold its 26,400-share holdings of Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit stock for an average of $24 between June 4 and June 9, 1929, he told the committee. During the same period the price dropped from $25 to $11⅛ in the open market, Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, remarked.

Questioned on Sale.

Pecora asked why he sold at that time.

"I realized the company would pass their dividend," he responded.

U. S. Voices Regret for Public Criticism of German Envoy

The Secretary of State's regret that an accredited ambassador should be subjected to public attacks was expressed to Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador, yesterday when the latter brought to the attention of the State Department the reports of a speech in Cleveland by Samuel Untermyer.

Untermyer was quoted as saying Dr. Luther was "masquerading as the German Ambassador" and was "one of the most destructive of propagandists." He was also quoted as declaring most of the $3,000,000 allegedly assigned by the Reich for propaganda was being spent in this country.

"Dr. Luther denied this latter allegation," a State Department announcement said.

"The Secretary of State expressed concern that an ambassador accredited to the United States should be subjected to a public attack of this nature," the statement concluded.

Earthquake Recorded. Believed in Ecuador

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—An earthquake of "moderate intensity" was recorded today on the seismograph at Fordham University.

The first shock was recorded at 7:37:42 a. m., and the second at 7:46:25 a. m. The distance was estimated at 4,400 miles from New York, either in the Aleutian Islands or near Ecuador.

Transactions Are Secret; $2,100,000 Bought in Domestic Metal.

By Elliott Thurston.

President Roosevelt turned his foreign gold buying operations over to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York yesterday coincident with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's disclosure that it had contracted to trade $2,100,000 of its notes for 66,000 ounces of domestic gold.

The New York Reserve Bank is to operate under a cloak of secrecy intended to balk speculators. It is to have wide authority, under administration supervision, to determine when and where foreign gold is to be purchased, the amounts to be bought and the prices to be paid.

Although the Associated Press reported from Paris that an initial purchase of foreign gold had been made yesterday through the Bank of France, there was no official confirmation of that fact in Washington.

Seeks to Avoid Conflict.

The President's decision to confide the foreign gold purchasing program to the New York Reserve authorities is eloquent of the purpose, officially reiterated yesterday, to avoid international monetary conflict and complications. It also implies an understanding with the Bank of England and holds possibilities of operations directed more to checking violent exchange fluctuations than to the previously avowed objective of raising domestic commodity price levels.

In other words, the President appears to have yielded to his more orthodox counselors who have sought moderation and opposed the open currency warfare that would ensue if he followed the advice of the Committee for the Nation and other groups still bristling with charges of foreign conspiracies to keep the dollar from depreciating.

To some officials this spells the end of gold manipulations of any such magnitude as would be likely to upset the exchanges or materially alter world or domestic price levels. Gov. George L. Harrison, Fred I. Kent, exchange expert, and other officials of the New York Reserve Bank would not assent to conduct gold operations that involved a threat to the British, French or other currencies.

R. F. C. to Furnish Money.

These officials, operating privately, can manage the operations, if they so elect, much in the manner of the famous but mysterious British equalization fund so as to hold the dollar down or to avoid the dizzy fluctuations which for months have crippled international trade commitments.

The R. F. C. will put up the money, and the Treasury will foot the bills, if there are losses. Rumor has had it that the British fund has been expensive for the British treasury. All told, £350,000,000 has been assigned to that fund by the British government. R. F. C. debentures, or notes, will be delivered to the reserve bank. These will be discounted at New York banks to supply the credit or cash necessary to buy pounds, francs, guilders or other foreign currencies which may, in turn, be converted into gold.

Administration authorities were at pains yesterday to emphasize that the operations would be moderated to avoid disturbing financial conditions abroad. While the gold-buying advocates still declare that the objective is to boost domestic commodity prices officials who

Writ Sought On Gold Law

New Yorker Files Petition to Contest Ban on Hoarding.

Acting as his own attorney, Davis filed a mandamus requesting the court to order Secretary of the Treasury Woodin to redeem in gold a $20 gold certificate.

The certificate, Davis said, had been presented October 25, with a demand that it be paid in gold. His demand was refused, he was informed, because the President, under the National banking act of March 9, forbade gold payments.

Davis contends failure to redeem in gold was illegal under article 5 of the Constitution. Also, he said, the act improperly delegates legislative power and constitutes, in its effect, involuntary public servitude.

The petition was filed too late for action yesterday. Hearing will be held today.

Ford Plants 100% NRA, Says Wagner

Collective Bargaining Principle Accepted, Senator Holds.

Boycott in Doubt After Motor Magnate Is Ruled "Not Guilty."

Henry Ford is complying with labor provisions of the NRA, virtually assuring his 100 per cent acceptance of the automobile code, Chairman Wagner, of the National Labor Board, announced last night.

Asked "Is Ford recognizing 'collective bargaining?'" Wagner declared:

"Oh, there's no question about it."

This statement, which cleared up any doubt of Ford's intentions to comply, put the administration in the position of having declared a Government boycott against a manufacturer later found "not guilty."

Boycott Status in Doubt.

In the absence of Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, who was in New York, the status of the Government's boycott remained in doubt. It was thought likely, however, that no further move would be made against Ford.

The recognition of labor, one of three chief provisions of the automobile code, was involved in the strikes at Ford's Edgewater (N. J.) and Chester (Pa.) plants. The demands of the workers have been answered by headquarters at Dearborn and both sides are now negotiating.

Senator Wagner would not go into the question of terms of the Ford company answer, asserting it was now up to the employes to consider it and make their own reply to Ford. The Labor Board will maintain its "unofficial observer" to watch developments at both factories.

Since Ford is believed to exceed wage and hour provisions of the automobile code and has promised to submit required figures to the code authority November 6 or 7, his negotiation with organized employes was the only remaining question of compliance. It was upon this ground that Johnson instituted the boycott Friday, quoting Edsel Ford last summer to the effect his father would never deal with organized labor.

Retains 40-Hour Week.

In its answer to employes the Ford company stated it hoped not only to meet the demand for a $5 minimum daily wage "if conditions permit," but also to restore the old 1931 minimum of $7. The demand for a 35-hour week is denied, the company asserting the law permits 40 hours, and it will maintain the present eight-hour, five-day week.

The Ford company contends its wages at the Edgewater plant already are the highest in that class in the metropolitan district. Its answer also promises no discrimination against union members, but adds that applicants will be considered on a merit basis.

Principally involved in the boycott controversy has been the

Sen. Kendrick Critically Ill

Death Feared Imminent After Collapse While at Work.

Sheridan, Wyo., Nov. 2 (AP). Stricken as he worked at his desk last night, John B. Kendrick, senior United States Senator from Wyoming, is near death from cerebral hemorrhage.

The Senator, 76 years old, lapsed into coma soon after being taken ill. Physicians today said his condition was "unchanged."

Kendrick, a Democrat, had announced he intended to retire from the Senate in 1933 but both Republican and Democratic leaders urged his reelection by acclamation.

A cowboy in his youth, Senator Kendrick educated himself in the saddle, reading as he rode with the early Texas trail herds. Before entering politics in 1910 he had amassed a fortune in Wyoming and Montana land and cattle.

The Senator's latest labor for his constituency and the one which probably will stand as a monument to his memory was his untiring advocacy of the huge Casper-Alcova reclamation project now beginning.

Five Oklahoma Bank Robbers Get $15,000

Okmulgee, Okla., Nov. 2 (AP).—Five men robbed the Citizens National Bank of Okmulgee of between $15,000 and $20,000 today and escaped in an automobile.

Two bank officials kidnaped to shield the robbers were released within a few blocks of the bank.

NRA Leaders Clash On Rule of Business; Governors in Farm Plea

Five Midwest Executives to Submit Program to Roosevelt.

Plan to Present Proposals Today

Group Is Asked to Offer Solution After Talk at White House.

By Franklyn Waltman, jr.

President Roosevelt yesterday personally took charge of the crisis developing in the corn belt by setting five Middle Western governors to work formulating a plan to raise farm prices.

While the five governors—Langer of North Dakota, Olson of Minnesota, Berry of South Dakota, Herring of Iowa and Schmedeman of Wisconsin—were at the White House, violence was breaking out anew in the disturbed farm belt.

The Associated Press reported outbursts of shootings bombings, and property destruction, with many injuries and wholesale arrests. Dynamite demolished a cheese factory in the milk strike zone near Port Washington, Wis., the fourth bombing in two days.

28 Pickets Arrested.

There was renewed picketing in Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota and 28 farm pickets were arrested in Wausau, Wis. Extra guards were placed around the jail to prevent a mob from releasing the prisoners.

For two hours the five governors were closeted with President Roosevelt, who invited to the conference Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration; George N. Peek, agricultural administrator, and Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator.

On leaving the President the five governors, along with the group of Roosevelt advisers, retired to the Cabinet room where they continued their discussion for another two hours. All agreed, it was said, to refrain from discussing the meeting, leaving Stephen T. Early, assistant secretary to the President, to make the announcement.

Working on Plan.

Mr. Early in a formal statement, after identifying those present said:

"A tentative plan was worked out. Further conferences will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. It is hoped a final plan then will be agreed upon. This plan when completed will be presented to the President for his approval."

Efforts to ascertain the exact nature of the plan under discussion were not successful, except that it was indicated the group was working on a scheme to fix minimum farm prices, either directly or indirectly. It also was indicated that the group had found many obstacles in their way.

On entering the White House the five governors carried with them a program to lay before the President which called for direct price-fixing of farm products; placing all producers of agricultural products under license and requiring them to adhere to production quotas; liberalization of farm credit administration, including reduction of interest rates to 3 per cent, and "controlled inflation," with the payment of that part of the called Fourth Liberty loan bonds with "greenbacks" under the Thomas amendment.

Situation Critical.

A dramatic incident which occurred while the governors were closeted with the President was a telephone call from Leo C. Crowley.

U. S. Reported After Gangster In Plane Blast

Tribune Says He Will Be Charged With Murder of 7 in Crash.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Tribune says tonight it learned from an authoritative source that Department of Justice agents are seeking a gangster, whose name was not disclosed, and plan to charge him with the murder of seven persons killed October 10, when a Transcontinental Airline plane crashed near Chesterton, Ind., after an explosion.

Department of Justice agents declined comment on the Tribune's story.

Investigation of the crash and subsequent inspection of the wreckage led to the belief that a bomb had been placed in the plane before it took off.

U. S. Renews Talks On English Debts

Discussions With British Started by Roosevelt.

Revived by President Roosevelt, war debt negotiations between Great Britain and the United States were renewed yesterday at the Treasury, according to the Associated Press.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, special representative of the British treasury, continued with Undersecretary Acheson a search for a formula which might solve the debt problem.

The negotiators, including Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, went over the situation with Mr. Roosevelt. Previously it had been intimated that for lack of progress the discussions would be abandoned.

Mussolini Plans Shake-Up, Dropping Cabinet Ministers

Rome, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Premier Benito Mussolini is planning a far-reaching shake-up in his cabinet, the United Press learned tonight.

Several ministers will resign, including Air Marshal Italo Balbo, Admiral Giuseppe Sirianni, navy minister; Giacomo Acerbo, minister of agriculture; Francesco Ercole, education, and Araldo di Crollalanza, public works.

Mussolini plans to consolidate the ministries of war, navy and air into one ministry of national defense, it was learned. He will continue to hold the premiership and the foreign affairs and the industry portfolios.

Marshal Bagdolio, now chief of the general staff, will command the three forces in the defense ministry, it is believed.

Balbo will be retired with the title of air marshal, but is not to become chief of the general staff, as reported until recently.

The successors to Ercole, Acerbo and Di Crollalanza are expected to be drawn from among youthful Fascists.

Lund Assails Swope's Plan of Self-Rule for Industry.

Opposes Control By Central Agency

Would Organize Group for Cooperation With U. S. Chamber.

Confusion and disagreement among business leaders and Government officials yesterday followed announcement of conflicting plans for future control of business and conflicting interpretations of these plans.

The Business Advisory and Planning Council of the Department of Commerce, in praising NRA, insisted that "business should remain free of governmental interference and control."

Robert L. Lund, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, objected to the idea of making the United States Chamber of Commerce the Nation's supreme business agency.

Johnson Tells Views.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, modified his first indorsement of the plan by asserting that his approval was predicted on the behalf that the Government should continue stringent supervision of NRA codes.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward McGrady, who is advisor to Johnson, declared that "the partnership between business, industry and labor under the recovery act must be preserved." He declared that any administrative plan must provide that labor be protected.

The resolution adopted by the Business Advisory Council and made public by Swope follows:

"The members of the council have noted with gratification an improvement in industrial activity and a wider spread of employment through recent months despite the difficulties that had to be surmounted. The council pledges its continued best efforts in assisting the Administration to solve the problems that are still ahead, to the end that the basic objectives of the NRA—reduction in unemployment and increase in purchasing power—may be sooner achieved.

Freedom for Business.

"The continuance and advancement of the American standard of living is of necessity the prime concern of American business. To maintain this standard of living, business should remain free of governmental interference and control and must be permitted to continue to exercise the initiative and the aggressiveness that have characterized its remarkable development in the past."

Lund, in voicing his objections to the plan, which was first proposed

Trip to Islands Roosevelt Plan

President Tells Delegation Plan to Visit Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt told delegations from Hawaii and Puerto Rico yesterday he was planning a trip to these far-flung American outposts next summer if Congress adjourned in time.

The voyage probably would be made aboard the cruiser Indianapolis, which has fitted up special quarters for the President. He would first start for the islands via the Atlantic, thence through the Panama Canal and out into the Pacific to Hawaii, returning to California.

The Hawaiian delegation urged the President not to push the Administration bill to repeal the law requiring appointment of a resident as Governor of Hawaii.

The President intends to send an investigator to Hawaii to study conditions there before appointing a governor.

The Puerto Rican delegation, including the vice president of the Senate and Speaker of the House, called to inform Mr. Roosevelt that the dominant coalition party was "100 per cent behind Gov. Gore."

Paris Report Declares Gold Reserves Low

Bank of France Suffers Heavy Withdrawals Last 2 Weeks.

Paris, Nov. 2 (AP).—Gold in the Bank of France melted today to its lowest point since May, but the flow was reported to be almost stopped.

Simultaneously the U. S. Federal Reserve Bank began buying the metal with the purchase of a small amount from the Bank of France, and Premier Albert Sarraut issued a ministerial declaration that France is determined to stand by the gold standard.

The gold reserve has decreased by 2,000,000,000 francs (now about $121,000,000) in the last two weeks, within a week the French institution has been drained of 750,000,000 francs (about $45,000,000).

This loss was attributed to a fight of capital, to the recent cabinet crisis and withdrawals by gold bloc nations.

Purchases Reported Light.

Effects of the Federal Reserve purchases are yet to be felt, since today's purchases were said by exchange dealers to be light.

Individual American buyers are selling dollars against francs and then converting them into gold and shipping it to London, where they believe there is no possibility of any embargo. One man was said to have bought $1,000,000 in gold.

Cries for restrictions on purchasers of gold were termed by Bank of France officials the ideas of "French brain trusters." They laughed at the probability that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could drain a sufficient amount to pinch the Bank of France.

London, Nov. 2 (AP).—Although the financial world here was all set today for some definite development in the American policy of buying gold abroad, the day passed without any signs of a move toward gold purchases from across the water.

American Dollar Weaker.

The American dollar was somewhat weaker on the exchange market than yesterday. After the bank close the quotation moved to $4.82⅝, the day's lowest rate, indicating there was a continuing uncertainty as to what might happen.

On talk of American gold plans the French franc closed at 79.46 to the pound, compared to an overnight rate of 80.21.

Mexico, D. F. (AP).—Marte R. Gomez, undersecretary of finance, said tonight no embargo on gold exports had been declared by the government and financial circles expressed the belief that no such step was contemplated.

On the contrary, it was pointed out that in the past week there has been a sudden relaxation of the virtual embargo in effect for some time. One shipment of 2 tons of the metal and a second of 2½ tons were sent by boat from Vera Cruz consigned to London in the last seven days.

Farley Announces 1 Vote for McKee

for Joseph V. McKee for mayor, because. I believe personally that the best interests of the people of the City of New York will be served by his election."

Beyond this statement, the Administration's political general would not comment. Anything additional, he declared, he would say in New York, where he will make speeches Sunday and Monday.

The Ickes angle to the New York contest was aired yesterday when the Interior Secretary made public an exchange of telegrams with L. W. Fehr, aldermanic candidate. A week ago Fehr wired Ickes saying Nathan Straus, "recovery" aldermanic candidate, had charged that public works money would be withheld unless he was elected. Tuesday he demanded an answer to his message.

Replying yesterday to Fehr, Ickes stated that "I have steadfastly refused to be drawn into municipal campaigns anywhere in spite of direct invitations or indirect efforts.

"If you were not yourself a candidate," he added, "you would agree with my position."

McKee Mentor Aided Roosevelt.

Because of the injection of the Roosevelt administration into New York's mayoralty contest, Farley's stand was regarded as of particular importance. The President has refused to have any connection with the campaign, but observers were not tardy about inferring what lay behind Farley's frank declaration. They contended the statement cleared any possible doubt about the administration's stand.

It is pointed out that McKee's election would keep the New York municipal government in Democratic hands. McKee's political mentor, Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader, was the only New York City leader who supported the Roosevelt nomination in 1932.

McKee has campaigned on the basis that a "vote for McKee is a vote for Roosevelt," and has charged Republicans supported the LaGuardia fusion slate.

Moley Endorses McKee.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Raymond Moley, editor and associate of President Roosevelt, indorsed the mayoralty candidacy of Joseph V. McKee in an editorial in the current issue of Today.

Mr. Moley's editorial said a victory for McKee would be interpreted generally as a vote of approval for the policies of the Roosevelt Administration and a vote of repudiation for Ogden Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury, and others whom he characterized as foes of the Roosevelt program.

know positively myself until June 20, when it was passed."

He said as finance chairman of the B.-M. T. he knew the company had a number of heavy loans coming due, some of which were made by his own bank.

Gerhard Dahl, chairman of the board of the B.-M. T. and a director of Chase, sold stock he had deposited with Chase as loan collateral at the same time Wiggin entered the market, testimony disclosed. The Dahl sales aggregated 55,000 shares.

$4,000,000 Borrowed.

Dahl's borrowings from Chase totaled over $4,000,000 in 1930, backed by collateral valued at more than $7,000,000, Wiggin testified. Last month the loans had been reduced to $3,176,016, but the collateral security behind them had fallen to a $1,300,000 market value, the witness disclosed.

Pecora also disclosed a $4,240,000 loan to the Waubesa Corporation, privately owned by Dahl, which was subsequently paid off by another huge loan to Dahl.

As one of five participants, Wiggin told how his Shermar Corporation put up $25,000 to cover margin as its share in a 25,000-share trading account in Underwood, Elliott-Fisher stock in the summer of 1929. He received a check for $80,539, in final payment, of which $55,539 was profit, Pecora pointed out.

"Didn't you have any scruples about trading short in stock of companies on whose boards you served," Pecora asked.

"Yes," replied Wiggin. "I wouldn't do it."

Trading Without Risk.

Pecora developed how Wiggin profited from trading accounts conducted by friends at no risk to himself.

He read from a letter Wiggin wrote Howard P. Ingals, whom Wiggin described as "a neighbor and personal friend."

"Thank you very much for including me in the tobacco syndicate, without any responsibility to myself," the letter read in part.

Before adjournment, Pecora read into the record a list of Chase Securities Corporation subsidiaries in which Chase had $68,036,522 invested on December 31, 1932. Total assets of the securities corporation at that time were listed as $95,930,506.

Hearings were adjourned until next Wednesday, to give Pecora time to wind up his campaign for district attorney of Manhattan.

Seeks "Subparticipants."

Evidence showed the pool was closed out May 7, 1929, the day after Sinclair entered the District Jail to serve terms for contempt of the Senate and contempt of court.

Sinclair and Cutten each owned one-fourth interest in the Sinclair Consolidated Oil stock pool. Other participants included Blair & Co., Chase Securities Corporation, which owned one-sixth interest, and Shermar Corporation, privately owned company of Albert H. Wiggin.

Sinclair's last experience with a senatorial committee was unpleasant for the oil man. He refused to answer 10 questions asked him in connection with Teapot Dome inquiry, on advice of counsel. As result, he was confined in jail from May 6 to November 20, 1929. His Senate contempt sentence ran concurrently with a six month's term for contempt of court on jury shadowing charges.

Blamed Politics.

Sinclair in a statement charged he "was victim of a political campaign to elect honest Democrats by proving how dishonest Republicans were."

With Wiggin on the stand yesterday, Pecora brought out that Cutten bought 1,130,000 shares of the Sinclair Consolidated oil stock for $30, for which participants in the syndicate proportionately subscribed. Sinclair, who was head of the oil company, took a 130,000-share block, paying $3,900,000. Stock acquired for $30 was sold for $39 and $40 a share.

Wiggin's corporation, Shermar, paid $1,125,000 for its share, and realized $877,000 in profits, Wiggin said. Total profits of all concerned were estimated at $11,702,000. Pecora wants to find out from Sinclair and Cutten how much they profited, and how much went to subparticipants.

Senate committee investigators also want to know if officers and directors of Sinclair's oil corporation knew he participated in the trading account.

Governors Map Farm Relief Plan

chairman of the executive council of the Governor of Wisconsin. Mr. Crowley was trying to get Gov. Schmedeman. Instead he dictated a message to one of the White House stenographers, which was taken in to the Wisconsin governor.

This message was as follows:

"When I returned last night to Madison from Des Moines the situation in the State, particularly the northern part, was terrible. Roads and all avenues are shut off to all cities. They are blowing up cheese plants and milk plants and are getting ugly. I question whether we could stop it even if we called the militia out."

Gov. Schmedeman on receiving the message, handed it to President Roosevelt as evidence of the critical condition existing in the corn belt. Other governors also described the temper of their people, is was reported. Mr. Roosevelt was represented as stating that he fully realized the dissatisfaction existing and wanted to end the conditions responsible.

Center on Higher Prices.

It was not believed the currency inflation proposal figured seriously in the discussion at the White House. The opinion prevailed that the conference concentrated on means of increasing farm prices which steadily have been slipping in recent weeks and on expediting the farm credit program to assist those farmers threatened with foreclosures.

The question of price fixing for agricultural products is a controversial one in the Roosevelt Administration. Secretary Wallace has been opposed to such proposals while Mr. Peek believes such steps are necessary. The legality for such a procedure is regarded by lawyers as dubious, since the NRA act specifically forbids such a step and the A. A. A. act has no reference, one way or the other, to price fixing.

Yet by making loans on farm products at a specified price, somewhat above the existing market, through oration of the Reconstruction Finthe newly created Commodity Corpance Corporation, an attempt at pegging a minimum price for wheat, corn, other grains, hogs and beef might be made. Whether it would be successful at price raising is, however, problematical.

Gov. Langer's View.

Gov. Langer said, that on the basis of cost of production, the proper level of prices at Chicago should be $1.38 a bushel for number one dark northern wheat; 99 cents a bushel for rye; 50 cents a bushel for oats; $11.32 per hundredweight for hogs; $20.99 per hundredweight for beef and $14.48 per hundredweight for lambs.

These prices, which form the objective of the five Governors, are greatly in excess of the existing markets, in some cases by as much as 100 per cent. There is no prospect that the Roosevelt Administration would attempt to achieve such price levels at this time, although steps may be taken to bring about moderate increases, raising the price of wheat, for instance, from its present level of 85 cents a bushel to above $1.

Writer Calls NRA Result of Impatience

Toronto, Nov. 2 (AP).—The American NRA was described today as resulting from impatience with "the-slow-if-sure evolution of classic economics" in an address before the Empire Club by Arthur Krock, superintendent of the Washington bureau of the New York Times.

"The old or classic economists accepted as a fact that human nature and the physical element of the planet made certain a precise operation of economic laws," he said.

Farm Violence Flares Anew In Wisconsin

Miners to Visit Roosevelt Today; 7 Injured in Coal Field Riot.

Des Moines, Nov. 2 (AP).—Another bombing marked increasing farm strike violence in Wisconsin today, and picketing began anew in Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota, as leaders in Iowa warned they would accept "no compromises" to their relief demands presented to President Roosevelt today by five Midwest governors.

Twenty-eight strikers were arrested in roadside disorders in Wausau, Marathon County, Wis., and Sheriff H. M. Kronenwetter augmented his jail guard to stave off a reported attempt to free prisoners.

A Belgium (Wis.) cheese factory was destroyed by dynamite and fire. Sheriff Peter J. Jung attributed the blast, fourth since the strike began, to pickets.

Pickets blockaded three highways in western Iowa. Highway 34, running through Glenwood, where 500 farmers opposed to the strike last week escorted trucks through picket lines, was clear.

Miners to Roosevelt.

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 1 (AP).—Six men who speak with the experience of years of underground coal digging will don their Sunday best tomorrow for a serious talk with President Roosevelt about the troubles that are keeping more than 20,000 of their comrades idle in southwestern Pennsylvania.

They want assurances from Mr. Roosevelt that steel company owned (captive) mines will formally recognize the union.

7 Hurt in Strike.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 2 (AP).—Two men were shot and five women and children hurt by stones in a strike riot at Delaware colliery of the Hudson Coal Co. at Plains today.

Company police said about 150 persons attempted to storm the colliery yard and that they were repulsed.

Gunman Fires Four Shots in Chicago Barber Shop.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP).—A salesman, identified by his widow as Harry Teuber, 32, was shot down today by a gunman who entered a North Clark street barber shop, where his victim was having his nails manicured.

Second Byrd Vessel Sails Out of Capes

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 2 (AP).—the Bear of Oakland, second vessel of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, passed out of the Virginia Capes today from Newport News on her way to Little America.

The Bear, which first departed several weeks ago, was forced to return to have her hull caulked. She is following the Jacob Ruppert, flagship of the expedition, which left here October 21.

Financier's Daughter Seeks Nevada Divorce

Reno, Nev., Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Mrs. Marion Warburg, daughter-in-law of Felix Warburg, New York financier, has established a Nevada residence to obtain a divorce from Gerald Felix Warburg, of New York, it was learned today. Mrs. Warburg is establishing residence at a dude ranch.

Her attorney, Cole L. Harwood, refused to discuss the nature of the charges Mrs. Warburg will make in her complaint.

Weavers Win Higher Wages To End Strike

Labor Scores by Ruling Aiding 40,000 in Silk Factories.

Labor's fight to revise codes for higher wages won its first point last night when the National Labor Board ruled that striking silk weavers who return to work immediately shall receive piece-work rates averaging $25 for a 40-hour week.

The decision affects between 30,000 and 40,000 workers in Paterson, N. J., Pennsylvania and New England who have been striking for an agreement whereby they would be guaranteed fixed wages in the codes.

Chairman Robert F. Wagner of the Labor Board said he had reports that in some southern communities weavers have been receiving as low as $14 a week.

Mill Owners Balked.

He and NRA officials have been striving to increase the wage to $25 in plants affected by strikes, but had experienced difficulty because these mill owners had refused to pay that wage unless unaffected northern mills paid $22 and southern mills $22.

Declaring the rates probably would be written into the code, Wagner said it was necessary for the NRA to help raise the pay to the figure agreed upon during the board's arbitration proceedings.

"What is the NRA for if it is not to eliminate inequities and raise wages to meet American living standards?" he said.

Wage Equality Pledged.

In the board decision was incorporated a statement by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, pledging the NRA to carry out Wagner's proposals and obtain an equalization of wages in other branches of the textile industry to protect the mills, which will raise wages as the result of the ruling.

"NRA had directed an expert technical survey to determine whether there is any definite part of rayon production that is so clearly to be classified with silk that in justice it should be included in the silk code, the Johnson statement said. "NRA has also directed the immediate organization of the silk code authority to the end that no improper classification of wage differential affecting weavers and other skilled workers is practiced and that any unfair regional wage differences within the silk industry be corrected."

Settlement Ordered.

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 2 (AP).—An end of the troubles in the Brockton shoe manufacturing district appeared imminent tonight, with the announcement of a decision by the National Labor Board directing a settlement.

Reserve Bank Told To Purchase Gold

Secrecy Planned.

Assuming that there is no political or other interference with the modified plan now contemplated, there is reason to suppose that the gold operations might accomplish much that Gov. Harrison sought during the London Economic Conference, when he undertook to work out an agreement to eliminate violent exchange fluctuations.

Publicity, as much as any factor, wrecked collaboration then with the Bank of England and Bank of France. The operations now in view are to be protected by secrecy as much from politics as from speculation.

Up to Wednesday night, which marked the end of the first week of the domestic gold buying, the R. F. F., according to Chairman Jones, had contracted for 66,000 ounces of newly-mined gold at prices from $31.36 to $32.26 an ounce. An eighth successive boost in the posted price was announced during the day, to $32.36 an ounce. Meanwhile stock and commodity markets have refused to respond by corresponding price increases, though the dollar has been forced down in foreign exchange. Yesterday the dollar fell to within 4 cents of its old par sterling of $4.8665.

According to Associated Press dispatches from New York, four of the largest banks there, the National City, Chase National, Guaranty Trust and Bankers Trust will collaborate in the foreign gold buying.

Foreign Nations Criticized.

Though the R. F. C. announced, through Jones, the actual acquisition of 66,000 ounces of domestic gold, the R. F. C. notes which are to be exchanged for gold have not yet turned up in the markets and curiosity exists over the price they are to bring, since this would be the first time the R. F. C. has turned over its notes to the public. Up to now they have been delivered to the Treasury and there has been no market in them.

Again yesterday the Committee for the Nation, headed by J. H. Rand, jr., issued publicity echoing suspicions of foreign conspiracy against the dollar, and citing the Laborite London Herald's charges of collusion between the Bank of England and the Bank of France. Its exhibit was headed, "Great Britain joins our deflationists to thwart the President's monetary policy."

And the committee, which has worked closely with Prof. George F. Warren, chief mentor of the President's gold manipulations and exponent of the commodity dollar, berated the British and French for talking "currency war and other bugaboos to frighten American public opinion."

Huey's Name!

Mob Rips Down Huge Sign Glorifying Long Bridge.

Shreveport, La., Nov. 2 (AP).—The question "who took the names of Huey P. Long and O. K. Allen off the Red River Bridge?" today took its place beside the mystery of "who hit the senator on Long Island?"

Reporters chronicled the bridge incident as "an unsolved mystery" when charges of malicious mischief lodged against 16 citizens of Caddo and Bossier parishes were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Unidentified men swarmed on the bridge and tore down signs, 40 by 10 feet, which announced that the structure was a product of the gubernatorial administrations "of Huey P. Long and O. K. Allen," and that it was to be called "The Long-Allen Bridge."

Until Senator Long dedicated it a week or so ago, the bridge had been known simply as "The Shreveport Bridge."

Farm Relief Doesn't Relieve, Figures Show

Sharp Loss Marked for Agriculture in New Adjustment Act.

In spite of the Government's billion dollar farm relief program, designed to increase farm prices, the spread between the price of farm products and the price of goods bought by farmers is greater today than it was when the farm adjustment act became a law May 15.

This was revealed yesterday by statistics prepared by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Using 100 to represent the pre-war level from 1909 to 1914—referred to by the farm administration as "parity"—the price of farm commodities on October 18 was 68, or 32 per cent under pre-war level. The price farmers had to pay was 116.5, or 16.5 above pre-war level. This is a spread of 48.5 points.

On May 15, the price of farm products was represented as 62, and the price of goods bought by farmers was 101, a spread of 39 points.

These figures, it was pointed out, show that while farm prices have increased, the cost of things bought by farmers has increased more. The prices of farm products vary considerably as compared with "parity." As of October 15, the bureau found wheat selling at 62 per cent of "parity," cotton 62, corn 52, butterfat 66, beef cattle 58, and hogs 50.

Treasury Finds Use for Silver From Europe

War Debt Payments Will Swell Currency by .002 Per Cent.

The Treasury soon will issue $11,000,000 in silver certificates against the silver received by the United States in last June's war debt payments, it was learned yesterday.

Treasury officials declare the move is not inflationary; that it is simply a case of the Government's making use of something that already belonged to it. They added that the amount involved is of little significance compared to the total money in circulation. The $11,000,000 amounts to only one-fifth of 1 per cent of the total, $5,650,000,000, that is in use.

The Treasury is empowered to take this action under the Thomas amendment to the farm bill, which authorized acceptance of silver in payment of the foreign debts, and subsequent issue of silver certificates backed by the silver. Work will begin shortly on minting it into coins and on engraving new certificates.

Lund Hits Swope Plan for Industry

by Gerard Swope, said his organization wished to remain "autonomous" and that he doubted the practicability of organizing business and industry into a single unit to administer the recovery program. Moreover, he said he believed the NRA program should not be altered substantially at this time.

Lund, though a member of the Industrial Advisory Board of the NRA, said he indorsed resolutions adopted by an advisory committee of Manufacturers National Trade Associations, assailing administration of the recovery act.

These criticized rulings relating to administration of codes, prohibitions against inclusion in them of the labor-protested "merit clause;" assailed policies of the National Labor Board as "tending to prevent prompt and peaceful local settlements of industrial disputes," and protested against instability of Federal monetary policies.

Grady, in his statement, added that "any administration plan for codes which might be put into effect must provide that the rights of labor shall be protected under the national industrial recovery act."

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., was en route from St. Louis, but it was not supposed by his friends that he could say much more. The confusion would prevent it, they said.

Indeed, the confusion was such that Henry I. Harriman was under the impression the Swope plan virtually would transfer administration of the NRA to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, of which he is president. Thus he naturally was enthusiastic about it. Johnson, who also said he approved of it, told newspapermen the program would not displace the NRA or its compliance boards.

Swope said the plan was not to supplant the NRA. However, he refused to say whether a statement by Johnson that the plan contains nothing which "will disturb the present balanced organization of NRA with industrial, labor and consumers' representation in every hearing, in every discussion of policy, and in respect of every action," reflected the aims of the program.

Explains Swope Plan.

"The Swope plan," Johnson said, "does not propose the slightest interference with NRA or with Government participation, supervision or absolute veto power on anything done by any organized industry under any code or code authority, or with exclusive governmental control of any penal sanctions of the law.

"It is the ultimate ideal of such an industrial organization as will enable the NRA to control industry, leaving to industry the right to discipline itself in the first instance. The National recovery act specifically provides for and intends that organization of industry be grouped into associations, subject to governmental control, and the Swope plan is intended to follow closely the pattern laid down in that act.

"The Swope plan assumes organization and representation of labor throughout along lines already developed in the NRA and perhaps best exemplified in the bituminous coal code, but it could not propose any specific pattern for labor organization because, under the NRA labor has the right to select its own form of organization."

Lund Explains Views.

In assailing the Swope plan, Lund would keep the industrial self-government body separate from code enforcement, saw no reason at present for change in the direction and organization of the recovery administration except for enlargement of its staff, and proposed that trade bodies be continued as the code authorities as is now the NRA policy.

"It seems certain," Lund said, "that a national organization such as is envisioned by the Swope plan, set up to administer the codes with semigovernmental authority, could not logically handle such questions with best results to industry and business."

The diversity of interests between commerce, manufacturing and service organizations, he added, would make it difficult to obtain prompt action looking toward the common good.

Bingham Fears "Revolt."

New York, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Alfred M. Bingham, son of fromer Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, and executive secretary of the Farmer Labor Political Federation, today addressed an open letter to President Roosevelt warning that "violet revolution" will follow any attempt to put the Gerard Swope plan of "self rule" for industry into effect.

3 Bandits Get $8,000 From Michigan Bank

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 2 (AP).—Three bandits with shotguns held up the North Lansing branch of the Bank of Lansing today, struck a teller over the head when he delayed opening the vault, and fled with between $6,000 and $8,000.

Six customers, the bank manager and a teller were ordered to lie on the floor. The bandits fled in an automobile bearing an Illinois license.

Noted Engineer Proffers Plan To Rescue NRA

Permanent Set-Up Needed on Scientific Basis, C. E. Stuart Says.

To answer the country's growing protest to an NRA program at once vague and disintegrating, a plan for the immediate creation of a National planning council is being seriously considered by leading industrialists and some members of the Administration. Unless it is adopted, say the advocates, the present NRA program may be stamped to death.

That the gravest danger confronts the Government, which itself is known to be concerned by an unrest threatening its whole recovery program, has become evident in the last few days, according to Charles E. Stuart, internationally known engineer and proponent of the plan, who yesterday declared "further steps will be found necessary, beyond present measures, to end the depression."

To counteract this menace and to establish on a firmer basis business operating precariously under present NRA codes, he declared the development of a permanent organization to coordinate production, hours and wages on a scientific basis is "the only known technique for controlling our modern, complex economy." This plan, which he "new deal," he will present at the meeting next month of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

Now that the Government has made its first bold step toward regulating industry, no retreat is possible, according to Mr. Stuart—long a consultant to the Soviet, who nevertheless insisted there is nothing "Russian" about planning. One of two roads must be followed, he declared, the headlong plunge into an outright form of socialism or the maintenance of private ownership under better and more strict Government supervision.

Swope Plan Criticized.

Mr. Stuart, a native of Alexandria, criticized the Swope plan of giving business back to the business men, unless a planning board is set up by the Government to impose sufficient regulation. The Swope plan would establish a National Chamber of Commerce and Industry to handle appeals from code authorities, with the Government represented.

He declared this procedure is "all right so far as it goes," but that a council to consider all factors in this country's complicated economics, including agriculture, must head the set-up. Under it he favored as a coordinating board just such a council for business, which would also "police" the codes, as proposed by Gerald Swope.

The engineer, senior of Stuart, Jones & Cooke, Inc., with offices in this country and Europe, advocates a central planning authority to eliminate the evils of competition while perpetuating the initiative of private ownership. As adviser to the Soviet Supreme Economic Council for the last six or seven years, he has won signal government honors.

While maintaining that the NRA has proved useful, Mr. Stuart sees it as only a halfway program that of itself will not complete the work. In a sense the Government must assert its "partnership" more, lest the whole NRA organization reaching into every hamlet of the country, fall of its own weight.

Council Over NRA.

He proposes that the National planning council be established, by Executive order of President Roosevelt, over the NRA; that industry support its own National planning council; that every industry and trade group establish a planning body to be coordinated with the Federal planning agency. Present branches of the NRA, such as the Consumers Advisory Board, would be subordinated to the Federal planning board.

"No true planning body exists today, although the NIRA authorizes such an agency at the discretion of the President," he asserted, adding:

"Present Federal boards under NRA are either administrative or advisory. There is no body which is primarily deliberative. NRA is charged with executing a law. In a sense its planning has already been done for it by Congress.

"The NRA point of view is necessarily an emergency viewpoint, despite the fact that it will be found impossible to end this depression without measures involving permanent economic readjustments. This calls for long-range planning to integrate emergency measures with what we desire to be long-range trend of our economic development."

The Federal planning board would consist of seven to nine carefully selected men, chosen by the President, who would make use of all necessary technical and statistical staffs. It would require an administrator or executive, such as Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

Favors Long-Range Plan.

"At the end of the year, or as soon as possible," the engineer went on, "all emergency measures would be integrated with the long-range National plan as developed, which would look to an orderly evolution within the next five or ten years to a balanced economy."

During the war Mr. Stuart was a member of the National coal production committee of the Fuel Administration and of the power committee of the War Industries Board, his first experience with the industrial planning he has since "sold" to many business leaders. More than any other one man, he has advanced the movement within industry itself in this country.

Son of the late Judge Charles E. Stuart, whose home, Stratford, Va., was the birthplace of Robert E. Lee and is now a memorial to Lee, Mr. Stuart is a graduate of V. M. I. His grandfather, Judge Gabriel Du Val, was appointed to the United States Supreme Court by Thomas Jefferson.

New Sun Spot Cycle Studied As Earth Faces Cooler Years

Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 2 (AP).—The beginning of a new cycle of sun spots was announced today at the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson Observatory. The cycle promises:

Increased magnetic disturbances on the earth, with occasional disruption of telegraph and telephone service.

The Aurora Borealis will be visible further south.

Possibly poorer wireless reception.

"Astronomers are interested in what causes the sun spots to increase and decrease in number, what causes the spots and their nature, as well as their effect on the earth's magnetic field," said Dr. Seth B. Nicholson, "but popular interest has connected the spots with the number of rabbits, business conditions and even the severity of influenza."

He said the disturbances within the sun, which is little more than a huge mass of gas, resembles tornados. The average sun spot cycle is 11 years.

50,000 Cheer For LaGuardia At Huge Rally

Meeting Is Largest Held by Any Candidate in Mayor Race.

By Frank Getty.

New York, Nov. 2.—With a torchlight parade, red fire and the raucous blare of loud speakers, New York City's mayoralty campaign approached its climax tonight when some 50,000 persons converged upon Madison Square Garden to cheer the utterances of Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican - Fusionist candidate for mayor.

It was by far the largest gathering that any candidate has been able to draw, and was taken by the major's backers as indicative of his impending victory.

From every quarter of the city crowds converged upon the garden, and, once they arrived, remained to cheer the candidate's statements outside the garden. At overflow meetings those unable to get in heard the major issue his challenges to Tammany and to Joseph V. McKee through the loud speakers.

From every borough of New York LaGuardia backers marched to attend this meeting, which was regarded as the candidate's supreme effort to win. There were claims of rough treatment, that police had interfered with the marchers, and that Tammany had sent "strong-arm squads" to break up the meeting.

As far as could be observed from the sidewalk, the LaGuardia supporters got an even break. The police kept the hecklers more or less in order and allowed those who were marching upon the Garden the benefit of the doubt. Which is quite a concession in a Tammany-ruled town.

Tammany's leaders were more interested, as a matter of fact, in offsetting the purported gain to McKee due to the statement of Postmaster General Jim Farley regarding his stand in the New York campaign.

According to reports here, Farley announced he intended to vote for McKee, while disclaiming any intention of expressing himself as chairman of the Democratic National committee.

With Farley's declaration for McKee, he is considered here to have put the administration in Washington on record as for the recovery party candidate. It is expected, even by McKee sympathizers, that President Roosevelt and his closest followers will maintain their customary silence respecting the New York City mayoralty fight, but the fact that Farley is out for McKee is taken here as indication that the administration is behind him.

Aside from this so-called "monster mass meeting" for LaGuardia tonight, there were practically no developments in the race for mayor during the last 24 hours. Most significant, according to New York City observers, was Farley's statement for McKee.

Former D.C. Dentist Dies in Wilmington

Heart Trouble Fatal to Dr. Robert Fletcher.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 2 (AP).—Dr. Robert P. Fletcher, 74, former Washington, D. C., dentist, was found dead in the home of his son-in-law today. Physicians said death was due to heart trouble.

Surviving are his widow, three daughters, including Mrs. Robert P. Williams, of McCloud, Wash., and Mrs. Henry L. Burman, of Long Branch, Calif., and two sons, Robert P. Fletcher, jr., of Chicago, and Northrup Fletcher, of New York.

Construction Loan Given to Pennsy

tween Wilmington and Washington.

Waite said employment will be given directly and indirectly to 20,000 men, many of whom will be on pay rolls within the next four weeks.

All of the steel rails must be absolutely new, it was said. This will afford greater employment to steel workers and in transportation and production of iron ore and coke, Waite pointed out.

Million Tons Required.

The entire order will require the manufacture of 1,000,000 tons of steel rails, to be distributed among a number of railroads; and 400,000 tons of steel fastenings.

Further employment will be given in laying the rails, and in producing and laying the necessary wooden ties.

The railroads to which the $135,000,000 was allotted will pay 4 per cent interest on the secured loans, with no interest payable during the first year. Maturities of the loans will be within the useful life of the equipment, which in addition to rails and fastenings, include such equipment as freight cars, passenger cars, locomotives and structural betterments of rights-of-way.

Both allotments are subject to completion of satisfactory contracts between the carriers involved and the Federal administrator of public works. Negotiations for these contracts have been advanced during the past few days, following conferences between steel manufacturers, President Roosevelt, Administrator Ickes and Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of railroads.

Heavy Buying Is Goal.

In connection with the announcements of the initial railroad allotments by PWA, Ickes said: "These first allotments, totaling $135,000,000, were made in realization of the vast importance of quick spending of money in wages and the resultant widespread purchase of materials which may be accomplished through the purchase of railroad equipment.

"Money will be advanced from month to month as may be necessary to finance the purchase of equipment by the railroads. Interest will not be collected for the first year, as the Administration seeks to encourage such railroad purchases and not embarrass the carriers at this time by further immediate commitments."

Ickes said that while the PWA was ready to begin lending money to the railroads, all details have not yet been settled. These details, however, are not sufficiently important to hold up the program.

Firm Denied Rehearing On Loss of Blue Eagle

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 2 (AP).—The Birmingham NRA compliance board today denied the Sunshine Cleaners, Inc., a request for a rehearing and reconsideration of the order to surrender its NRA blue eagle for alleged code violations.

Al Garber, board chairman, told Francis Hare, attorney for the firm, that the local board lacked authority to reopen the case.

Shaw Funeral Services Set For Tomorrow

Head of Veterans' Bureau Appeal Board Dies of Heart Malady.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Capt. Charles Owen Shaw, chairman of the Central Board of Appeals, Veterans' Administration, at the Hysong undertaking establishment, Thirteenth and N streets northwest. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Capt. Shaw died suddenly yesterday morning of heart disease at his home, 6319 Connecticut avenue, Chevy Chase, Md. A native of Prince Georges County, he was educated at Georgetown and George Washington Universities and Beaune University, France.

During the war he saw service in the Argonne-Meuse offensive. At one time in his varied career he was a Shakespearian actor.

He was a member of George Washington Post, No. 1, American Legion; LaFayette Lodge, No. 19, F. A. A. M.; Albert Pike Consistory, the National Sojourners Club, the Military Order of the World War, and the Craftsman's Club of the Veterans' Administration.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Martha Farr, Forestville, Md., and Mrs. Mary Parker, and a brother, James E. R. Shaw, of this city.

3 Bombs Rock Cuban Streets

Blasts Mark Renewal of Disorder in Turbulent Island Republic.

Havana, Nov. 3 (Friday) (AP). Three bombs exploded in quick succession in Havana early today, marking renewal of disorders accompanying Cuba's political and economic unrest.

The first exploded shortly after midnight, within a few minutes by another in midtown Havana that shattered store windows and damaged Angeles street.

Meanwhile, Col. Carlos Mendieta, leader of the powerful Nationalist Union, shied from the provisional presidency offered him.

Delegates from nearly all Cuba's important political factions—the A. B. C., the O. C. R. R., the A. B. C. R. and even the Menocalists—pressed Mendieta, who will celebrate his sixtieth birthday Saturday, to accept. They argued that he is the only man who can "save the situation."

The Nationalists had another formula. Let some one else be named president, they urged, some one with whom Mendieta can cooperate fully.

Cotton Plan Hangs On Tenant Dispute

Compromise Gives Same Housing as Last Year.

Landlords who join in the cotton production control plan for next year probably will have to agree to provide houses for the same number of tenants as this year, according to the Associated Press.

Farm officials today were almost ready to accept this proviso as a compromise in the argument over the landlord-tenant question. The clause has been written into the tentative contract which growers who join the cotton campaign will sign, but final approval is lacking.

Doctors Remove Toy From Baby's Throat

Philadelphia, Nov. 2 (AP).—A tiny toy was removed from the esophagus of Daniel Bovenmyer, 30 months old, of Ottumwa, Iowa, in an operation at Jefferson Hospital late today.

Physicians said the child's condition was "very good" and he was discharged from the hospital to start home late tonight, with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Bovenmyer.

G. A. J. Ricker Dies Following Short Illness

Held Post as Consulting Engineer on Special R. F. C. Board.

George Alfred Joy Ricker, 70, engineer, who built the Niagara Falls Gorge Railway and supervised construction of the famed Storm King Highway in New York, died of pneumonia here last night.

Ricker was a member of the board of consulting engineers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He was ill only a few days at his home in the Woodley Apartments, Columbia road and Mintwood place.

A native of Portsmouth, N. H., and a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Ricker had wide experience as an engineer for railways and power companies.

In 1915-16 he was editor of Motordom, official organ of the New York State Automobile Association. He came to Washington as representative of the Portland Cement Association in 1918.

Ricker was a member of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the American Society of Civil Engineers and a former president of the Washington chapter; the Western Society of Engineers, the Cosmos Club, and the All Souls' Unitarian Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Bessie Turner Ricker, and a brother, Charles Ricker, of Havana. Funeral arrangements had not been made last night.

"Radical" Gold Policy Assailed

12 Midwest Professors Demand "Swift Public Dissent."

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP).—Twelve Midwest university professors, versed in economics, money and banking, today called for a "swift and public dissent" to what they termed "radical experimentation with our currency" by the National Administration.

They declared, in a statement published in the Daily News, that the Administration's monetary policy was at error because "the gold content of the dollar is relatively unimportant in general price restoration, when compared with bank credit actually at work."

"It is now assumed in Washington that the price of gold and the prices of other commodities move automatically in the same direction," the statement said, "and apparently that there is too much gold in the dollar to get the benefits of a higher price level.

"The relationship of gold to prices is complicated and indirect. It is a sobering thought that the 1926 price level was based on a gold dollar of the old weight. The high prices of 1926 were not due to manipulation of the gold weight of the dollar, but were dependent upon a broad use of bank credit."

Nation Supporting NRA, Says George

Senator Expects Congress to Remedy Defects.

Atlanta, Nov. 2 (AP).—Senator Walter F. George (Democrat), Georgia, said here today the National recovery program has the support and cooperation of a preponderance of American business men and citizens generally, although "certain phases of the program are open to justifiable criticism."

The senator said the "testing period through which we are now passing with the NRA was anticipated from the beginning," and that "in all probability the defects will be remedied at the coming session of Congress. There is a very definite spirit of cooperation manifested by American business, however, and progress toward industrial, commercial and aggricultural rehabilitation is certain to continue."

C. A. Gray, 75, Noted Portrait Painter, Dies

St. Louis, Nov. 2 (AP).—Charles Alden Gray, 75, portrait painter who listed President McKinley, Eugene Field, Opie Read and Mark Twain as subjects, died here today at a nursing home.

He is survived by his widow, a patient in the same institution.

Noted British Doctor Dies.

London, Nov. 2 (AP).—Sir George Henry Makins, 80, died today after a long medical career which included World War service and activities in Red Cross work and cancer research.

Machine Takes Guesswork Out of Matching Colors

New Device Sorts Wave Lengths of All Shades, Classifies Them.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—A new adding machine expected to take the last bit of guesswork out of matching colors was described to the United States Institute for Textile Research today.

The adding robot is part of a new spectrophotometer. Its job is to predict how any color will look to any reasonably normal eye in any kind of light. It is under development at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the laboratory of Dr. Arthur C. Hardy.

The spectrometer portion, already completed after 10 years' work, analyzes the slight differences in color which a trained human eye can just barely distinguish. Even this slight visible difference involves about 30 different wave lengths of light.

The photo-electric "eye," Dr. Harday explained, although it can excel the human eye in matching two colors in the same light, is unable to predict the appearance with entire accuracy if the light is changed.

The new machine sorts all the wave lengths of color and its adding machine attachment, an integrator, classifies them according to the variations in both changing light and human eyes.

Parks Office Change Shifts 400 Employes

Agriculture Turns Care of 51 Buildings to Interior.

Approximately 400 employes have been transferred from the Agriculture Department to the Interior as a result of the National Parks Office taking over the administration of 51 buildings formerly operated by the Department of Agriculture. The transfers, effective November 1, were announced yesterday by James F. Gill, assistant director of the buildings branch.

Most of the structures are located in the mall area.

Mr. Gill's division will take over all functions of the following units, including cleaning, guarding and maintenance:

Administration building, the Mall at Thirteenth street; mechanical shops, Thirteenth and Constitution avenue; power plant, Thirteenth and B southwest; Atlantic building, 928 F street northwest; Willard building, 513 Fourteenth street northwest; basement of 920 F street northwest; 918 F street northwest; 1004 I street northwest; south building, Thirteenth and B southwest; refrigeration plant, the Mall at Thirteenth street and garage at 220 Canal street southwest.

All functions of the following will be transferred, except cleaning: 300 Linworth place southwest, 908 B street southwest, 814 B southwest, 804 B southwest, 300 Fourteenth southwest, 224 Twelfth southwest, 215 Eighth southwest, 216 Thirteenth southwest, 220 Thirteenth southwest, 212 Thirteenth southwest, McKinley building in American University Park, 26 small frame structures adjacent to the McKinley building, 816 B southwest, the east wing at Twelfth street and the Mall and the west wing at Fourteenth and the Mall.

371st Officers Open 3-Day Reunion Today

The Association of Officers of the 371st Infantry will open a three-day reunion at 2 p. m. today with a visit to Fort Myer, where a special exhibition of acrobatic and rough riding will be given. Headquarters of the reunion will be at the Willard Hotel. The officers will visit Mount Vernon and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. War films will be shown at the hotel tonight.

A visit to the White House is planned tomorrow. The association will hold its annual dinner at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Willard.

School Cadets Inspected By Two New Officers

Two Army officers assigned to military instruction in public schools here made their first inspection of school cadets yesterday in the company of Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics.

The officers are First Lieut. John G. Hill and second Lieut. Paul W. Caraway, of the headquarters company, Sixteenth brigade headquarters in the Washington area.

Visiting 'Big Bad Wolf' Tamed by Jail Sentence

Thomas E. Oakes, 30, colored, self-styled "big bad wolf" from Chicago, howled in Police Court yesterday when he was sentenced to 30 days in jail for stealing newspapers from a rack.

Arrested by Policeman S. F. Smith, First Precinct, Oakes pulled a piece of glass from his pocket. "That's to cut throats of policemen like you," he said. But when Judge John P. McMahon sentenced him to jail he howled bitterly and begged to be freed.

* * * *

THE advisory board of actuaries, engaged in compiling a report to be used in the retirement rate calculations for the quinqennial revisions, expects to have its work completed and ready for presentation when Congress convenes, despite unexpected delays.

A vast amount of detail work involving the gathering of data as to periods of service and deductions as done by the Civil Service Commission, but owning to the large amount of actuarial details, together with other problems involved, the work has been unavoidably delayed. Reorganization activities involving the Bureau of Efficiency played a major part in the delay.

Preparatory work performed by the Civil Service Commission in connection with retirement rate revision also reached a greater volume than that handled in connection with the work five years ago. A new system was installed and used by the commission in gathering tabulating data for the currrent revision program.

It is pointed out, however, that the adoption and utilization of this new system will serve greatly to reduce the amount of work when the next revision is undertaken five years hence, in compliance with the retirement law.

ROBERT H. VORFELD, tariff expert with Federal Tariff Commission, who has returned from a year's leave of absence during which he was counselor on custom administration and laws to the Turkish government.

HAVING completed his work as counselor on custom administration and laws to the Turkish government, Robert H. Vorfeld, tariff expert, has returned to the United States, and will soon resume his official duties in the Division of International Relations of the United States Tariff Commission. He has been on leave of absence from the commission for more than a year.

While in Turkey, Mr. Vorfeld's headquarters were at Ankara. His work for the Turkish government was not new to him; he had had considerable experience in the framing and administration of customs laws in foreign countries. In 1926 he was a member of the Kemmerer Commission. Among the accomplishments of that commission were the drafting of the tariff law now in effect in Ecuador, and the planning of the present system of customs control and audit for Ecuador and Bolivia. At that time, under separate contract with the Bolivian government, Mr. Vorfeld drafted the present tariff law of that country.

During the World War, Mr. Vorfeld was a captain in the Army. He also is a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Mr. Vorfeld is married and his wife accompanied him to Turkey. They will reestablish their residence in Washington.

IN MEMORIAM

In the memory of a brother, SIDNEY

Underwood & Underwood.

It would be like that. The old-time paper-backed dime novel, such as we read by stealth in fear of paternal discipline, has gained recognition. Officials of the Library of Congress, declaring them historically accurate and furnishing only biographical record of many great pioneers of the West, are now adding them to their prize rare book collection. V. Valta Parma, in charge of the rare book collection, is shown examining some of the thrillers.

3,200 Interior Aids Win Step To Sure Jobs

Ickes Studies Report That Parks Office Employes Should Be Permanent.

Permanent status instead of the present temporary classification may be won soon by 3,200 employes in the Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations.

Secretary Ickes yesterday began considering an economy report from Arno B. Cammerer, director of that office, recommending return of those involved to permanent pay rolls. At present they receive no annual or sick leave.

The suggestion must be approved by Ickes and Budget Director Douglas before submission to President Roosevelt. Should that be done the President probably would issue an order assuring the workers of their positions.

Those concerned were given temporary jobs October 1 because Douglas was dissatisfied with elimination of only 97 workers in reorganization of the old National Park Service and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks. Efforts of the employes to regain their permanent status since have failed repeatedly.

Meanwhile, Interior Department officials were concerned over whether to regard as permanent or temporary employes 386 persons transferred to that unit from the Department of Agriculture.

Church Will Give Movie Shows on Sunday Night

Motion pictures will be shown in Pierce Hall, each Sunday evening, beginning November 5 under auspices of All Souls' Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets.

"The Man Who Played God," will be shown November 5; "Cavalcade," and a foreign-made musical comedy, "Be Mine Tonight," featuring the Polish star, Jan Kepura, November 26.

Stephen O'Dea Reported In Critical Condition

Victim of a heart attack, Stephen O'Dea, 57, 3537 New Hampshire avenue northwest, deputy United States marshal, was reported in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital.

Scavengering!

Society Folk Hunt Hair of Mustache and Goat.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Sixty-two men and women, eminent in New York society, slept late today to recover from the rigors of the city's first "scavengering," in which they underwent all sorts of suffering to collect such items as hairs from Kermit Roosevelt's mustache and the underthings of actresses.

In case you haven't heard, "scavengering" is a patrician pastime which threatens to succeed the treasure hunt, so long employed by sportive groups to get in other folks' way.

The "scavenger hunt" began last night in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. It ended in the same place in the little hours of the morning.

There were 24 items on the list and these were some of them:

A live monkey.

U. S. Gets Last Lien on Bonds

Holders of Home Owners' Security Come First, Cummings Rules.

Any money the United States may advance to pay interest on Home Owners Loan Corporation bonds will not be repayable to the Treasury until the bondholders have been paid their principal in full, Attorney General Cummings ruled yesterday.

The bonds, issued by the corporation to exchange for mortgages, are guaranteed as to interest by the Government. The corporation is authorized to issue up to $2,000,000,000 of these bonds.

The corporation asked the Attorney General for a ruling as to whether, when time comes for payment of principal of the bonds, any claim the Government may have for interest advanced would supersede the claim of the bondholders.

The ruling is expected to do much toward strengthening the bonds and making them acceptable to insurance companies, banks and building and loan organizations.

District Receives 10,000 Auto Tags

Lorton Has Delivered 61,000 in All.

From Lorton Reformatory 10,000 of the new 1934 license tags arrived yesterday at the Traffic Bupartment, bringing the total to 61,000 now catalogued and ready for distribution. All special tags and those for private cars through the letter G have been delivered.

Distribution of hackers', rental, sightseeing and other special plates will start November 15, and the balance November 27. Altogether 105,000 tags will be available, bearing all letters except Y and Z. These were discontinued two years ago when car owners were permitted to retain their same licenses in acquiring different machines instead of having to get a new set.

The ruling has saved the District $3,000 annually, according to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer. The District bore the expense of providing new plates in transfers.

Letters on 1934 tags follow: "A," Federal Government and District; "B," small trucks; "C," large trucks; "D," dealers; "H," taxicabs; "R," rentals; "S," sightseeing cars with a capacity of eight or more, and "SS," sightseeing cars accomodating less than eight.

Post Cooking School to Hold Night Session

Proper Cutting of Meat to Be Demonstrated by Expert.

Favored by exceptional weather the past three days, thousands of women have taken advantage of the sessions of The Washington Post Free Cooking School at the Washington Auditorium. Tonight, additional thousands will be enabled to attend because of the innovation of a night session beginning at 8 p. m.

In bringing these educational demonstrations to Washington, The Post was actuated by the desire to present more graphically the wealth of cooking information that appears in its daily women's pages.

Miss Ruth Chambers, who conducts the classes, is one of the country's foremost culinary experts whose menus and recipes have been a feature of The Post's news columns for the past month. The entertaining manner in which she explains her demonstrations has received the unanimous approval of each of her previous classes and tonight she plans an even more elaborate program.

Meat-Cutting Demonstration.

Paul Goeser, a meat-cutting expert of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, will also appear at the final session of the school tonight and give an exhibition of modern styles in meat cuts calculated to assure finest flavor and tenderness in meat dishes.

As an additional feature, more than 40 prizes, including a latest type Hot Point electric range, will be given to members of the audience.

Realizing that many Washington women who are employed during the day-time hours have an intense interest in cookery, The Washington Post has arranged to make this fourth and final session of its new and different cooking school an event that will long be remembered and that all may conveniently attend.

Plenty of Seats Provided.

Despite the large audiences of the past three days, the tremendous capacity of 6,000 seats at the Washington Auditorium is ample assurance that all will be advantageously seated. Electric amplifiers have also been installed to bring the voice of Miss Chambers to each of her listeners.

Women are especially invited to bring their husbands to this unusual demonstration of appetizing foods and the method of their preparation. The class will begin promptly at 8 p. m. and the auditorium doors will be opened at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Simon Heard Tonight.

Dr. Abram Simon will discuss domestic life and its interference with a career in a sermon at 8 o'clock tonight at the Washington Hebrew Congregation Synagogue.

Hospital Care Cuts Veterans Of Civil War

Those Not Being Treated Receive Full Amount of Pensions.

Only those Civil War veterans who receive hospital treatment or institutional care will have their pensions cut to $15 a month and not all veterans, as was mistakenly announced Wednesday, the Veterans' Administration said yesterday.

Officials explained that Congress in June, 1930, passed an act deducting $25 a month from pensions of veterans residing at the United States Soldiers' Home or at State soldiers' homes. The former compensation was at the rate of $75 or $100 a month, depending on physical condition. The economy act of 1933 further reduced all pensions 10 per cent. A director's order of October 13, officials explained, set a $15 maximum for soldiers receiving hospital, institutional or domiciliary care from the United States or any political subdivision, unless they have dependents.

If a soldier has dependents, they shall receive the difference between $15 and the amount the veteran would be entitled to otherwise. Dependents of a veteran in this classification whose pension was $75, would receive $27.50 ($75 less 10 per cent, less $25, less $15). Dependents of a veteran whose pension was $100 would receive $50.

Veterans living at soldiers' homes, whether Federal or State, receive $42.50 ($75 less 10 per cent, less $25), or $65 ($100 less 10 per cent, less $25). Veterans not living at soldiers' homes or not receiving care at an administration facility receive the full amount of their pensions, less the 10 per cent economy cut.

Boies Penrose's Confidant, 66, Dies

Wm. Underwood, Negro, Was Baptist Minister.

An aid to senators from Pennsylvania for the last 37 years, William Underwood, colored, 66 years old, of 4650 Hays street northeast, died at his home Wednesday. Funeral services will be held Sunday at the Mount Moriah Church.

Underwood, a Baptist preacher, was attendant and confidant to the late Senator Boies Penrose, when Penrose became an invalid and had to be pushed around in a wheel chair. In that capacity Underwood became known throughout Pennsylvania and in the Capital.

Senator Davis in telling of the colored man's death said that he would sadly miss him. Underwood is survived by nine children.

Buglers' Contest December 9.

The contest for council and assistant council buglers will be held December 9. Ten calls out of the following will be required: First call, scout call, reveille, mess, to the colors, officers' call, drill, assembly, recall, church, fatigue, fire, swimming, retreat, call to quarters and taps.

Indian Division Roundup.

The Indian division held its annual roundup at Randall Heights October 28. Troops 18, 27, 81, 89, 620 and 621 participated. There were contests and games.

Scouts Will Entertain.

Troop 221, of Riverdale Presbyterian Church, will entertain parents and friends November 10 with a program including moving pictures, patriotic songs, signaling, first-aid and tent-pitching demonstrations, and the Scout benediction.

The troop will hold an Armistice night program November 11, including a program of flag ceremonies and films.

Armistice Day Program.

Two honor Scouts from each troop will make up the Scouts' Armistice Day delegation to Arlington on November 11. Transportation will be by bus. Official uniforms, including Scout hats, are to be worn.

C. M. O. Will Meet.

It is expected that more than 100 members of the C. M. O. (Camp Roosevelt Honor Society) will participate in an outdoor rally at Braemer Forest at 6 p. m. November 11.

Robert Myers is committee chairman, and Dave Barber, Stewart Pool, Fred Stuart and Bill Stephenson members. A big campfire will be lighted, with songs and stories.

Zanzig Addresses Classes.

A. E. Zanzig, of New York, a specialist in the field of recreation, particularly musical programs, addressed two Scout leader training courses this week, the Sea Scout Leaders on Tuesday and the principles of elements course, Wednesday.

Scouts Pass Tests.

Court at Powell School.

To first class—W. F. Wright, Troop 8; Jack Gordman and William Severn, 48; Wendel Morgan, 51, Ernest Dinsemore, 56; Bill Rowland 57, and Harold Francis, 64.

To second class—Blake Thompson, Troop 5; Fred W. Koneman, jr., 14; David Libert, 31; Raphael Cahn, 49; Everene Eades, 45; Earl Underwood, 79; Lloyd Jones, 88; Joseph F. Campbell, 56.

Qualified for merit badges—Troop 8, Tim Wright, bugling; Bronson Smith, public health; Richard Ruoof, public health; Jack Riggles, public health; Arthur Smith, first aid; Thornton Burnet, pathfinding; Ned Nye, reading. Troop 28, Carl Brown, reading; George Harwood, reading, masonry, first aid. Troop 67, Harold Francis, pioneering. Troop 69, Deforest Barnes, bird study; William Hellmuth, cooking. Troop 211, Jo. V. Morgan, reptile study. Troop 640, Oscar Reed, carpentry, handicraft, woodcarving.

Reciprocal Tariffs.

Reciprocal trade agreements are favored by a large number of American manufacturers, shippers, bankers and other commercial groups, according to a survey made by the National Foreign Trade Council and the Council on Inter-American Relations. Through questionnaires sent out by these organizations more than 40 chambers of commerce and trade associations indorsed a suggestion that Congress authorize the President "to conclude reciprocal agreements with foreign nations by blanket authority expressly delegated for this purpose, within limits enabling him to make effective use of the bargaining power of the United States in these negotiations."

At various times in American history the business interests of the country have supported a policy of tariff adjustments on a reciprocal basis. It is worthy of note, however, that reciprocal tariff agreements have worked out successfully only in the cases of Hawaii and Cuba, where economic interests were supplemented by strong political ties.

Reciprocity, as a principle, arouses visions of trade flowing between nations on a mutually profitable basis. But when actual products on which duties may be reduced are selected by negotiators a groundwork for vehement protests is laid.

If the United States, for example, should agree to modify restrictions against wheat and beef in favor of Argentine producers in return for a lower Argentine tariff on automobiles, emphatic denunciation of the bargain could be expected from the farm belt. Probably no item of importance in the entire tariff schedules could be reduced without protest. To stimulate exports in one industry by permitting greater imports in some other field is an extremely delicate undertaking, if the imports enter into competition with domestic enterprises.

Most of the reciprocal tariff agreements that have been negotiated by the United States have been rejected by Congress or abrogated after trial. Economic and political considerations have prevented effective trade promotion by this method, even though the principle of reciprocal tariffs has been widely indorsed. In recent years the difficulties of negotiating such treaties have multiplied. Since 1922 the United States has concluded a number of most-favored-nation treaties which require this country to extend to other nations any concessions that may be granted to a single country through the bargaining process.

The majority of the business men and industrialists who answered questionnaires in the recent survey favor continuation of the American policy of treating all nations alike. The Tariff Commission also has recommended that the unconditional most-favored-nation treaties be preserved. If this policy should be maintained and bargaining should be confined largely to non-competitive products, any trade that might be gained through reciprocal agreements is likely to be of a special nature and limited in volume.

Hunting the Hunter.

According to Dr. Gilbert Pearson, president of the Audubon Societies concerned with the preservation of wild life in America, the depression has precipitated a destruction of birds and beasts that is imperiling the whole conservation movement. On the eve of a hunting season for wild fowl, Dr. Pearson warns that the hunter is recklessly rifling the game preserves of the Nation.

"Because of unsettled financial conditions," he says, "illegal shooting of birds and game animals has increased, due to unemployment and the natural urge of men to secure food." He complains that the attitude of judges and magistrates has been too lenient towards game law violators, and predicts that, unless the situation is remedied, this generation will witness an end of the hunting of water fowl as a sport.

On the heels of Dr. Pearson's arraignment of the American hunter, William B. Courtney, writing in this week's Colliers, issues a challenging reply. According to Courtney, writing in this week's Collier's, is an ancient and sentimental myth that has endangered an effective restoration of wild life in America because it has resulted in misdirecting the energies of nature lovers.

One current indictment estimates that hunters are responsible for 90 per cent of the disappearance of wild life. To this defenders of the hunter reply that 10 per cent would be high. Recently, Dr. Gardner Bump, superintendent of the Bureau of Game of New York State, probed the matter scientifically. In a favorable year, Dr. Bump studied 100 grouse and found that 55 per cent were eaten in the embryo by predators — foxes, skunks and crows. Twenty-five per cent, he discovered, were killed by natural foes within three months of hatching. Only 20 per cent reached their full growth, and of these eight were killed by cats and foxes. Nine lived two years, and three were killed by hunters.

As Courtney sees it, predators, disease and industrial development have been the real enemies of wild life. Man's factories polluted rivers and marshes. His dams closed up rivers to fish. His timber cutting evicted the moose and elk. His cultivation of the soil drastically reduced grazing areas. His carelessness with dying embers spread forest fires and wiped out many communities of game. Moreover, the white man brought to America additional foes of wild life—cats, rats and dogs. Cats alone, according to estimates, devour some 600,000,000 birds annually. And when one recalls that evolution has a long established habit of extinguishing species without human interference, Courtney wonders why the hunter is so hunted.

He cites an interesting illustration to show that civilization has been much more of a menace to wild fowl than hunting. A great breeding region for wild ducks lies on both sides of the boundary between Canada and the United States. During the war and afterwards large areas of this region were drained to grow wheat. The soil proving to be alkaline, wheat production was abandoned. But the drainage ditches remained, leaving the soil dry and unusable by either man or fowl.

Conservationist activities, Mr. Courtney thinks, should be redirected along lines of attacking the real pirates of our forests and fields—disease, predators, and short-sighted acts of man. The "demon hunter" legend should be given a rest.

Gold Prices and Commodities.

A table published by the Wall Street Journal shows the relationship of gold prices to the prices of securities and commodities for various dates since last April, when the United States officially suspended gold payments. The record is not of a character to cheer the hearts of the believers in the magical properties of a managed dollar having a varying gold value.

On July 18, for instance, when the gold exchange value of the dollar in London stood at 68.5 cents, the Dow-Jones index of industrial stocks reached 176 (April 17 equals 100); that is, it was 76 per cent above the mid-April level. The bond index stood at 120 and Moody's commodity index at 163.1. Wheat had advanced 57 per cent above the April figure and cotton was 75 per cent above April quotations.

By September 20, when the gold value of the dollar in London had fallen to 64.5 cents, the index of industrial stocks had declined to 167 from the July figure of 176, and the bond index had dropped to 113. Meantime, wheat and cotton had fallen until they were only 28 per cent and 50 per cent, respectively, above April levels.

At the end of October, with our domestic gold buying program already launched and re-enforced by announcement of our intention to buy gold abroad in order to depress the gold value of the dollar, the dollar was above the September 20 level in London, the industrial stock index had declined further to 143, the bond index to 110, wheat to 120, and cotton to 145.

Day to day scrutiny of the record for the past few days, moreover, shows that the rise in the R. F. C. buying price for gold has not been accompanied by a corresponding advance in London gold quotations, nor has the gold exchange value of the dollar varied greatly.

The record is not very long in point of time, but it is sufficiently extended and comprehensive to give refutation to the arguments of those who have maintained that prices within the country could be controlled by manipulating the gold value of the dollar.

American Ship Canals.

Funds for the survey of a proposed ship canal connecting the Atlantic Ocean with the Gulf of Mexico across northern Florida and southern Georgia have been set aside by the Public Works Administration. Indications are that, if the Army engineers who are to conduct the survey make a favorable report, the P. W. A. will consider the allotment of funds to construct the canal.

Apparently this project involves no unusual engineering difficulties. The canal would be dug through land that is mostly flat and swampy. The principal question involved seems to be whether it is economically feasible. It is proposed to dig a channel 38 feet deep and 200 feet wide for a distance of 160 miles. Such a canal, it is said, would shorten the route between Atlantic coast ports and Gulf ports by more than 500 miles. Would the saving of time, fuel, &c., justify the expense of building this canal?

The proposed waterway would be comparable to the Suez Canal, which recently was enlarged to a minimum depth of 42½ feet and a minimum width of 197 feet. It also is cut through level country, and is operated without locks.

Since early colonial days Americans have been a canal-building people. Before the advent of the railroads thousands of miles of waterways, mostly barge canals, were constructed. In more recent years many barge canals have been abandoned, and new developments in this field have been concentrated upon ship canals and canalization of rivers so that they may be navigated by large vessels.

No Farmers' Migration.

One of the dreams cherished by agricultural planners is the removal of submarginal lands from cultivation. Farmers as a group, it is said, are producing too much wheat, cotton and corn for their own good. Some of the land under cultivation is not sufficiently fertile to yield a reasonable livelihood to the families that work it. Hence, the planners say, this land should be taken out of the hands of farmers and devoted to non-agricultural uses.

No one can object to this theory, so far as it goes. But who is going to decide what land is submarginal? By what authority is it to be set aside for non-agricultural uses? And what shall be done with the people who are now cultivating these unproductive acres?

An outburst of resentment in Oklahoma against a suggestion by Secretary Ickes that farmers in some drought-stricken areas of the Panhandle should move to more suitable land gives a realistic touch to the problems involved in submarginal land clearance. A delegation approached the administrator of the public works fund, requesting aid in the construction of dams in the drought area. A system of reservoirs, it is contended, would change the atmospheric conditions in this region and thus diminish losses resulting from drought.

But the Public Works Administration does not look with favor upon this scheme to have the sun lift moisture out of artificial lakes and distribute it over agricultural fields. Army engineers have said that it is not feasible to change the climate of the Panhandle in this way.

In Guymon, Beaver and Buffalo it is little short of blasphemy to suggest that this region is not fit for modern farming. The thought of moving to more fertile land impressed one farmer as a "fantastical idea of one who is entirely ignorant of the possibilities of this great wheat-producing area." Whether or not Gov. Murray concurred in this sentiment, he threatened to call out the National Guard if any effort should be made to move farmers out of Oklahoma.

Secretary Ickes emphatically disavows any intention of forcing a migration from the Panhandle. Consequently, the situation remains just as it was before. Oklahoma's climate probably will remain about the same. Sand storms may continue to bury or destroy crops on some occasions. Drought may threaten the wheat at frequent intervals. But will Oklahoma farmers consider moving to California or any other State? What treason!

The Mixtecan Relics.

Washington is enjoying the unusual opportunity of inspecting remarkable evidences of early Mexican culture which were uncovered at Monte Alban in the State of Oaxaca last year. The gold and jeweled ornaments found with the mummies of six Mixtec chieftains have become world-famous, testifying as they do to the advancement of the natives of the new world before the Spanish conquest.

The first presumption regarding the rich find in Oaxaca was that it pertained to the Zapotec Indians, who occupied that region before the Mayas and Aztecs and built the tombs on Monte Alban. The discovery of Tomb No. 7 was due to the work of a young Mexican archaeologist, Alfonso Caso, and a group of associates. After the fruitless excavation of six other tombs the seventh revealed rich treasure in ornaments and art objects that were distinctly Mixtecan.

Mr. Caso explains their presence in the territory of their enemies, the Zapotecs, by suggesting that the Mixtecan chiefs probably had been slain in battle with the Zapotecs and were buried while the invading forces were in possession of Monte Alban. This theory is supported by the care with which the existence of the tombs had been concealed.

The varied treasures are on exhibition this week at the building of the Pan American Union. They were displayed recently at the Century of Progress in Chicago and at several points in the special car which brought them from Mexico. The variety and beauty of the exhibits exceed the expectations of those who had read of their artistic merit.

Many of the gold ornaments are exquisite in the delicacy of their carving, while numerous necklaces of jade, turquoise, coral, pearl and gold beads testify to the skill and taste of those early artists. The collection contains what are considered the largest pearls in the world and a goblet of rock crystal, which, it is estimated, must have called for a life-time of labor on the part of the artist.

This interesting display was brought to Washington in response to a combined invitation from the Carnegie Institution and George Washington University and the treasures are being shown to the Capital in the appropriate setting of the Pan American Union building.

"Public Enemy" Laws.

Law enforcement officials still are searching for an effective means of dealing with known criminals in cases where it is impossible to connect them with any specific crime. "Every sizable community," says Dr. Walter N. Thayer, commissioner of correction for New York State, "has persons who have no visible means of support but live well, who have criminal records and consort with known criminals. Yet society must wait until a crime is committed."

A number of methods have been devised, designed to catch the habitual criminal while he is living on the proceeds of past crime and probably planning future depredations upon society. Illinois and Michigan have used the so-called "public enemy" law. But the Michigan law has been set aside on the grounds of unconstitutionality.

No doubt law enforcement can be strengthened by tightening up vagrancy laws. Yet statutes of this kind usually apply only to persons without visible means of support, and many desperate gangsters are well supplied with cash as well as the necessities of life.

Some communities are experimenting with the English policy of keeping individuals with criminal records under surveillance. Ex-convicts can be required to register with law enforcement officers and keep them informed as to any changes of address. This method affords no guarantee that the registered individuals will not indulge in crime, but the fact that their habitats are known to the police may serve as a deterrent to crime.

No broadside measure aimed at all persons who have committed crimes, however, can take the place of effective police work and court action whenever a felony is committed. Dr. Thayer recently estimated that in about 82 per cent of all crimes no penalty is imposed. It appears that the odds are so overwhelmingly in favor of escape or exoneration for the criminal that he is willing to take a chance. Swift and certain punishment for the actual commission of crime remains a greater deterrent than any attempt to prevent crime through "public enemy" statutes.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

GREECE AND MR. INSULL.

• • • •

The Greek courts won the second game and rubber from the United States in the contest for the Insull trophy and now get permanent possession.

• • • •

If you want to skip the country and avoid extradition, choose the isles of Greece. The scenery is unchallenged, the hotels are reasonable, the climate is lovely and the Supreme Court has an outlook no fugitive can criticize.

• • • •

In the 1934 Baedeker the information about Athens should include the paragraph:

"Special provisions made for comfort and protection of visitors in full flight. Runner is protected at all times, but no encouragement is given pursuer. Interesting buildings include the Supreme Court, well worth a visit, particularly if you are being chased."

• • • •

The United States authorities have been trying to get Mr. Insull from the Greeks ever since the Chicago utilities magnate left the United States in the big wind and turned up abroad singing "The isles of Greece! The isles of Greece! Where burning Sappho loved and sung."

• • • •

Uncle Sam thought he had the necessary papers and his lawyers told him he had the necessary reasons, but he never got to first base with those Greek judges.

• • • •

• • • •

The court, after hearing all the evidence, seemed about to hand down a decision authorizing Mr. Insull to issue more stock and vote the proxies any way he chose.

• • • •

The verdict was unanimously in favor of incorporating Mr. Insull under the Greek laws, splitting him five for one and letting him rebuild the Acropolis as a first-class office building.

• • • •

Every time one of Uncle Sam's lawyers cited an argument why the Chicago tycoon should be ceded to America the Greek justices handed him an Insull prospectus and offered to let him in on the ground floor.

• • • •

When the arguments were all concluded the Greek court barred further motions, voted for expansion with a $2,000,000,000 issue of new stock, rejected all offers of a merger and held Mr. Insull a Grade A Greek investment.

• • • •

• • • •

The court wouldn't even consider an American offer to exchange Insull for three other American financiers just as good.

OBVIOUSLY.

Charlie Chaplin was kidnaped and held for ransom in August, it develops. Until he produced the $20,000 the kidnapers held him in their custard-y, of course.

• • • •

Mr. Chaplin paid the money promptly and was released the next morning. Maybe he got enough ideas for a new scenario to consider the episode a bargain.

Living Religions

If one wishes to obtain an idea of all the active religions of the world, one can not do better than buy "The Treasure House of Living Religion," by Robert E. Hume. A large number of religions have become extinct. This book presents only those which have many living supporters.

It is interesting to observe that of such religions, there are 11; that they all originated in Asia; that only two are later in birth than Christianity. Prof. Hume has read the books of these 11 religions, nearly all in their original languages. His brief introduction is full of valuable and condensed information. What makes a religion survive?

Then the rest of the volume is an anthology of all 11 religions, showing by carefully selected extracts from their various holy books what they individually teach on such subjects as worship, belief in God, brotherly love and kindness, humility, war and the ideals of human behavior. Who is the best man? What qualities must he possess to be called good?

As we frequently hear the statement that morality is nothing more than convention; that what is moral in one locality is immoral in another, &c.; that there are no universal standards, &c., I think readers of this valuable work will be rather surprised to see how universal is the ideal of goodness. Any one who followed the moral teachings of almost any one of these religions would lead a good life. The conception of a true gentleman, as taught by Mencius in the third century before Christ, is just about the same as that held by an enlightened American in 1933.

You Can't Use a River's Power if You Poison the Water for Those Below.

By Robert Quillen.

If men of understanding do nothing to prevent hard times, it isn't because they don't know how. It is simply because they haven't the courage to face facts and do the thing that is necessary.

There is no mystery about the origin of depressions. Hard times invariably follow a boom period—and a boom is a period of abnormal production.

In boom times there is a development of new territory or the building of many railroads or the laying out of new town sites. Labor is much in demand and wages are high. Money is easy to get. Workers spend their money freely, thus increasing demand for goods and encouraging the building of more factories. Because prices are good, farmers cultivate more land and produce bigger crops.

But the money that circulates so freely is not new wealth. The extra money spent for construction and paid as wages is borrowed.

The country is spending its accumulated capital—its savings. And while it feels richer it is actually making itself poorer.

The result—however long delayed—is inevitable.

Since there is no central planning and every man is free to build or produce as much as he wishes, the time comes when production runs ahead of the country's ability to consume.

Farm crops can not find a market or they sell below the cost of production; skyscrapers can find no tenants, and factories are making more shoes, shirts, automobiles, radios and miscellaneous gadgets than people can buy.

The result is loss of invested money and universal hard times.

Now if every new skyscraper, hotel and factory and every farm and industrial expansion had been financed by a single indivdual who used his own money, other people might have no right to complain.

But the unnecessary construction of boom times is financed by selling stock to the public or by borrowing the public's money from banks.

And surely the people have a right to interfere wth a system that squanders their savings and by its folly deprives them of their jobs.

Since the reckless and uncontrolled expansion of boom times is the cause of the hard times that follow, the obvious remedy is central control and planning of all production.

If there are now enough hat factories to supply the domestic and foreign market, it is an offense against every citizen to permit a dozen more men to borrow the public's money and build more hat factories to endanger the investment and the jobs of those already in the business.

Organizing the Nation's energies and operating as a unit for the welfare and protection of all citizens might interfere with "personal liberty," but what citizen has the right to set up a factory that endangers all others?

Press Comment

A Machine Gun Code.
Boston Transcript.

Manufacturers of small arms, it is reported from Washington, will be required to include in their code of fair competition a provision that machine guns shall be sold to private organizations only after their character has been certified by the Attorney General or the Secretary of War. Senator Copeland, chairman of the Senate's committee investigating racketeering, is quoted as authority for the statement that the President has ordered the change in the code. The purpose is to prevent machine guns from falling into the hands of criminals. That there is now approach to free trade in these deadly weapons was indicated when it was shown that Kathryn Kelly, since sentenced to life imprisonment for her share in the Urschel kidnaping, bought a machine gun in a pawn shop in Texas.

Miriam Not Explicit.
Kansas City Times.

In welcoming Vice President Garner and Postmaster General Farley to a meeting at Dallas, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas, referred to both men as "probably future Presidents." But the question of precedence is vital, and the governor unfortunately neglected to state which should be first and when.

Useful Russian Imports.
Kansas City Star.

It is discouraging to find, just as we get ready to recognize Russia, that so many of her principal products are those in which we already have a great surplus, but glancing over the names that appear in the news from Russia from time to time we are sure the trade agreement should afford us a lot of first-class tackles, ends and half backs that would fit right in with our own all-Americans, for whom we can easily trade them almost any given number of economists and lawyers.

Tied to War Dogs.
Topeka Capital.

In the event of a European war this country can keep out, even to the extent of letting neutrality rights go, if desirable. England is not so free. As one British editor sadly remarks, "We are tied to Europe like a tin can to a mad dog's tail."

Along the Potomac

With
Carlisle Bargeron

I DON'T think there would be so much confusion about the new NRA rotating plan if it were made plain that it is not to take the place of the Four-H clubs. It is to be another organization of the kind, so to speak, but the Four-H clubs sponsored by the Department of Agriculture are to be maintained.

BARGERON.

These clubs, you know, are organized in the rural communities and designed to develop the culture of corn. Membership is confined to children corn growers. Every year the boy or girl who raises the best corn wins a free trip to Washington. First he or she, as the case may be, is equipped with a Four-H ribbon and a carnival walking cane.

• • • •

IN the interest of efficiency the best corn growers of a particular corn-growing section meet at a central point for the trip here. Then they are placed in buses and with streamers identifying them and their bent they come rolling into the Nation's Capitol with much merry making. Once here they are lodged in hotels which cater to such excursions and daily they sally forth in buses to see the sights, the Washington Monument, the White House, Arlington, Mount Vernon and, above all, the Senate and the House.

At night they spend their time dropping paper bags filled with water out of their hotel windows onto the heads of pedestrians.

• • • •

SOMEBODY down at the NRA, very likely Gen. Johnson himself, has conceived the idea of extending this plan to the country's business men and industrialists. Instead of letting Walter Teagle, Gerard Swope and a few others stay here all the time, a rotating system has been adopted, by which a group of business men and industrialists will be brought here for four-month stays. Then they will go away and another group will come.

The idea is to let them see the Nation's Capital, and become imbued with the atmosphere and beauty and lofty purpose of our country as they are exemplified here.

• • • •

PRESUMABLY as much will be done to make their excursion an enjoyable one as is done for the corn-growing youngsters. I do not know what is to be the process of selection, but I suppose it will be something on the order of rewarding the man who turns out the best code or who gets up the best essay on the NRA.

The country will be divided into sections for the purpose. The winners in the West each four months will meet at Chicago, those in the South in Atlanta and those in the East at New York. There they will find buses chartered for the purpose awaiting them and a Blue Eagle screaming what fun is to be had.

Each man will be equipped, as are the youngsters, with a carnival cane and a flaming hat-band inscribed: Oh, you kid!" and "Ain't we having fun!"

Chaperons will be provided so no wife need worry about letting her husband make the trip.

• • • •

THE rules for their stay and conduct, of course, will not be so rigid as those for the youngsters, except some sort of check necessarily will have to be maintained. Ordinarily the curfew will ring at 11 o'clock, but two days a week it is planned to let the fellows go out on their own; let them go around to the speakeasies and follow other pursuits of the tired business man.

There need be no fear on their part that their style will be unnecessarily cramped. We have bureaus here in Washington and sociologists who know what the tired business man away from home wants in the way of play. Our professors here know full well they will not want the same kind of entertainment as the corn-growing youngsters. This is to say, they have made studies of human needs and recognize fully a distinction here, first because the t. b. m. is not a corn grower and, secondly, because he is not a youngster.

After a four months' stay here he will be treated for his headache and given a certificate to show that he has served the new deal. The NRA will be made popular yet.

Just Folks.

Two Windows.

My office window looks on brick
And steel and granite stone
And pavements hard and cold and gray where only trade is known.
I look between the buildings tall
And all I see is strife
And wonder if such wearying care
Is all there is to life.
And did I catch no broader view
Than this I daily see
I'd wonder if this world is what God fashioned it to be.

But in my little room at home, safe settled in my chair,
I look another window through and loveliness is there.
The grass is green, the flowers are bright, the birds are on the wing,
And I discover life is not a cold and sordid thing.

The people passing up and down seem happy to be out.
And looking at earth's gentler scenes, the thought occurs to me

Briton Ousts Malta Cabinet In 'Emergency'

Governor Assumes Full Powers After Fight on Natives' Language.

Valetta, Malta, Nov. 2 (AP).—Gen. Sir David Campbell, the British governor, dissolved the Maltese Parliament and proclaimed a state of emergency in this British fortified island tonight.

The immediate cause of the development concerned teaching of Italian in elementary schools, on which the Nationalist ministry insisted, contrary to British demands.

Dismissal of the defiant Maltese government was received quietly by the populace. A ban on public meetings was decreed a fortnight ago.

London, Nov. 2 (AP).—Sir David Campbell is satisfied that a grave emergency has arisen in Malta, the colonial office said tonight.

Sir David consequently dismissed Sir Hugo Misfud, the prime minister, and the cabinet atnd assumed complete constitutional powers, a communique added. The statement concluded:

"There have been in the ordinary day-to-day administration a number of instances indicating the ministers neglected few opportunities, however small, of displaying their disinclination to work in harmony with the government of his majesty.

Woman Scorns Answering Jew

Then She Does for Half Hour in Nazi Inquiry in New York.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Maria Griebl announced today she would not answer questions put to her before a grand jury by a Jewish attorney, but she did—for half an hour.

After she left the grand jury room she said she had not known that Assistant U. S. Attorney William W. Prager, who questioned her, was a Jew.

"If I am called down here again I will not answer questions he puts to me," she said.

Mrs. Griebl was subpenaed as a witness in the inquiry into the activities of Heinz Spanknoebel, reputed Nazi agent, who is being sought on a Federal warrant charging he failed to register with the State Department as a diplomatic agent. Her husband, Dr. Ognatz A. Griebl, former president of the Friends of New Germany, accompanied her.

Mrs. Griebl's statement that she would refuse to answer questions by a Jew was made in an anteroom before testifying.

Grocer's 'Gift' Case Seen as NRA Test

Supreme Court to Pass on Price-Fixing Suit.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP).—Because Leo Nebbia, a grocer, gave away a loaf of bread with a bottle of milk the Supreme Court of the United States will pass upon a State's right to fix the price of milk.

Nebbia's objection to minimum-price regulations of the State milk control board may become a focal point for a test of other State laws, the NRA and A. A. A. price-fixing provisions.

With his name on the docket of the Nation's highest court and a hearing set for December 4, Nebbia is puzzled by all the excitement.

Strike Compromise Sought in Georgia

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 2 (AP).—Efforts to reach a compromise between managers of the Sibley-Enterprise mills and strikers that would send 2,000 employes back to work were being made tonight by members of the Cotton-Textile Industrial Relations Board.

Negotiations conducted by Robert W. Bruere, chairman, and Ben Geer, of the board, already had resulted in resumption of operations at the King Mill.

The plant opened today and two shifts changed without trouple under an agreement there would be no picketing.

British Troops Balk Disorder In Holy Land

Threat of Demonstration Against Jews Fails to Materialize.

Jerusalem, Nov. 2 (AP).—The British military rule has taken such a firm grip on the Holy Land as the result of disturbances by Arabs against an increasing Jewish immigration during the past week that the traditional Arab demonstrations against the Balfour declaration today failed to materialize.

The Balfour document affirmed the British intention to facilitate the establishment of a Jewish National Home in Palestine and every year its anniversary has been marked by demonstrations.

A low-flying airplane dispersed crowds of Arabs from Wadi Hawaredh. They were moving toward Tulkarem, where they intended to participate in a protest movement.

Turbanned Bedouin tribesmen were dismayed by the maneuvers of the pilots. A number of Communists were arrested. A general Arab strike, which continued throughout Palestine, paralyzed the port of Jaffa and seven ships were unable to unload cargoes.

Jailed Writer, Freed, Ordered To Quit Reich

Panter Agrees to Leave Germany in Two Days; Hides Movements.

Munich, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP). Noel Panter, British newspaperman, accused of incorrectly reporting a Nazi gathering, was freed today from the Munich Jail and ordered to leave Germany within 48 hours as an undesirable alien.

Panter signed a statement he would quit Germany in two days. He planned to remain at a hotel here overnight with his brother, Dr. Panter. It was said he needed rest. Every effort was made to keep his movements secret.

His brother will remain here to wind up the correspondent's affairs. The British consulate general, to which an officer escorted Panter, was held responsible for seeing to it that the prisoner left Germany.

Panter, Munich correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, has been held since October 25 on a preliminary charge of suspicion of espionage.

Japan Draws Troops From North China

Evacuation Regarded as Aimed at Heavy Guard on Soviet Frontier.

Peiping, China, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—The Japanese army began swift evacuation of troops south of the Great Wall today after nearly six months' occupation of the north China area.

This suden change of front resulted in orders to Japanese commanders to quit scores of passes in the Great Wall, withdrawing their men northward into Jehol Province and Manchukuo.

The move was regarded in military circles here as part of Japan's new campaign to strengthen her forces in north Manchuria, along the Soviet border, where fresh outbreaks have threatened recently.

Moved to Harbin.

The Japanese troops released by the evacuation order were understood to have been ordered to posts at Harbin and vicinity, in connection with renewed tension over the Chinese Eastern Railway, which Japan is seeking, through Manchukuo, to acquire from Soviet Russia. At present, it is jointly owned by Russia and Manchukuo.

The evacuation releases at least a full division of Japanese troops. The passes being evacuated include at least six major strategic points, such as Shanhaikwan, on the sea, an Kupeikou, north of Peiping.

The action coincides with highly significant conversations in Peiping between Minister Ariyoshi, of Japan, and Gen. Huang Fu, chairman of the Chinese Peiping Political Council.

In diplomatic quarters, it was believed that an understanding has been reached between the Chinese government and Japan, against Soviet Russia.

Soviet Pushes Campaign.

Moscow, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Soviet government leaders are conducting a campaign calling upon 5,000,000 members of the Communist youth organization to be in readiness for military defense of the Soviet Union, it was revealed today.

"The recognition of the growing significance of the Soviet Union in international affairs finds ever new confirmation," Premier Viacheslav Molotov said.

Lazar Kaganovich, of the Polit-Buro, warned Soviet Russia's enemies not "to test your strength against us, or you'll burn yourselves."

Roosevelt Awards Prize to Essayist

Milwaukee Youth Given $500 for First Place.

President Roosevelt, as honorary president of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, yesterday presented the $500 Doherty prize to Joseph S. Brendler, Milwaukee high school graduate, for the best essay on insect control.

The presentation was made in the presence of Admiral Cary T. Grayson, president of the institute; Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, donors of the award, and others.

The essay, on "The Problem of the Mosquito and Other Insect Life in Relation to Sanitation, Health and Industry," was selected from 18,000 entries. Among other prize winners was Miss Margaret M. Harris, of Baltimore, who received second award of $150.

Impeachment Of Two Kansas Officers Asked

Attorney General, State Auditor Involved in Bond Scandal.

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 2 (AP).—Impeachment proceedings against Attorney General Roland Boynton and Will J. French, State auditor, were recommended by a special legislative investigating committee today in connection with the million-dollar Kansas bond scandal.

The investigators' findings were referred to the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives.

Neglect of duty on the part of Boynton and French was alleged with respect to transactions of Ronald Finney, young broker charged with having manipulated the bond forgeries.

Finney and Tom Boyd, who resigned as State treasurer, face State and Federal criminal charges. The broker's father, Warren B. Finney, is on trial at Emporia, Kans., on embezzlement charges growing out of the closing of his bank following the bond scandal disclosures.

The committee also found that as a member of the State treasury board French had voted to deposit $50,000 in the Finney bank at Emporia without an investigation of the adequacy of the bank's security.

Store Uses Ad In Challenging Hearst on NRA

Newspaper Duel Waged With Publisher by N. Y. Concern.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—William Randolph Hearst says NRA might mean "No Recovery Allowed." A department store says the program "looks like recovery to us."

Mr. Hearst's recent comment on the "blighting effect of the NRA policy" brought this question from Bloomingdale's:

"Now honestly, Mr. Hearst, don't you think that at a critical time like this we should all pull together?"

And also this:

"Frankly, Mr. Hearst, Bloomingdale's doesn't like that statement, nor do we like the tenor of your editorials discrediting the NRA."

The store's support of the NRA was voiced in advertisements in several papers, including a Hearst publication. The Hearst organization also had two of the publisher's recent statements on the NRA reprinted.

"William Randolph Hearst," the heading of the Hearst advertisement said, "who was one of the first to enroll his papers and magazines in the NRA, and operates them strictly according to its provisions, nevertheless has come to the conclusion that the NRA, in the militant manner in which it is conducted, is a menace and a hindrance to recovery."

"Mr. Hearst, we disagree with you," said the store's advertisement. "Four million unemployed back to work—looks like recovery to us."

3 Shots Fail In Suicide Try

Unemployed Man Found With Wounds in Head.

James Copperthite, 54, unemployed baker, is in a critical condition at Georgetown University Hospital with three self-inflicted gunshot wounds in his head.

Copperthite, who lives at 4930 Canal road northwest, was found partly conscious in a gutter on outer Conduit road early yesterday by Victor Lindenberg, 1601 Argonne place northwest. A .38-caliber pistol lay near by.

At the hospital police said Copperthite raised himself from the operating table and said, "I'd rather be dead." Physicians said he had an even chance to recover.

Lee Won Soldier's Praise

Letter of Tribute From Lord Wolseley, Famous British Soldier, Given to University by Rosewell Page.

Lexington, Va., Nov. 2 (Spl.).—Another tribute to Robert E. Lee has come home to Washington and Lee University with which Lee was so intimately connected.

It is a letter from Lord Garnet John Woseley, British field marshall and one of England's great soldiers, to Thomas Nelson Page, author and a student under Lee when Lee was president of what was then Washington College. Wolseley's letter acknowledges receipt of Page's memoirs of Lee and characterizes Gen. Lee as "the ablest soldier of my day, one of the very foremost among the world's gentlemen."

Lord Wolseley distinguished himself in a dozen military campaigns, notably at Sevastopol in the Crimean war, Lucknow in the uprisings in India, Ashanti and Egypt, and rose to the highest rank of the British army.

Dear Mr. Nelson Page: You have paid me a great compliment in sending me your memoirs of Gen. Lee, the great soldier whom I have always regarded as one of the very few leaders of world-wide renown.

Before I received your note of the 19th instant, I had read your book with deep interest.

As a leader of armies, Lee will always be classed with Caesar and Hannibal, with Napoleon and Wellington; but of these four great soldiers, Gen. Robert Lee will always be to me far the most interesting as a fellow being. In all the good qualities which usually adorn the very able leaders of armies as well as all the gentle-born men of every civilized nation, Gen. Lee was pre-eminent.

I have met kings, princes and other highly placed men, but I have only known one Gen. Robert Lee. When I think of him, I think of his forebearer Washington, all of whose best qualities he seems to have inherited. When I return home I shall reread your very interesting book, for I never tire learning about the deeds of the ablest soldier of my day, one of the very foremost among the world's gentlemen.

Pray accept my warmest thanks for your present and believe me to be,

Very truly yours,
WOLSELEY.

To Thomas Nelson Page, esq.,
Boggrave Hall.

Oil Still Feeds Big Plant Fire

Blaze May Roar Another Day at Tiverton, R. I.

Tiverton, R. I., Nov. 2 (AP).—Roaring flames and dense smoke still rose tonight above 10 fire-swept acres where at least three men perished and millions of gallons of petroleum products were destroyed in one of the worst oil plant disasters on the Atlantic Coast. The loss was estimated at almost a million dollars.

Of eight great storage tanks, buildings and other equipment, one huge 80,000-barrel steel reservoir alone remained standing. Throughout the day fire fighters and other watchers eyed it apprehensively, for officials of the wrecked plant, owned by the New England Terminal Co., estimated it contained 23,000 barrels of kerosene.

Oil men predicted the fire would continue to rage through tomorrow, until the last of fuel oil released by the last bursting tank was consumed. The last large tank loosed 55,000 barrels of oil.

$58,000,000 Housing Work Rushed by Army

Bulwarked by $58,000,000 in public works allotments, the Army housing program is being rushed at a rate unparalleled since the World War.

According to the Quartermaster Corps construction division, building projects aggregating $30,677,427 have been advertised for bids. Work already awarded to bidders totals $8,646,281. The entire program is being conducted under NRA provisions.

Nazi Activity in Saar Basin Draws Protest

Saarbruecken, Saar Basin Territory, Nov. 2 (AP).—Attacks on Nazi activities in the Saar Basin came from two sources today, the League of Nations Saar Commission and the Free Saar Front, composed of leaders who opposed annexation of the territory to Germany.

The Front protested against "Hitler terrorism", and demanded protection against "terroristic" pressure on Saar inhabitants, who in 1935 will decide whether to remain semi-autonomous, return to Germany or be annexed to France.

Watson Sees Press Liberty As 1936 Issue

Asserts People Will Not Stand Censorship Upon Editorial Opinions.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP).—Former Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, in an interview today predicted the freedom of the press would be an issue in the 1934 and 1936 elections.

He said the question would be whether the Government could attempt to impose wartime regulations upon public discussions in times of peace.

"While the press has not been very friendly to me at times," he said, "in my judgment a vigorous attempt on the part of the Government to censor editorial comment would lead straight to revolution."

He said the depression left the people of America in a daze and they are willing to try almost anything as an expedient, but that they would not consent to any attempt to abridge their right to speak their sincere convictions.

"At no time in the history of this country, as I see it," he said, "was an absolutely unfettered press so indispensable as right now."

He said "talk about newspapers being 'disloyal' and 'unpatriotic' is all poppycock."

"When I hear people talking about 'unrestrained license of the press,'" he said, "I know they are talking through their hats. We ought to be done with the sophistry that criticism, based on reasoned judgment, is a libel or an unpatriotic thing."

16 Texans Get $16,407 Storm-Relief Fund

An allotment of $14,731 to the miscellaneous service section of the Department of Interior was made yesterday by the Public Works Administration to defray additional expenses in services required by the Administration's increasing activities.

A further allotment was made for private property owners in the region of Brownsville, Tex., whose homes were damaged by a recent hurricane. This allotment totaled $16,407, and will pay for repairs to sixteen homes.

Bloody Fingerprints Clew in Three Deaths

Lawton, Okla., Nov. 2 (AP).—The bloody fingerprints near the one unlocked window of the Robert F. Hayter home were regarded tonight as a major clue to violent deaths of Mrs. Hayter, her daughter, Nell, 16, and son, Sidney, 17.

The bodies were found Tuesday. Doors were barred. The fingerprints were found on a lamp. The victims had been dead several days. Mr. Hayter had not been home for several weeks.

Embezzler of Burial Funds Here Convicted

Frank Smith, colored undertaker, yesterday was convicted in District Supreme Court of embezzling $270 in postal savings stamps which had been entrusted to him to pay a balance of $39 on a funeral bill.

Margaret Turner, police said, gave the stamps to Smith to pay the balance due on the funeral of her husband, Thomas Turner.

Rolls Increased by 2,025 in September, Setting 2-Year Record.

Federal pay rolls in Washington increased by 2,025 persons during September and reached a two-year record of 69,740, the Civil Service Commission reported yesterday.

The new work approached the level of 69,894 reported November 1, 1931. Additions in September totaled 4,454, but the total was decreased by 2,294 separations, many for age.

Largest gains were shown by the Department of Agriculture with 2,022 additions and 922 separations. Other net increases included Navy, 326; Public Works, 279; Interior, 270; Justice, 141; NRA, 103; Farm Credit Administration, 98, and War, 68. The R. F. C. net gain fell to 30.

Commerce led in separations with a net loss of 193. Other decreases included: Veterans' Administration, 91; Interstate Commerce Commission, 38; Treasury, 29; Postoffice, 28; Government Printing Office, 23, and General Accounting Office, 17.

Woman Names D. C. Policeman As Assailant

Struck as She Returned Home With Escort, Charged.

Charged with striking a woman, disorderly conduct and destroying private property, Policeman Thomas O'Donnell, 38, of the Third Precinct, surrendered yesterday to his commander, Capt. Edward Kelly. He was suspended from duty and released on $300 bond.

The warrant was sworn out yesterday when Mrs. Lucille Newman, 1808 Ninth street northwest, appeared before Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh and charged O'Donnell attacked her and her escort in front of her home early yesterday as the couple stepped from an automobile. She said O'Donnell appeared and struck her down with his fist and then attacked her companion. As the couple ran into the house, she said, O'Donnell followed and broke through a glass door that had been shut against him.

Keogh was told that the officer had been calling on Mrs. Newman and that he had warned her not to go out with other men.

O'Donnell was off duty at the time. He had been excused on sick leave, Capt. Kelly said.

Police Question 3 In Waitress Killing

Detective's Son-in-Law Is Asked About Crime.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 2 (AP).—Police today questioned three men in the slaying of Katherine "Boots" Brown, 22-year-old waitress, whose body was identified after more than 50,000 persons had viewed it in the county morgue.

Capt. Frank R. Boyd of city detectives named two of the men as Walter Neff, 26, son-in-law of a detective, and John Thomas Brown, of New Kensington.

The body was found Monday in a 6-foot sewer trap in suburban Verona, a bullet hole through the heart.

Park Savings Depositors Ask New Receiver

Fight to Oust J. M. Moran, Now in Charge of Liquidation.

Fight of the depositors' committee of the closed Park Savings Bank to have the District Supreme Court appoint a receiver to take over the bank liquidation in the place of John M. Moran, now serving as receiver through appointment of the Comptroller of the Currency, was launched yesterday before Justice Jesse C. Adkins.

Through their attorneys, the committee is also seeking to establish liability of the directors, officers, and stockholders for whatever deficiency occurs when liquidation is completed.

They base this claim on the fact that the Park bank's charter, obtained in Alabama, expired in 1929. From that time on, it was claimed, the directors and others were operating on a copartnership basis, which made them responsible for an estimated loss of $2,000,000.

Of that amount, $1,500,000 was traced to the "machinations" of Robert S. Stunz, former executive officer of the bank, who committed suicide, and the remainder arose through "bad" loans.

During the hearing yesterday, Justice Adkins dismissed the suit as to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which had been named a defendant because of having loaned heavily to the Park bank. Depositors are seeking to have these restored.

Two Paroled Convicts Hunted in Kidnaping

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 2 (AP).—Authorities tonight sought two paroled convicts, former Detroiters, for questioning in connection with the investigation of the kidnaping and robbing of Louis E. Brooks, millionaire Marshall manufacturer.

Two women arrested today were held in the county jail. The women are Margaret Devere, 25, formerly of Detroit, and Jane Edwards, 22, formerly of Kalamazoo.

2 Women Feared Slain by Gangsters

Bullet-Torn Auto Found Abandoned in Woods.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP).—Discovery of a bullet-scarred, blood-stained automobile gave rise to belief by officials today that two women have been killed by gangsters.

Abandoned in a wooded section near Downington, Pa., the automobile was identified as belonging to Ethel Marshall, Atlantic City, friend of John Zukorsky, wounded victim of the gangdom "ride" which claimed the life of his "partner," Edward (Cowboy) Wallace, both of Philadelphia.

R. Harding Davis' Daughter Marries

Bride, 18, Weds Day After Arrival From France.

Portchester, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP).—The marriage of Miss Hope Harding Davis, 18, daughter of the late Richard Hrding Davis, to Jean-Louis Frank Kehrig, of St. Jean de Luz, France, was made public today.

The bride arrived Monday from France, where she has spent most of her life, and the wedding took place the next day. She has been making her home also at St. Jean de Luz.

Graf Home After 21,000-Mile Jaunt

End of 321-Hour Trip Fails to Excite Eckener or Residents.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Graf Zeppelin, commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener, returned to its hangar today after a three-cornered world cruise of 21,000 miles to Rio de Janeiro, Chicago and home.

Compared with his around-the-world flight, this jaunt of 321 flying hours seemed quite ordinary to Dr. Eckener. The Friedrichshafen population evidently took it in the same spirit, for no festivities were prepared.

Holmes Yields Point In Texas Co. Fight

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—R. C. Holmes, a director and former president of the Texas Corporation, today announced acceptance of an impartial committee, instead of a special stockholders' committee for which he has been calling, to investigate his charges of mismanagement against present officers of the company.

The impartial committee was proposed by C. B. Ames, chairman of the board, who said A. L. Humes, a New York lawyer, had accepted an invitation to act as chairman.

W. C. T. U. Slaps at Farley.

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—A protest to Gov. Blackwood against his introducing Postmaster General Farley when the latter addresses a repeal rally at Columbia tomorrow night has been sent by the local W. C. T. U.

Plenty of Corn, Milk and Potatoes in Hut, But No Work, Lands Hermit in Baltimore Jail

Lived in Woods Five Years and Never Spent Cent, He Tells Police.

Baltimore, Nov. 2 (AP).—Marlin Gordon, the hermit who lives hidden in a thick wood just a few miles from the center of Baltimore, crouched in the corner of a suburban jail cell today.

For five years, he told police, he has lived in his mud-and-rail hut without spending a cent.

In the pocket of one of Gordon's trousers—he sometimes wears five—police found the same 9 cents the hermit had when first arrested several years ago.

"I guess he's telling the truth, all right," said Patrolman Otis Shipley, who made the arrest. "Anyhow, somebody's been milking people's cows in the middle of the night and raiding corn and potato fields."

Nobody sees the hermit for months at a time, said Shipley. Those who have made their way to the center of the wood where he lives in a half cave, half hut, made of rails, mud and burlap bags, reported he turned his head and slipped away through the woods as they approached.

"He won't look at anybody if he can help it," said the officer.

Gordon, he said, had equipped his place with crude cooking utensils, wooden and clay bowls, an improvised corn grinder and a home-made churn.

"You have to guess where he gets his milk and corn," said the officer. "And I found five bags of potatoes there. That's the reason I went to get him."

Gordon has long hair, but shaves himself occasionally. He told police he had been living in the woods since he left Germantown, Pa., five or six years ago.

"He said he was 45 years old, but I'm 45 and I'd hate to think I looked as old as him," said the policeman.

New Methods Asked In Bankruptcy Quiz

Expert Tells Senators They Should Work Differently.

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (AP).—A. S. Gold, an attorney whose firm has represented receivers in nine cases, told a Senate committee investigating receivership and bankruptcy affairs today it should "go about its task in an entirely different manner."

The advice came after the committee apparently concluded its investigation of receiverships of the Richfield Oil Co. and the Italo Petroleum Corporation.

Informing the five Senators that National and State bodies had been giving intensive study to improving receivership procedure, Gold advised the committee to sit at round table with those men instead of delving into receivership cases.

Wadsworth Fears Constitution Doom

Pictures Recovery Drives as Great Tentacles.

Geneva, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP).—Picturing "a vast bureaucracy in Washington with its tentacles stretching all over the Nation," Representative James W. Wadsworth (Republican), New York, predicted, at a Republican rally here, the end of the Constitution if the present recovery measures are "carried to their logical conclusions" at the end of the two-year emergency period.

"Liberty will no longer be important," he said, "and the citizen no longer the master, but the servant of the Government."

He called upon the Democratic Party to perform "a great service to the republic by resisting the temptation of this vast patronage system and standing true to the principles of Jefferson."

Legion Commander Urges Sound Dollar

Administration Is Warned Against Inflation.

New York, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—The American Legion favors a sound dollar and urges the Government to beware of the dangers of inflation, National Commander Edward A. Hayes said tonight.

"We want to know," Hayes declared, "that the fellows who were maimed in the war, and from whom a great deal already has been taken in the way of benefits, will be receiving a dollar that is worth a dollar and not 30 or 50 cents."

Ford Plants 100% NRA, Says Wagner

Northwest Motor Co.'s low bid on 1,000 trucks for the Civilian Conservation Corps. The contract has been held up, but no action has yet been taken, it was learned.

Ford Bars Organizers.

Detroit, Nov. 2 (AP).—Collective bargaining tonight stood as an accepted provision by Henry Ford, both in Administration headquarters at Washington and at the manufacturer's Dearborn office.

Ford has been represented as stating that while his vast motor plant always has bargained collectively with its employes, he does not intend to permit outside organizers to come into his factories.

The motor magnate, his associates said, supports all Government proposals for higher wages and shorter hours, and believes that his wages and hours are even better than those proposed by the NRA.

The associates said however, that "inasmuch as the NRA provides for the unionization of industry, Mr. Ford's position at the time the act came into being was that in signing the code the NRA was accepted and virtually forms an agreement to hand the industry over to union labor officials."

This, it was indicated, was one of the principal reasons why Ford did not sign the code.

Observers who have watched the Ford-NRA controversy since its inception believe Henry Ford, regardless of personal differences with the recovery program, will not violate any of the provisions of the NRA, despite the fact that he will not sign a code or fly a blue eagle over his manufacturing plants.

Detroit, Nov. 2 (AP).—Agreements between striking tool and diemakers and two manufacturers under which a number of men will return to work for the first time since a walkout five weeks ago, was announced today.

Chairman Abner E. Larned, of the Detroit Regional Labor Board, said he regarded the agreement as "an opening wedge" for the return of several thousand skilled tool and diemakers in Detroit, Flint and Pontiac.

40 Held Ready To Take Stand For Crawford

Defense to Seek Freedom Monday by Showing Negro Jury Ban.

If necessary 40 witnesses will appear in behalf of George Crawford's motion to have the murder indictment against him quashed, in Loudon County Circuit Court at Leesburg, Va., his attorney, Charles Houston, colored, of Washington, said yesterday.

The Negro will attempt to obtain his freedom Monday on the grounds that Negroes did not serve on the grand jury which indicted him for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley and her maid, Mrs. Mina Buckner.

Houston said Edward P. Lovette, colored Washington attorney, would aid in presenting the motion to quash to James L. McLemore, of Suffolk, who was assigned by Gov. Pollard to hear the case.

The State's case will be in charge of John Galleher, Loudoun County Commonwealth's attorney. He will be aided by Frank Wray, Commonwealth's attorney of Clarke County.

Oil Company Restores June 1 Salary Cuts

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (AP).—Affecting approximately 3,000 employes throughout Washington, Oregon and California, the General Petroleum Corporation announced today the restoration of all salaries to the level preceding a June 1 reduction.

The increases ranged from a few dollars monthly in small salaries to 10 per cent in salaries of $200 or more monthly. The order, they said, is retroactive and is effective as of October 1.

Accused Kidnaper Relies on Woman

Men Step Aside in Trial of George McGee.

Kansas City, Nov. 2 (AP).—George McGee places his hopes of breaking down identification of himself as a kidnaper of Miss Mary McElroy, in a slender, blond young woman attorney who once served as a deputy United States marshal.

Men defense attorneys stepped aside as Miss Lillie Knight took over the cross-examination of Miss McElroy, daughter of City Manager Henry F. McElroy, who was ransomed for $30,000 last May.

"I desire it understood," Miss McElroy declared, "that I am not seeking vengeance. I'm not looking for revenge. It was their crime—not mine."

She said McGee was the person who stood guard over her in a basement in Wyandotte County, Kans., while negotiations were carried on.

Clubwomen Open Baltimore Forum

Maryland Group to Hold State-Wide Institute.

The Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs today will hold a State-wide club institute and industrial forum at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore.

Mrs. T. H. Wildman, of Decatur Heights, Md., chairman of the division of industry under the federation's department of public welfare, has arranged the program.

Mrs. Henry L. Robert, jr., State parliamentarian, will preside. Guest speakers are Douglas Gorman, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Miss Julia Jaffray, Miss Alice L. Edwards, Allan Sauerwein, Mrs. William Bauernschmidt and D. Stuart Webb. Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, of College Park, is president of the federation.

Miss Boardman to Talk Before Woman's Club

Miss Mabel T. Boardman, the only woman to serve as Commissioner of the District of Columbia, will speak at the meeting of the civics section of the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase this morning at 11 o'clock, in all Saints' Episcopal Church. She will discuss "Women in Community Work."

Boy Fights Pneumonia In Oxygen Tent, Gains

The condition of Alvin Fowler, 17, of District Heights, Md., who is battling for his life against pneumonia in an oxygen tent, was said to have improved last night.

Dr. Paul C. Van Netter, of Forestville, said the boy was showing a satisfactory improvement, but he would not predict when the oxygen tent would no longer be necessary. The Bladensburg rescue squad was still working in relays.

Women Seek Gifts To Aid Day Nursery

The board of lady managers of the Alexandria Day Nursery has appealed to citizens of Alexandria for donations of homemade preserves, jellies, fruits and canned goods.

The board feels that if the citizens will contribute a small amount for each family, the needs of the day nursery can be effectively met during the winter.

U. S. Permits 20 National Banks to Open

O'Connor Reveals Issue of Licenses; Dividend Ordered in Detroit.

Twenty national banks were licensed to resume business or issued new charters during the last 11 days of October, J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, announced yesterday.

Mr. O'Connor announced that on or before November 15 a dividend of $53,674,563 would be paid by receivers of Detroit's closed Guardian National Bank of Commerce and First National Bank. The Guardian will pay 20 per cent and the First National 10 per cent.

Frozen deposits of the 20 national banks to reopen amount to $39,335,000 and unrestricted deposits total $4,940,000. The 20 banks brought the total licensed national banks in the country on November 1 to 5,067.

To make possible the payment of the Guardian National dividend, a commitment for a loan of $26,000,000 has been granted by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Comptroller. This brings repaid dividends to 60 per cent. A loan of $48,000,000 from the R. F. C. was obtained to pay the First National dividend, bringing repayments to 50 per cent.

St. Michael's School Body Picks Officers

Mrs. M. E. Barry Heads Parents-Teachers.

Officers of the new Parent-Teacher Association of St. Michael's Parish School were announced yesterday as follows:

President, Mrs. M. E. Barry; vice president, Mrs. T. A. Lane; secretary, Mrs. James L. Skinner, and treasurer, the Rev. T. A. Calnan; executive committee, Father Calnan, Sister Mary Eleanor, superior; Mrs. M. E. Barry and Mrs. Skinner.

Other committees are: Entertainment, Mrs. L. W. Bates, chairman; Mrs. Ronald Alvord, Mrs. Lane, H. N. White and F. Yates; refreshment, Mrs. H. N. White, chairman; Mrs. Clarence J. Clements, and Mrs. H. Gigham; medical, Mrs. Hugh L. McWilliams and Mrs. White.

The following grade mothers have been selected: Mrs. James J. Hanan, Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. G. H. Sheckels, Mrs. William Jouvenal, Mrs. H. Bigham, Mrs. Donald Clark, Mrs. R. Alvord, and Mrs. J. E. Weisman.

Miller's Girl Defiant As Police Hunt Killer

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP).—Verne Miller, former sheriff, turned killer, again has made good his boast never to be taken alive. Scores of police hunted him with machine guns tonight with orders to shoot to kill. Police officials declared they would as leave see Miller taken to the morgue as to jail.

Hours of questioning failed to shake the silence of a young woman found in Miller's hotel room last night after the outlaw shot his way through a cordon of police.

Hitler Hits Nations In Election Address

Berlin, Nov. 2 (AP).—Although the issue is not in doubt, enthusiastic spellbinding was in full swing tonight throughout Germany in preparation for the Reichstag election and plebiscite November 12.

Chancellor Hitler, addressing a mass meeting at Essen on disarmament, said "the 'thief' methods used by others against Germany must cease. We've done our bit, and it is now the turn of others."

Southern Baptists' Mission Board Bares $11,000 Deficit

Deficit Will Be Charged Against First 1934 Cash Receipts.

Richmond, Nov. 2 (AP).—The annual report of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist convention, made public today, indicated foreign missions collections would fall $11,000 short of the $605,000 budget for the current year.

The board decreed the deficit be made a preferred charge against the first cash received in 1934.

Under the convention's instructions of last May, the tentative 1934 budget must be based on cash receipts for the year, which means the report says, that to reach the financial goal in 1934 the gifts to foreign missions must total $50,000 a month.

Salaries are to be paid on the basis of monthly receipts, each employe sharing proportionately in the decreases, if any. Shortages will be made up later, it was said, if the total annual income makes it possible.

From January 1 to October 1, $35,000 and interest was paid on the foreign mission debt. By request of the banks, $100,000 plus interest was set as the proposed 1934 payment on all debts. The only sources of income for this amount, the report said, are the 100,000 club, the Wade Bryant plan, special designations for debts, and the sale of property not essential for mission work.

The board voted to bring home 22 missionaries entitled to come home in 1933, and to ask 12 others to postpone furloughs. No missionaries were appointed.

The office of assistant executive secretary was abolished, and Dr. T. Bray was made emeritus secretary of the board.

British Vote May Force New Policy

Labor Gains in Election Prompt Cabinet Act.

London, Nov. 2 (AP).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and his cabinet, aroused by large Laborite gains in municipal elections, met today to plot a course on foreign policy, to be presented to Parliament Tuesday.

Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, will present the national government's stand, and Labor party members subsequently will decide on whether to propose a vote of censure.

Elections conducted yesterday in England and Wales gave Labor 180 gains in 105 towns, with only 7 losses. Conservatives gained 9 and lost 112, while Liberals and Independents between them lost 85.

Nazis Get Control Of Ullstein Firm

Jewish Family Loses Rule Over Press Company.

Berlin, Nov. 2 (AP).—Nazi anti-Semitism resulted today in withdrawal of the Jewish Ullstein family control from Germany's most modern press organization, the Ullstein Publishing Co.

However, Franz Ullstein remained on the governing board, rendering the Nazi victory only partial. He also continued as an executive director. All other executives are Aryans.

The Ullstein family, which founded the company in 1877, in the past has had a majority of the total stock of $10,000,000, but by the vote of a meeting today a large portion was transformed into non-voting stock.

Leaders of 3 Faiths on Tour Of Good Will

Catholic Priest, Protestant Minister and Jewish Rabbi Talk Here.

As proof of how "three clerics of differing faiths can live together in a suitcase for seven weeks," a Roman Catholic priest, a rabbi of the synagogue and a Protestant minister, for the first time on record, are joining hands on an 8,000-mile journey through 30 States, to promote better understanding among people of their three faiths.

Starting Tuesday in Baltimore, they spoke last night at the Washington Club on means of instilling tolerance among peoples of conflicting faiths in the United States.

The men who are thus seeking to encourage good feeling are Father John E. Ross, Catholic chaplain at the University of Virginia; Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron, of Baltimore, and the Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, of New York. Together they will hold meetings, round tables, conferences and seminars in cities, on the campuses of universities and in public gatherings under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians.

Their aim, voiced by all three, is to "increase the measure of justice, amity and understanding among Catholics, Jews and Protestants, and to save America from the same spirit that plagues and destroys harmony in Germany today."

Tomorrow they will continue their tour into the Middle West and Christmas will find them back in Virginia.

Trio Held in Kidnap.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Three youths accused of threatening to kidnap Willard P. Beach 3d and to injure his grandfather, Dr. Willard P. Beach, were indicted by the Federal grand jury today under the "Lindbergh law."

Prize Winners In Halloween Parade Named

Many Others Win High Praise; Trophies to Be Awarded Tuesday.

Prize winners in the Halloween parade Tuesday night were announced and praise for many of the contestants who failed to win awards was voiced yesterday by Wallace Robinson, chairman of the judges' committee.

The trophies are to be presented at the Board of Trade offices next Tuesday at 4 p. m.

The Minister of Lithuania, Mr. Bronius Kasimir Balutis, entertained at dinner last evening at the legation in honor of the newly appointed United States Minister to Lithuania, Mr. J. Van A. MacMurry, and Mrs. MacMurry.

The Minister of Czechoslovakia and Mme. Veverka were hosts at a luncheon yesterday in the legation on Massachusetts avenue. They entertained in honor of Capt. Frank Statecny and Capt. Hynek Bycek, of the Czechoslovak Army, who arrived in New York Wednesday aboard the President Roosevelt, coming to take part in the International Horse Show in Madison Square Garden.

The other guests at the luncheon included the Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter; the Minister of Finland, Mr. Axel Leonard Astrom; the Undersecretary of State, Mr. Harry E. Payer; Mr. Louis B. Williams, of Cleveland, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of the Ohio district; the Military Attache of the Italian Embassy, Lieut. Col. Marco Pennaroli; Mrs. John Allan Dougherty and Mrs. Campbell Prichett.

Capt. Julius Cocek and Lieut. Vaclav Schantin, also arrived in New York on Wednesday to compete in the horse show, but they were unable to come to Washington.

Envoy and Mrs. Louw Sail for Italy.

The retiring Minister of the Union of South Africa and Mrs. Louw left yesterday for New York, whence they will sail Saturday, November 11, aboard the Rex, en route to the former's new post in Rome, Italy.

The Minister of Venezuela and Senora de Arcaya will entertain at luncheon today in honor of the Counselor of the Legation, Senor Don Luis Churion, who will sail from New York on November 11, aboard the Western World, for South America, where he will represent his government at the Pan-American conference in Montevideo.

Famous Argentine Painter Guest of Embassy.

The Minister of Paraguay and Senora de Bordenave entertained at luncheon yesterday at their apartment in Wardman Park Hotel in honor of Senor Don Cesar de Quiros, distinguished Argentine painter.

The other guests were the Counselor of the Chilian Embassy, Mr. Benjamin Cohen; the Minister-Counselor of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Irujo, the First Secretary of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Urquiza, and the Second Secretary of the Argentine Embassy, Senor Don Eduardo Vivot.

The Minister of Siam, His Serene Highness Prince Damras Damrong Devakula, and Princess Damras will entertain at a large reception at the Mayflower Hotel Wednesday evening, November 8, at 10 o'clock, in celebration of the birthday anniversary of the King of Siam.

The guests, who will number about 200, will include members of the Diplomatic Corps, of the Cabinet and other members of official and residential society in the Capital.

Mrs. William H. Woodin, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, have taken seats together for the first of the series of talks given by Miss Janet Richards on public questions, Monday morning at the Willard Hotel.

Mr. Oscar L. Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, entertained at dinner at the Little Tea House Wednesday evening.

The Secretary to the United States Minister to Canada, Mr. John Arthur Hinckley, is spending a few days in Washington. Mrs. Hinckley will come from Ottawa on Sunday for a brief visit in the Capital and Mr. Hinckley will return to Canada the first of next week.

M. Paul de Laboulaye, son of the Ambasador of France and Mme. de Laboulaye, will sail from New York tomorrow aboard the Ile de France, to spend several months in Europe.

Military Ceremony Joins Ellen Nolan to Officer

Bride of Lieut. Young Passes Through Arch of Swords.

Washington society is interested in the military wedding yesterday of Miss Ellen Honora Nolan, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Dennis Edward Nolan, of Governors Island, N. Y., to Lieut. Edward Hamilton Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casnave Howle Young, of Washington. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock in the famous old chapel at Governors Island, with the Rev. Father Mathew J. Dunn officiating. Because of the limited seating capacity of the church, the wedding guests were limited, but a large reception followed at the Officers' Club.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a satin gown in the off-white shade, modeled along Grecian lines. The bodice was made with long close-fitting sleeves and cowl neckline. The skirt was draped in the back to form the long train. Her veil of tulle was held in place by a cap of the same material trimmed at the back with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Miss Eleanor Garrard, of Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Evelyn Scott, of Cincinnati, were maids of honor. They wore simple frocks of brown transparent velvet with puffed sleeves giving a wing effect and little brown velvet hats trimmed with ostrich plumes. They carried bouquets of yellow and rust colored chrysanthemums tied with brown ostrich tips.

Mr. Howle Young, of Philadelphia, was his brother's best man, and the ushers included Maj. Alvan Sanderford, Maj. Notley Buhamel, commanding officer of Fort Schuyler, a cousin of the bridegroom; Lieut. Carlyle C. V. Allen, a classmate of Lieut. Young's at West Point, aid de camp to Gen. Nolan, and Lieut. Kelly Anthony, another classmate. The ushers formed an arch with their swords for the bridal party to pass under following the ceremony in the picturesque military fashion.

Mrs. Daniel C. Roper Honor Guest at Tea.

Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, will be the guest of honor at a tea to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Woman's National Democratic Club, the first in a series of Saturday teas to welcome the many new members who have recently joined the club.

Hostesses for the tea will be Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, vice president of the club; Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Charles Warren, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Miss Eleanor Connolly, Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant, Mrs. Charles J. Brand, Mrs. Claude Porter, Mrs. Francis R. Hagner, Mrs. Charles E. Riggs and Mrs. James T. Newton, chairman of the committee arranging the teas.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will be the guest of honor at the tea on November 11.

Mrs. Clarence F. Lea, who, with Representative Lea, is leaving today for their home at Santa Rosa, Calif., was complimented with a luncheon and bridge party given yesterday at the Shoreham by Mrs. Jessie W. Walters, who makes her home at the hotel. Mrs. Walters returned a short time ago from a trip to Chicago.

Among the invited guests were Mrs. Herbert J. Drane, Mrs. John L. Sandling, Mrs. Richard Elliott, Mrs. Frank Crowther, Mrs. Oscar E. Bland, Mrs. S. Lemon Hoover, Mrs. Nancy Leatherwood, Mrs. A. S. Wright, Mrs. Stewart Walker, Mrs. Joseph Graham, Mrs. Elizabeth Northrop and Mrs. Edgar M. Smith.

Representative Loring M. Black returned yesterday to New York after a short stay at the Shoreham.

Senator J. G. Townsend, of Delaware, is at the Willard and will be in the Capital for several days.

Mrs. Arthur L. Willard, wife of Rear Admiral Willard, U. S. N., is stopping at the St. Regis Hotel during her stay in New York.

Jocelyn Plowden Bride In Beautiful Home Setting

Weds John McDonell Bain; Couple to Make Home in Toronto.

Yesterday afternoon the wedding of Miss Jocelyn Plowden Hibberd, daughter of Mr. Dilworth Potts Hibberd, to Mr. John McDonell Bain, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Bain and the late Mr. James W. Bain, K. C., also of Toronto, took place at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's father on Sixteenth street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father C. J. Dacey in the drawing room, which was decorated with tall standards filled with white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves against a background of palms.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of ivory antique satin, made on long, classical lines. The bodice was simply fashioned, with long, close-fitting sleeves, which ended in points over the hands. Her veil of ivory tulle was held in place by bands of ivory satin and seed pearls, extending the entire length of the heavy satin train, which terminated in three deep points. She carried a sheaf of Madonna lilies tied with ivory satin ribbon.

Mrs. Prescott Williams Brown, of Providence, R. I., who attended her cousin as matron of honor, wore a gown of leaf green chiffon velvet, made on long, simple lines with a high cowl neckline, a long, full skirt, which had a short train, and the sleeves long and tight-fitting. She carried a cluster of bronze chysanthemums and autumn leaves.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held, and later Mr. Bain and his bride left for their wedding trip, the latter traveling in a black ensemble trimmed in caracul, and a small, close-fitting beret of black antelope. Her slippers and bag were of black suede. Mr. and Mrs. Bain will sail tomorrow for Jamaica, where they will spend some time before going to Toronto, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Bain was presented to society the winter of 1930-31. She attended the Georgetown Convent, the Sacred Heart Convent and Miss Maret's French School.

Mr. Bain was graduated from Trinity College, the University of Toronto, and is in business in his native city. He is a member of the Toronto Golf and Badminton clubs.

Wedding Performed By Groom's Father

Rev. Booker Unites Son and Judith Tompkins in Richmond.

The wedding of Miss Judith Temple Tompkins, daughter of Mrs. William Frazer Tompkins, of Richmond, Va., to Mr. George Edward Booker 3d, son of the Rev. Dr. George Edward Booker, jr., of Richmond, Va., took place Wednesday at high noon in the Chapel of Grace and Holy Trinity in Richmond. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bridegroom and he was assisted by the Rev. Charles Sheerin. The chapel was decorated with white chrysanthemums and palms and was lighted by tall cathedral tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Christopher Robinson Tompkins. Her frock was of eel gray satin trimmed with tea rose-colored georgette and her hat and slipper were of the same shade of gray. She carried a shower bouquet of talisman roses.

Miss Julia Porcher Wickham was the only attendant. She wore a frock of violet taffeta and a matching hat and carried an armful of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. Maitland Hunt Bustard acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Charles E. A. Knight, Mr. Granville Gray, jr. and Mr. William Tompkins.

Striped Silk Umbrella Smiles At Raindrops

Midnight Blue Just the Nicest Sort of Blues to Have in a Storm.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Stormy weather is bound to hit all of us now and then. The most gallant way to meet it is to unfurl a brand-new umbrella in the face of the rain drops.

Let's take a look at some of the new umbrellas. Grayish blue silk and rayon mixture makes a good-looking one that seems peculiarly fitting for a storm-clouded sky. A midnight-blue border and accompanying stripe in various shades of blue enhance the storm effect. But here comes the sun in the guise of a shiny yellow birchwood handle, loop-shaped. Sixteen gilt-finished ribs with amber tips add another bit of brightness.

The price of this umbrella is $2.95.

The same F street shop has others at the same price with composition handles that resemble bakelite and with silk and rayon mixtures in all-over patterns.

Corded rayon, extremely fine textured, but firm, makes panties with fitted yokes. This material wears well and launders beautifully. Two buttons on the waistband enable the wearer to adjust the garment so that it fits perfectly.

These panties, a trifle longer than the average, may be purchased in flesh or tea rose for 59 cents. The sizes are small, medium and large.

A bright little whisk broom dangles from one side of a wooden hat tree. The person who owns one of these useful combinations has no excuse for lint on her bonnet. The color schemes are as unusual as they are pleasing. A periwinkle brush makes the limb on a lavender hat tree while a glowing rose brush is attached to a blue tree.

The woman with foresight is already making out her Christmas list. Here's a tip on the perfect gift for a boy who likes outdoor life: Get him a scout knife with a tiny but accurate compass set in the bone handle. The knife also has a can opener, reamer, jackknife blade and combination bottle opener and screw driver. There really isn't any reason why this gift should be limited to boys. It would gladden many a man's heart, especially if he goes in for hunting and fishing trips.

Bridge games whiz along at great speed when an automatic card dealer is used. An E street shop is selling some for just one-third their original price.

A black metal mechanism for holding the cards is set upon a silver metal disk. When a small handle from the gadget to the table. The mechanism may be set to deal to four, five or six players.

Cigarettes stand nonchalantly on their heads in a highly varnished box with Grecian urn design inlaid in the top. When the lid is opened three sections of varying height are revealed. Each section has holes in the bottom to hold the cigarette ends. Light and dark wood make an effective contrast in the box's interior. The unique container easily holds a package and a half of cigarettes.

Since there's a masculine flair to it, this cigarette box would make an excellent Christmas gift for the college man or any other male on Santa's route.

Plain white linen handkerchiefs have one outstanding virtue: they never go out of style. One may safely lay in a huge supply of them, knowing that they will all be used some day. Since cottons and linens are soaring in price, it is only sensible to consider some white linen hankies that are on sale in a downtown department store.

The linen square, including sixteenth-inch hems, measure 11½ inches. The price is 6 cents.

Colorful Irish print handkerchiefs are selling for the same price at the same store. There is also a large collection of fine cotton ones for men. Some are plain white. Some have woven colored borders. Price: 6 cents.

That final important touch may be added to an afternoon or evening costume with a panne velvet muff bag. They're not much larger than the ordinary bag but they're heaps more interesting. There is ample room in the muff for two hands trying to avoid the cold. There is a deep pocket beneath the zipper top, lined with heavy corded silk. This pocket will hold all the gadgets usually carted around in a woman's purse. Coin purse and mirror are already in the pocket.

After Birds Fly.

By Katherine Smith.

Shrill screaming birds
Of night cut through the frost-hung
With sharpened wings.

Why, after these,
My feathered friends, have flown to you
May I not now rest?

Half lift with smiling sneers—my birds

Ruby Keeler Plays Tennis To Lose Weight

After the Game She Bravely Foregoes Potatoes and Bread.

Ruby Keeler, who will soon be seen in Washington in "Footlight Parade," does not agree with her costar, Joan Blondell, on the proper method of shedding weight. While Miss Blondell resorts to a diet of baked potatoes and skimmed milk, Miss Keeler leaves potatoes strictly alone when she finds herself the unwilling possessor of an extra pound of flesh.

"I take long walks at the crack of dawn along the beach at Malibu, where I live. I forego potatoes and bread, but with exercise I must have steaks, and I like them with lots of onions."

Ruby insists that one of her best forms of exercise is playing tennis with her husband, Al Jolson.

"But, oh, how it gives me an appetite," she sighs. "Then I have to say to myself, 'No, Ruby, no bread and no potatoes, or your tennis was all in vain.'"

Walnut Spreads Leafy Roof Over Virginia Governor's Mansion Destroyed by Fire

Tree Is Rooted in Center of House Jefferson Designed.

Formerly one of the show places of the South, designed by Thomas Jefferson, and completed in 1814, the old house at Barboursville was destroyed by fire on Christmas Day, 1884. Only its red brick walls and immense stone columns remained until a walnut tree curiously took root in what was once the great reception hall, pushing upward until this year its branches formed a perfect natural roof.

Mrs Thomas H. Ellis, granddaughter of James Barbour and present owner of the estate, refuses to have the tree cut down because of its "friendly act in rethatching rooms" filled with historic memories.

As senator, then Governor of Virginia, Secretary of War and Minister to the Court of St. James under John Quincy Adams, James Barbour entertained many distinguished guests here. Dolly Madison danced in the spacious octagonal drawing room, with ceiling two stories high, while her famous husband watched. Jefferson supped here. Edward Trelawney, the eminent English historian of the 1800s, claimed that no coffee or mint juleps in the country could equal those made at Barboursville.

During the Civil War, the place was used as a haven for wounded soldiers.

When the house burned only a few valuables were saved. Mrs. Ellis is especially proud of a colonial table upon which three Presidents played whist at Barboursville—Jefferson, Madison and Monroe.

For 30 years, Mrs. Ellis has lived next to the ruins in a rambling, white-pillared house even older than the Barbour mansion. Built around 1800, it was here that James Barbour and his family resided while the main building was being finished. Later, he turned it into a workshop for the spinning wheels and looms of the slaves.

Tourists off the beaten track occasionally come to Barboursville, but once each year, during Virginia's annual Garden Week, Mrs. Ellis plays official hostess to the public. The English boxwood here is among the oldest and finest in the country. There are more of these hedges at Barbour than in any place in Virginia. But today the freak growth of the walnut tree intrigues visitors more.

What's in Fashion?

Warmth, Comfort, Color Put Wool Socks on Top

Directed by Amos Parrish

Information as to where hose of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, The Washington Post, on request.

New York, Nov. 3.—They say you can tell an Englishman by his wool socks. Because no matter how hot the weather, he keeps a layer of wool between himself and his shoes. Chiefly because wool hose keep his feet comfortable in all kinds of weather. Because they have a "cushion" and a "give" no other sock fabric offers him. And because they can absorb perspiration and keep feet cool in summer, as well as keeping them warm and dry in winter.

So if, like many other men, you're a year-'round wool sock wearer, you have justice on your side.

Many Americans first got their wool socks habit back in World War days. Wool hose were on the Army and Navy clothing lists. And enlisted men became so used to wool sock comfort they forgot to give it up afterwards.

Today, they're still choosing wool socks. Not only for their warmth and wearability, but because they're smart looking. And because they fit in so well with other rugged clothes better-dressed men are wearing.

"6 and 3" Snug Fitting.

At the moment, men all over America are turning to the famous 6 and 3 ribbed wool socks (6 stitches raised and 3 depressed). These come in plain colors, or with neat clocks, or—for real distinctiveness such as some men of the broker type like—in increasingly popular horizontal stripes. This 6 and 3 sock hugs your ankles all day long without slipping—an exceptionally good looking and fine feeling sock.

More than any other sock, wools lend themselves to rich colorings. In Argyle plaids or in neat checks, in all-over designs and in stripes, they give a warmth of color and a ruggedness that dovetails perfectly with the more patternful, colorful clothes which better-dressing men are wearing so generally this winter.

You can buy your wool socks in two types of coloring. Both popular. Both smart. First, the plain solid colors for men who want the advantages of wool—without too much wooliness.

Wool With Lisle or Silk.

England gets the credit for the popularity of wool socks, but American makers were the first to make them really practical . . . by blending enough lisle with them to prevent the wool from shrinking. They've also mixed wool with silk. And the result is a sock that has no equal for softness.

So if you want to be kind to your feet and your general appearance as well, you'll find wool socks feel as good as they look. It's wise, of course, always to be sure you have the right socks for the right suit and the right occasion. For this reason, if you haven't already sent for our leaflet—"What Socks Look Best With My Suit," we recommend you do so right away.

Washington's Salt-Cellar Safe in Museum

Missing Eighty-Nine Years From Camp Chest, It Turns Up.

With much oratory on the floor of the House, the chest was presented to the Government in 1844, through the will of William Sidney Winder, son of the war governor of Maryland.

In 1883, the chest was turned over to Smithsonian Museum, where it has been on exhibition ever since. There is no record in all these years that anybody actually missed the salt cellar.

The famed Winder family knew all the time they still had it, and at the last meeting of the D. A. R. board a Winder "family connection," Mrs. Walter Morris, State regent of the Delaware D. A. R., made it a gift to the national society.

With the salt cellar was a yellowed Winder family scrap book, started March 21, 1876, and containing clippings from the Congressional Record chronicling the camp chest presentation ceremonies on the floor of the House.

"Legend had it Washington gave the chest to Gen. Winder at the close of the war as a souvenir of his services to him," Mrs. Winder explained in making the gift. Whether the salt cellar came into possession of her husband in this way, she was not sure.

"I do know," she said, "that there is a place vacant in that chest, and that this long errant little salt cellar must go back to its original setting."

Kenmore Council Meets In New York City Today

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 2 (Spl.).—The annual fall meetings of the Kenmore Association's advisory council was held today at the Cosmopolitan Club, in New York City, called by Mrs. Robert M. Littlejohn, regent for organization.

The Kenmore Association is a national organization of women interested in historic relics and their preservation who have formed to maintain as they have restored Kenmore, Fredericksburg home of Col. Fielding H. and Betty Washington Lewis. The meeting was called to form national committees to carry on the work of Kenmore.

Among those attending the meeting will be Mrs. Robert M. Littlejohn, regent for organization, New York City; Mrs. Kelly Evans, regent for Virginia; Mrs. Frank Duke, of Virginia; Mrs. Peter Arrignton, North Carolina; Mrs. Samuel Price, West Virginia, and Mrs. H. H. Smith, national secretary, of Fredericksburg.

First Lady's Solicitude For Women Traditional

The acitvjty of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the interest of women recalls the fact that although Mrs. Calvin Coolidge took as her precept "a politician's wife should keep out of politics," she joined hands with Mrs. Harding and carried on after the death of Mrs. Harding in insisting that the United States Government should provide a model woman's prison for its Federal women prisoners.

Before the end of the Coolidge Administration, this institution, situated in the highlands of West Virginia, became an accomplished fact. Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Herbert Hoover made a number of visits to this institution, keeping their inspections secret from the public.

Collar of Fur Coat Takes New Shapes

Stole, Butterfly, Sailor and Chin-Chin Used.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—Collars are only one detail of this season's fur coats that have taken new shapes, as shown in exhibits for national fur week, which is now in progress.

The Ascot collar and tie is used on both dress and sports coats, on handsome fitted furs and on swagger coats.

Some models, such as a three-quarter-length kidskin, have a straight piece around the neck, with adjustable lengthy Ascot which can be looped or thrown over the shoulder. This three-quarter-length coat is good to wear over wool frocks.

The long, stole collar has returned to lend smartness.

The butterfly collar, which is of flat fur, crosses under the chin and widens toward the end, where it is buttoned or snapped or laid over each shoulder in winged effect. Sailor collars, seen on ermine wraps or sports coats of kid, also are popular, as are the flat roll collars.

Mary Baldwin Alumnae Entertained

The Washington Chapter of the Mary Baldwin Alumnae Association will be entertained at the fall meeting tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock by Mrs. A. B. Evans at her residence, 1000 Urell place northeast. All Mary Baldwin girls are invited to be present.

Dolly Madison Table Set.

A small number of the guests at state dinners at the White House will use the silver gilt Dolly Madison knives and forks and spoons, engraved "President's House."

Only a few pieces of the extensive silver gilt table service are actually the ones selected by Mistress Dolly.

In the Hayes Administration, there was a real dearth of matching knives and forks and spoons to "serve any large company."

So all the silver knives and forks and spoons were melted up and recast in the pattern selected by Mrs. Madison and given a very heavy coat of gold-plate. The surtout de table, the magnificent gilt-on bronze mirrored center piece held aloft by classic figures, the candelabra, vases, fruit baskets and epergnes are actually the ones imported from France by President and Mrs. Monroe. These table decorations are often miscalled the "Dolly Madison Table Set."

Washington Women in Welfare Work

Animal Rescue League and Community Chest Aided by Mrs. Beales.

While interested generally in welfare work, Mrs. LeVerne Beales devotes most of her activities to the Animal Rescue League and to the Community Chest. She is a member of the board of the former and is on the board of trustees of the Chest.

While primarily devoted to the cause of these two organizations, no call for help from any agency here goes unanswered by Mrs. Beales. She can always be depended upon to do her part in any welfare question that arises.

Strongly advocating the Chest method of financing, she says:

"I think that the Community Chest is the best possible medium of distribution of money for relief purposes. It truly takes care of the human needs. It is by far the fairest solution, for it is best able to understand the real needs of the individual agencies. Then, too, many people who otherwise would not contribute very large sums of money to individual organizations will contribute to the Chest because of the great number of agencies which the Chest supports."

What Today Means

"Scorpio."

If November 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 to 8:10 a. m., from 11 to 12 noon and from 5:45 to 6:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 to 10 a. m., from 3:30 to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

You will be inclined on this day not to stand up for your own rights; do not "take it on the chin" for any reason at all, for you will establish a bad precedent and others will be inclined to "take you for a ride" as well. Sweethearts will be most easily embarrassed on this date and will probably be in for a lot of teasing.

The child born on this November 3 will have a way of getting what it wants without being "sugary sweet" or fighting for it. He will "get by" wherever he is and will make many friends. Inclined to be a bit bossy and to try to run the neighborhood. Boys will tend to pick fights without reason and will be good fighters.

If November 3 is the date of your birth, it is probable that you have a brain that is more than normally active and a good healthy body that will stand a lot of hard work and long hours. You will be pretty much on the go all your life; office hours will mean nothing to you, for you will look on work as encompassing more than what you are able to turn out in eight hours at some office.

You are inclined to feel that the real work that you have to do is to fulfill your obligation to God and to mankind; hence, it is a 24 hour a day job. There is little question about your succeeding in your business activities. You have the qualities that make for success, honesty, friendliness, sincerity, willingness to work hard, thoroughness and the ability to think at your work.

Born on November 3, you will be well occupied away from the office. As a member of various clubs and organizations, many of them of a charitable nature, your time will be well filled. You enjoy committee work as long as it is of a constructive nature. You interest yourself in people and organizations that are really trying to do something of value. You have little time for amusements as such; you get most of your pleasure from your activities. To be able to help someone in some way makes you feel that you are really living. You are big hearted, kind and gentle. You will never grow up, for your heart is too light and gay and at a right ripe old age you will enjoy a frolic with your youngsters as well as a grand rough-house.

Successful people born on November 3:

Isabella M. Allen ("Pansy"), author.

Edward D. White, jurist and senator.

Francis D. Millet, artist.

Winter Fashion Girl Must Fit Slim Silhouette

Ruffles, Flounces and Tiers Shorn From Newest Frocks.

The flurry and excitement of the Paris midseason openings have died down sufficiently for us to get a fairly definite idea of the sort of lines we're going to drape about us from now until spring.

Slimness, especially over the diaphragm, is still favored and has been embraced by the houses that were stressing princess cuts in their early fall collections. The hips are also slim, although the hobble skirt has disappeared almost completely. Whatever fullness the skirt has is massed so that the basic silhouette is left slim. If fullness starts from the waistline it is massed in center front or center back. If it starts low it is arranged in gathers or bunches.

Bulkiness, a bit subdued, still distinguishes the top part of the silhouette, but it is achieved with drapes or folds of the material rather than armhole cuts or shoulder seams. One of the most delightful ways of creating this bulkiness is the neck yoke cut in one piece with the sleeves. Most of the new sleeves barely cover the elbow, with bloused fullness on the upper arm.

The Russian or Chinese neck, with small upstanding collar, is highly favored by the first-string designers. The straight shoulder-to-shoulder line is retained while other necklines are draped or tied near the throat.

Ruffles, flounces and tiers have been shorn from the new dresses although some tunic cuts are used to advantage. Contrasting jumpers, with flat peplums, are included in the two-piece types which are making a strong bid for popularity.

In the color scale, gray is still singing a strong, high note. Pinky or mauve tinted gray is enchanting in evening gowns with the slim, sculptured silhouette. Navy and browns are still used extensively for tailored and afternoon clothes.

Winter Blooms Compete Today At Flower Show

Historic Church at Orange Scene of Garden Club Contest.

Chrysanthemums, all dressed up in their Sunday-go-to-meeting best, roses, dahlias and other charming young debs of the flower world, are casting glances at one another today at the Orange, Va., fall flower show.

They are competitors in the annual contest held by the Dolly Madison Garden Club. Other members of the plant world are competing in groups, winter bouquets in pottery and vines arranged in vases.

The scene of the show is the parish house of historic old St. Thomas' Church, which recently observed its centennial celebration.

The cup awarded to the donor of the winning bloom was given by the late Maj. Potts, of Happy Creek farm. Twice it has been won by Mrs. G. Freeland Peter, and if her contribution is this time the loveliest the cup will be hers to keep. Other members of the club who have submitted winners are Mrs. John Woodriff, of Somerset, president of the club; Mrs. V. R. Shackleford, Mrs. Frank Walker and Mrs. J. W. Browning, all of Orange, and Mrs. Allen Potts, of Gordonsville.

White flowers will not have to contend against the colored blossoms. The presidents' cup is reserved for the finest white blooms. Mrs. Barton H. Cameron, former president of the club, won this award in the show last year.

Mrs. John Walker is chairman of the show. Her committee includes Mrs. Shackleford, Mrs. Browning, Mrs. R. C. Slaughter, Mrs. F. S. Walker, Mrs. Lewis B. Willis and Miss Miriam Hill. Miss Parke Taylor will manage the plant sale, and Mrs. Peter and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Nolting, will serve at tea.

Nuptials Were Splendid Affairs in Good Old Days

Weddings in tidewater Maryland and Virginia, according to sprightly journals in the possession of descendants, were no hasty affairs. Not only were they accompanied by dancing in Colonial and post-Revolutiionary days, but sometimes they were extended into house parties.

A certain Molly Tilghman, of Chestertown, Md., a belle of the latter part of the eighteenth century, gives testimony in this regard. She wrote to a friend:

"Betsy Worrell was married last Thursday and so superb a wedding was never seen here. A number of most elegant cloaths, 6 brides men and maids. . . Between 50 and 60 people were present at the ceremony, who danced until 4 o'clock . . . Some of the company retired at 12, being afraid (I suppose) of injuring their healths by keeping such riotous hours. They kept up the ball till Monday, and then went to Middle Neck, accompanied by six carriages well filled. The bride and bride groom led the Van in a new Phaeton."

Women Carry Off O. Henry Memorial Prize Awards for Short Stories.

Women made a clean sweep of the O. Henry Memorial Prize awards for short stories this year. To Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings goes the first prize of $500 for her story, "Gal Young Un," which appeared in Harper's Magazine for June and July, 1932. To Pearl Buck goes the second prize of $250 for her story, "The Frill," which the Woman's Home Companion printed in its issue of March, 1933. Nancy Hale won the special $100 prize for the best short short-story with the tale "To the Invader," published in Modern Youth for March, 1933.

Out of 9,582 stories published in American magazines and considered, these stories were chosen by Blanche Colton Williams, head of the department of English, Hunter College; J. Donald Adams, editor of the New York Times book section, and William Soskin, literary editor of the New York Evening Post. With twelve others next in rank, these were published in the annual O. Henry Memorial volume by Doubleday-Doran on Wednesday.

Someone must have complained that the 1,200 pages of "Anthony Adverse" were a bit heavy in the hand, for Farrar & Rinehart are to bring out a two-volume edition this month. While still busy on the one-volume edition, the presses were stopped at the 200,000 imprint and the sheets taken out, to be hand-folded and presented to Franklin D. Roosevelt in a special binding.

On Fleeing South.

A novel, "MADAME TAHITI," by Andre de Wissant, illustrated by Yvonne de Saint-Cyr; William Farquhar Payson, $2.00.

Drab life behind the teller's cage in a Parisian bank may be entirely transformed—providing one has the good fortune to meet another Marie-Anne Quelec de Fontignan. Also, providing one has the good fortune to have a De Wissant handy to tell the story.

Told in the first person, so that "I" is substituted for his name, the young clerk meets Marie-Anne, "an artist," fleeing from a bestial Swedish husband in Tahiti, on a bus top in Paris. Desire is born in the first glance he has of her. The tale capitulates her life in the Malaynesias preceding the day when life became intolerable with Eric, her husband, and she was forced to leave a land she loved, although born a Frenchwoman. The hero of the present tale, "I," drawn by Anne's atractiveness and her ability to take him away from scenes he has grown weary of, by her ability to speak of the scenes she has lived through, pursues her for conquest. He fails more than once.

Thwarted constantly, then Marie-Anne takes the initiative and makes the grand tour of the continent, finally being drawn back to her husband and child in Tahiti. "I" gives up the chase when postal cards from Anne have ceased to come, and begins to pay more attention to the scene about him, rising to position in the bank.

The book loses none of its charm through translation by Grenville Vernon, and will be appreciated by those whose tastes have followed the Firbank tradition in modern French romance.

Casserole Aid In Preparing Savory Meals

Lid Shuts in Flavors, Makes Cheaper Cuts Taste Better.

By Ruth Chambers.

Cooking en casserole is coming more and more into favor, especially with housewives who have a flair for economy. This way of baking food is suitable for the use of leftover meats and also as a way of making delicious and unusual dishes from the less-demanded cuts of meats.

In casserole cookery the flavor of the food is entirely retained. A little overcooking won't hurt, and that is a help to housewives whose families are sometimes delayed at dinner time. Moreover, the casserole provides a very convenient way of serving the food in these days when casseroles and their holders are ornamental as well as useful.

Oxtails En Casserole.

Oxtail en casserole forms an unusual dish.

Wash the oxtail and separate it at the joint. Dip each section in flour and season with salt and pepper. Brown in hot fat. Put in a casserole, alternating the oxtails with layers of sliced onions and sliced carrots which have been slightly browned in the fat left from the oxtails.

Make a sauce of 3 tablespoons of flour, 2 tablespoons of fat and 2 cups of strained canned tomatoes. Pour over the oxtails in the casserole and cook slowly until the oxtails are tender. Just before serving, add 1 cup of cooked new lima beans or green string beans together with a little lemon juice.

Neck Slices of Lamb.

Neck slices of lamb en casserole are also an inexpensive dish. This may form a one-dish meal, supplemented by salad and dessert.

Have the bone removed from the required number of neck slices. Skewer the meat into shape and brown in a hot pan containing a little fat, until the meat is partially cooked on both sides.

Place in a buttered casserole 1 can of peas, 1 diced carrot and 1½ cups of raw diced potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Lay the lamb cutlets over the vegetables. Make a gravy by blending 1 tablespoon of flour with the fat in the pan in which the cutlets have been browned and adding 1 cup of water. Pour this over the vegetables and meat and bake slowly for about an hour and a half.

Baked Pork Sausage.

1½ pounds of pork sausage
1 cup of tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion

Brown the sausage slightly, then place in a baking pan. Pour the tomato sauce over this and season with chopped green pepper and onion. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45 minutes.

Baked Liver and Bacon.

A way of serving liver which will appeal to the children is to bake it in a casserole with slices of bacon.

2 pounds of pork liver, sliced
8 slices of bacon
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup meat stock or water
Salt
Pepper

Cover the sliced liver with boiling water and allow to stand a few minutes. Drain and remove the outside membranes. Lay half the number of bacon slices in the casserole. Roll the liver in flour and season with salt and pepper. Place it over the bacon. Put the remaining slices of bacon on top and cover with the stock. Cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven until the liver is tender.

Tubular Silhouette in Fur

Moire caracul, extravagantly collared with silver fox, happily sets forth the new tubular silhouette. Subtle fullness is achieved in the upper sleeve by means of tucks let in at the sides of the armhole. This coat is suitable for all-day wear and for informal evening occasions.

Parisiennes Seek Jobs as Policemen

Hope to Make Men Behave Well Appealing to Gallantry.

Paris, (U.P.).—French women, foiled in their attempts to win the ballot, are seeking anew to enter man's domain. This time they want to join the police force.

Mme. Avril de Sainte-Croix, society woman here, is the leader of a movement which aims to upset the French tradition that a policeman must have handle-bar mustaches—and look severe.

Her aim is to provide Paris with chic little policewomen who will keep Frenchmen lawabiding by appealing to their gallantry.

"We do not wish to supplant the men on the police force in any way," she said. "Our purpose is simply to use women for certain police work to which men are not adapted, because they are men.

"For example, who can deny that women are better qualified to watch over children in the squares, parks and garden? And what great services women police could render in safeguarding young women who are in constant danger on the city streets."

Since London recruited its first policewomen, Mme. de Sainte-Croix points out, other countries have followed suit, including Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Holland, Poland, Sweden, Brazil, Egypt and the United States.

As a result of this reform, she contends, the Viennese fraulein, though carried away by the sweep of the waltz, may feel safe under the vigilant eye of the policewoman.

If Mme. de Sainte-Croix succeeds, the women of Paris may enjoy similar security, but Paris will always be Paris.

Secret of Verbenas Part Of Heiress' Heritage

Miss Nancy Leiter, subdebutante heiress to the fortune of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, inherited something besides jewels, money and estates. For the secrets of the famous Leiter verbenas for which Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter was famous are still in the possession of the Leiter family.

Every Leiter bride and debutante since the days when the huge ballroom in the Leiter mansion on Dupont circle was brilliant with lights and verbenas for the wedding of Miss Mary Leiter and Lord Curzon have used Leiter verbenas for house decorations.

The late Mrs. Leiter had propagated many new varieties of these flowers and exercised her skill as a finished horticulturist to make them grow. She had the seeds carefull preserved so that the new effects might be carried on.

Now Is the Time for a Last Dinner of Trout and Local Fish.

"If people want to get trout they'd better get it now," said the waterfront fisherman, "because in a week or so there won't be any."

"Is trout going out of season?" asked the Marketer.

"Yes'm, pretty soon all local fish will be gone."

"What kind do you bring in then?"

"We get trawl fish that is caught in dragnets far out to sea. Right now we get our fish from the nets along the shore, but pretty soon the men will take in the nets and mend them for next year." The fisherman knocked a cigarette ash off into the water.

"Oysters are good," he continued. "They'll be coming in a long time. But fish are kind of scarce this week. The storm we had drove them all out to sea. Maybe this mild weather will bring them back."

So, housewife, get your trout while you may, for in a week or two there'll be no trout to get. It is priced at the waterfront at 15 cents a pound for spotted trout, yellow fin 10 cents a pound.

Crabmeat sells at 25 cents a pound. Butterfish is 8 cents a pound. Croakers, 10 cents a pound for the large ones, and 6 cents for the small. Oysters, 40 cents a quart, flounders 15 cents a pound.

Pomegranates! The sound of the word reminds the Marketer of the Orient, or the banquet tables of the ancient Romans. Here are pomegranates at a waterfront stall, two for 15 cents, lovely, red fruits! There's romance in them. Who wouldn't want romance on the dinner table?

How green the green things are this morning! Okra, 10 cents a pound, Brussels spouts 15 cents a box, cucumbers 5 cents each, spinach 3 pounds for 10 cents, home-grown lettuce 5 cents, and iceberg 10 cents a head.

Cauliflower, white and beautiful, is 15 to 20 cents. Egg plant, 10 cents or three for 25 cents.

Did you ever try lime in your tea? Limes, six for 15 cents. Oranges, 15, 20 and 25 cents a dozen, according to size. Bananas, 15 cents a dozen.

How about a crabflake salad for your luncheon party? Mix the chopped carrots, add mayonnaise and serve on a lettuce leaf. Garnish with a slice of tomato and a slice of hard-boiled egg.

Cottage Pudding.

1 cup flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Sift the flour, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl; add the remaining ingredients; stir vigorously until smooth. Bake in paper-lined pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes. Cut in squares with two forks and serve warm with sweetened crushed fruit and whipped cream, chocolate sauce, or butterscotch sauce, or coffee sauce.

Society Policewoman Upset When Robbed

The late Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department, was known as America's social registerite policewoman. She was a woman of gracious manners, widely traveled, of independent means, and her home in fashionable Northwest Washington was the scene of much quiet and elegant entertaining, after her police work was over for the day.

Official business called Mrs. Van Winkle out of the city for a couple of weeks one summer. She had put a new maid in charge of her silver. During her absence the maid took French leave with some of the choicest pieces.

In much agitation, Mrs. Van Winkle called a friend when she discovered her loss.

"My dear," she ejaculated; "something dreadful has happened to me. My new maid has gone and taken much of my silver with her. Whatever shall I do about it?"

"Call the police and have her arrested," suggested the friend, who had something of a sense of humor.

Sob Sister Escaped Ducking.

In the days when Andrew Jackson was President of the United States a real ducking stool was provided at the Navy Yard for a woman, although it was never used. This woman was Ann Royall, the first newspaper woman in Washington, who was called before a jury to answer the charge of being a public scold on account of the stories she ran in her newspaper, and her habit of retailing gossip.

Ann acted as her own lawyer and wrote a running account each day in her newspaper, penning barbs at the judge, the jury and her accusers generally. She referred to the jurors as "walking sticks." She was fined, but her fine was paid by fellow newspaper men.

Mobilize Purse For Patriotism, Women Advised

Mrs. Baldwin Tells Housewives They Can Buy for Better Times.

"The housewife in her kitchen is the biggest factor in the national recovery program," declared Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin at Thursday's session of The Washington Post Cooking School, in Washington Auditorium.

Mrs. Baldwin, chairman of the department of living costs, National League of Women Voters, introduced Miss Ruth Chambers, director of the cooking school, to an audience of 2,000 women.

"More than 80 per cent of all purchases are made by women," explained Mrs. Baldwin. "Most of us are given a certain sum of money with which to feed and clothe the family and supply other needs. It is up to us to get as much as we can for that money. Because we are the spenders, the success of the recovery program rests largely with us.

"In the perplexities of modern life we often have to look beyond our homes to find the best methods of taking care of our families and of spending our money wisely. The cooking school, provided through the generosity and foresight of The Washington Post, shows us those methods."

Treasure Chests.

(Serves six.)

6 bananas
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Choose thoroughly ripe bananas, with brown or spotted skins. Bake bananas in skins about 15 minutes. Split skin carefully down one side; remove pulp; mash add orange juice and sugar. Return to skin. Serve at once while warm.

Fair Fine!

Mrs. Alt Paid Costs to See First Lady.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Mrs. Clara Alt, Rogers Park society woman, paid a fine today because she preferred entertaining Mrs. Roosevelt to going to court.

Mrs. Alt was scheduled to appear as the complaining witness yesterday in a robbery case in Judge Harry Miller's court. She also was scheduled to act as a member of a committee entertaining Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, at the World's Fair. So Mrs. Alt went to the fair.

Friday's Message from

Ruth Chambers

Dear Madam:

Now, after three crowded days, I predict that on thousands of Washingtonians' breakfast, luncheon and dinner tables Comet White Rice and Comet Brown Rice is appearing in the many new ways I have demonstrated. Comet Rice is almost universally liked and is democratic enough to go well with meats, vegetables and fruits and add a deliciousness to all!

Quality tells and uniformity emphasizes the 30 years of housewives' approval Comet has enjoyed. Clean, wholesome and always fresh because of the exclusive "Hotpan Process" that Comet alone can use.

Unlike other rice, you run no risk of weevils or any other infestation with Comet—it's guaranteed.

Have you sent for your Comet Rice Ball yet? You really must for it is the most satisfactory way, the easiest and most certain method to cook rice. This week, by a special arrangement you can get one for only 30 cents—the regular price in department and other stores is sometimes as much as 50 cents. See your grocer for a coupon or clip the top of a Comet Rice Package and enclose 30 cents and mail to the Comet Rice Company, 190 Franklin Street, New York City. The Comet Rice Ball will be sent to you postpaid.

The week is nearly over, better do it now—you will not be disappointed.

Sincerely,
RUTH CHAMBERS.

Mrs. Lindbergh Shaken by Hop In Rainstorm

Colonel Expresses "Relief" Upon Arriving Safely at Amsterdam.

The American consul greeted the travelers as their seaplane came down to a perfect landing at the Naval airport in suburban Schellingwoude, but since their arrival was not previously announced, a crowd was not present.

The colonel expressed relief that they had made the trip safely from Les Mureaux, for the weather was bad and Mrs. Lindbergh was none too well on the short but rough journey.

They motored to The Hague and went to a hotel with the announced intention of returning here after visits to Dutch airplane factories.

Trend to Fascism Seen by Thomas

Points to Swope Plan of Regimented Industry.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—The trend in America, declared Norman Thomas tonight, is more definitely toward Fascism.

The Socialist leader, who returned today from a six weeks' tour of the Middle and Far West, said the plan of Gerard Swope for self-control of regimented industry is further evidence of this trend.

"Only the united opposition of labor and the agrarian areas can prevent the set-up of a Fascist state," Thomas said. "With such unity behind him, President Roosevelt—if he is of a mind to do so—can thwart this final effort of the capitalist system to save itself."

Texan 'Bawled Out' Ferguson, He Says

Got Money for Job Back First, Judge Explains.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 2 (AP).—Testimony of a self-described "job-selling" victim that he got his money back, then "bawled out" James E. Ferguson, husband of Texas' governor, was given today in a legislative committee's inquiry into charges of widespread sale of State jobs.

T. Ferguson, former judge, and James E. Ferguson's campaign manager in Madison County for two decades, was the witness.

When asked if he were a relative of "Jim" Ferguson, T. Ferguson, replied quickly: "No, I hope not."

Officer Accused of Attack on Woman.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 2 (U.P.).—The Government intends to carry through its prosecution of Lieut. John Murrel, Army officer, accused of attacking Miss Blanche Ralls on a military reservation, United States District Attorney W. R. Smith, jr., said today.

Miss Margaret Ralls, sister of the girl who brought the charges, also was quoted as saying she and her sister wanted the case prosecuted.

The alleged attack by Lieut. Murrel, which carries a death penalty upon conviction, occurred at Fort Sam Houston.

Marion Pays Honor To Harding's Memory

Marion, Ohio, Nov. 2 (AP).—The memory of President Warren G. Harding was honored today as hundreds of friends and neighbors took part in ceremonies attending the sixty-eighth anniversary of his birth.

A wreath sent by President Roosevelt was placed at the tomb by two Boy Scouts. The ceremonies were closed with a bugler sounding taps.

FOR QUICK ENERGY

Scientists have discovered that DEXTRINE aids in the digestion of all other foods and gives the body quick energy. King Syrup is rich in dextrine. For this reason, and because of its delightful flavor, you should serve it often. The tantalizing taste of its BLENDED flavors makes it a rare treat for the entire family.

Speaker Sees Quick Repeal Of Dry Laws

Volstead Act Will Go When Congress Meets, Declares Rainey.

(Associated Press.)

Removal of Federal prohibition enforcement laws from the statute books and revision of liquor taxes and tariffs yesterday were placed by Speaker Rainey at the top of the legislative calendar for the January session of Congress.

Although the Volstead act would be nullified if the prohibition amendment were repealed, except for its application in the District of Columbia and in Territories, Rainey said it should be eliminated.

Early action on a bill being prepared by the Ways and Means Committee to increase the liquor taxes from $1.10 a gallon to between $2.50 and $3 was forecast by the speaker.

Says Repeal Certain.

With 33 States having voted to ratify repeal and six balloting next next Tuesday, the Speaker told newspapermen that ratification "is certain."

The view that a move would be made to repeal the so-called Reed amendment which prohibits newspapers and other publications from sending into dry States issues carrying liquor advertisements also was expressed by Rainey.

He said the law would lead to complications.

Rainey was in Washington en route to his Illinois home from an Eastern speaking tour. The speaker said there was no reason why Congress could not complete its business and adjourn by mid-June. "There probably will be some changes recommended in all the emergency legislation," he said. "I suppose there will be some changes in the Federal securities laws; not to make it less effective, but more workable.

"We will keep the ordinary budget balanced. The extraordinary budget is self-liquidating and is not really a budget.

Sees No Inflation.

"There will be a strong effort to compel inflation in the next session, but by that time the President's gold-purchasing plan will have its effect and the demand for inflation probably will diminish. We may get some silver inflation.

As to farm legislation, Rainey said "the machinery set up already has been slow in getting into operation, but it is getting into operation now and probably will be in full swing by midwinter."

Rainey said if the Administration asked for $1,700,000,000 additional for public works as suggested recently by Secretary Ickes he would "not be surprised if Congress" authorized it.

U. S. Honors Hero Of San Juan Hill

Man Who Took Spanish Flag to Get Medal.

Twenty-five years ago Arthur Agnew, inmate of the U. S. Soldiers' Home here, wrested a Spanish flag from the block house on San Juan Hill. Surviving many of his comrades who were killed that day, he is to be decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal in memory of that exploit.

The War Department has notified him that the medal will replace a certificate of merit awarded him after the war.

Agnew for many years was a "trouble shooter" for a telephone company at Berkeley, Calif. He came to the Soldiers' Home two years ago. Although the time for the presentation of the medal has not been set, Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles, commanding the Fourteenth Infantry Brigade, is arranging the ceremony.

Milk Official To Be Recalled In Senate Quiz

Committee Not "Satisfied" With McGill's Previous Testimony.

Officials of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association will be the first witnesses today when hearings on the Senate Milk Investigating Committee are resumed.

The first witness will be John McGill, secretary of the association, "because the committee is not satisfied with his previous testimony," it was announced by Elwood H. Seal, committee counsel.

Examination of McGill and Isaac W. Heaps, bargaining agent for dairy farmers who ship to the Baltimore and Washington markets, is expected to continue throughout the day.

Senators William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, and Senator Pat McCarran, of Nevada, will hear the testimony. If the committee decides there is a milk monopoly in the District remedial legislation will be offered at the next session of Congress.

It was indicated yesterday by officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, that the marketing agreement proposed by the producers association will not be given hearing until after completion of the Senate inquiry.

Harvard Scholarship Given.

Award of a Harvard scholarship to Robert J. Stevenson, of Washington, a freshman, by the Harvard Club of the Capital, was announced yesterday. The awards average more than $400, and were granted to 26 students by clubs over the country.

U.S. Officers Won't Tell Ages; An 'Under 40' Rule, You Know

3 "Break Over" to Confess and All Are Outside Charmed Circle.

Only three direct answers were received by a reporter who asked the appointment chiefs how old they are—all on account of the storm of criticism resulting from a Civil Service Commission rule restricting employment examination of stenographers to persons under 40.

None of those telling their ages fell within the charmed circle of "under 40." W. W. Stockberger, Agriculture Department, confessed 61; Edward J. Graham, Commerce Department, 41, missed by a nose, and Andrew N. Ross, Federal Trade Commission, is 51.

Other answers included:

Mrs. J. Atwood Maulding, Interior Department: "Oh, my goodness! I'm over 21."

Alice B. Sanger, Postoffice Department: "Right at the present time, I don't care to have mine advertised."

George S. Paull, Internal Revenue Bureau: "All my friends know it. I don't care to tell the newspapers."

William D. Bergman, Navy Department: "Not that I'm ashamed of it, but I don't want my age published."

Miss Detzer Speaks Tonight.

Miss Dorothy Detzer, executive secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, will speak on "The Bloody Traffic in Armaments" at the Capital City Forum this evening at 8 p. m., at 709 G street northwest.

Stocks Drive Slightly Higher As Grains Rise

Gold Buying Abroad Also Provides Factor; Sales, 1,050,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Although Wall Street still seemed a bit hazy as to probable effects of the new monetary policy involving foreign gold purchases, stocks today managed to maintain their upward trend and again closed higher. The average gain was smaller than yesterday's while volume was virtually the same.

Strength of wheat and a declining dollar presumably had something to do with the market's decision to rally. The R. F. C. boosted its gold price slightly and the London market quotation rose more extensively, which served to reduce the spread. Dullness of share trading suggested that market operators were still feeling their way cautiously; public interest was said to be at a minimum.

Metal issues, having provided the leadership on Wednesday, met profit-taking and closed mostly lower, although alcohols, the other prominent speculative section, again forged ahead.

Oils Take Heart.

Oils took heart, from the marked improvement in third quarter earnings, one reflection of which came just before the close when Socony-Vacuum Corporation declared a 25-cent dividend, its last payment having been 10 cents early this year.

Utilities had a forenoon sinking spell, but braced later. Rails were quietly firm and tobaccos hardened.

At the close, United States Steel, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears-Roebuck, Harvester, Great Western Sugar, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Socony-Vacuum, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Texas Corporation were fractions to more than a point higher. Allied Chemical was up 2 and Western Union, U. S. Industrial and National Distillers about as much. Dome Mines dropped a couple of points. American Smelting, active, yielded one. Transfers totaled 1,149,930 shares.

Paris Gold Decreases.

The Bank of France statement revealed a decrease of 754,000,000 francs for the week ended October 27, equivalent to about $30,000,000 on the par value of the franc. The bank has lost approximately a billion and a quarter francs in the past couple of months. Later in the day the French cabinet approved a ministerial declaration reaffirming France's determination to stay on the gold standard.

Government security purchases by our own central banking system dwindled to $19,000,000, the smallest increment since the open market campaign was inaugurated several months ago.

The reduction was hardly a surprise, inasmuch as it had been plainly intimated that buying was to be slowed down as a result of the huge accumulation of excess reserves; these have declined moderately.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Cheerful tone was registered on the stock exchange today. There was a renewed demand for oil shares owing to talk of a rise in the price of petrol, while gold mining issues firmed on the rise in the price of bar gold. German bonds and industrials were well supported, but otherwise there was little doing. The market closed quiet.

Paris—Prices on the bourse responded to the upward trend evident in international issues, especially oil shares. Rentes, however, were lower. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Quotations on the boerse continued weak, but the market was a bit more cheerful owing to a small demand for some special shares. The closing was quiet.

Reichsbank Statement.

Berlin, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank statement as of October 31 shows the following changes in Reichs marks: Gold and bullion increased 6,355,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased, 5,322,000; bills of exchange and checks increased 188,911,000; silver and other coins decreased 91,621,000; notes on other banks decreased 10,849,000; advances increased 89,267,000; investments decreased 368,000; other assets increased 63,409,000; notes in circulation increased 244,902,000; other maturing obligations increased 5,746,000; other liabilities decreased 10,806,000.

The Weakness in Bonds

Result of General Uncertainty Rather Than Fear of Inflation

By Ralph West Robey.

One of the less spectacular results of our new monetary policy has been the behavior of the bond market. With a persistency found in no other market it has declined day after day. The drop has not been large, as measured by stock or commodity fluctuations, but there has been no let-up in the fall. At times the prices quoted have been purely nominal, according to those dealing in this market, and sales at anything like the stated figures have been virtually impossible.

The casual explanation given for this is that it has reflected a fear of inflation. Perhaps there is something in this. It seems far more likely to me, however, that such fear has been a secondary element and that the real reason for the weakness has been the general uncertainty about the outlook.

There are various reasons for taking this point of view. In the first place, there has been a comparable weakness in all the markets. Commodities and securities that should have advanced had the dominant factor in the market been fear of inflation, have gone down along with bonds and with the stocks which would not gain from starting the printing presses.

Have Neither of Conditions Leading to Bond Drop.

Secondly, and far more important, is the fact that we at present have neither of the conditions that would lead to a decline of bond prices through mere fear of inflation. The first of these conditions is for bonds to be selling above par. Now of course practically all of our bonds are substantially below that level.

The bond market, in consequence, should rise as a result of inflation. The rise would not be rapid, and in fact holders would lose because other things, including the cost of living, would increase more rapidly. Nevertheless, in time the bonds would come back to par because with money so plentiful all organizations, or practically all, would be able to meet maturities—meet maturities in money of less, or perhaps almost no, purchasing power.

Once the bonds reached par they would be unable to go higher. This would be their uppermost ceiling. Bonds at present selling above par probably, too, would drop to about that level, because with inflation there would cease to be a significant difference in credit standing. Rather, since everyone more or less would be able to pay at maturity it would make little difference which obligation one held. The only exception one needs to make to this conclusion is that prices still might vary somewhat above or below par on the basis of the interest rate paid, a 6 per cent obligation selling above a 4 per cent.

Bonds Also Will Drop if Inflation Moves Rapidly.

The second condition under which inflation causes a drop in the price of fixed interest obligations is for the inflation to be taking place at a terrific pace. If we think, for example, that there will be merely moderate inflation, resulting in a raise in the price level of, say, 10 per cent in a year, we shall be inclined to hold bonds although we lose a little in the process.

If the outlook for inflation, however, is that prices are going up 5, 10 or 100 per cent a month, it is too heavy a risk to hold the bonds. Then, the loss is too great. They must be disposed of if at all possible.

At present no one anticipates any such wild inflation. Until some people do begin to think in those terms, it does not seem to me that bond market declines should be credited in any great degree to fears of inflation. Rather, they should be placed squarely at the front door of those responsible for creating such a feeling of uncertainty that investors simply do not know which way to turn.

Federal Loans Join Sag; Sales Volume Rises to $11,118,000.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—The bond market was somewhat erratic today as the American dollar continued its downward course in foreign exchange dealings and the Government was reported to have made its first gold purchases abroad.

In the irregular price movements, Federal securities again declined along with a number of prime investment corporation issues.

At the same time some secondary groups, especially the rails, rallied moderately and several foreign government loans advanced briskly under the stimulus of further dollar depreciation.

Sales Volume Rises.

The sales volume stepped up to $11,118,000, par value, against $9,238,000 yesterday, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was unchanged at 73.6.

Carrier advances of 1 to 2 or more points were recorded by some liens of Alleghany Corporation, of Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Great Northern, K. C. Southern, Missouri Pacific, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania and Southern.

Some bonds of Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Hudson & Manhattan, Delaware & Hudson and Southern Pacific were a bit heavy.

On List of Gains.

Gains of around a point were held by loans of American & Foreign Power, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Similar losers included issues of Western Union, United Drug, K. C. Power & Light, Utah Power and others. Most American telephone issues were fractionally.

French Government 7½s reached a new high for the year with an advance of ¾ of a point to 160¾ and Swiss Government 5½s, up 3½ at 155½, were also at a new 1932 peak. Bonds of Sweden, Germany and a number of French cities gained 1 to 2 or more points.

Most U. S. Government obligations were down 2-32nds to 11-32nds of a point, with Treasury 3s, registered, losing 1.15 points.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Structural steel—Business awarded during October is estimated at 60,000 tons, or about unchanged from that placed in September.

Rayon—Leading producers have opened their books for January orders at the same price levels that have prevailed during the past few months.

Tin—The world's visible supply declined 2,222 tons during October to 27,940 tons, which is said to be the lowest total since November, 1929.

Chemicals—It is reported in the trade that manufacturers of alkalis are reluctant to quote prices on 1934 contracts because of inability to determine what their production costs will be. There have been unconfirmed reports of a moderate raise in the schedules.

Soap—The trade hears that a leading manufacturer has lowered prices of its principal lines from 4 per cent to 12 per cent.

Week's Advances Average $2,549,000,000; Up Over '32 Period.

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended November 1 was $2,549,000,000, the Federal Reserve Board reported, an increase of $31,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $321,000,000 compared with the same week last year.

On November 1 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $2,550,000,000 an increase of $24,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponded with increases of $32,000,000 in money in circulation and $7,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, &c., and a decrease of $88,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted, offset in part by a decrease of $102,000,000 in member bank reserve balances.

Bills discounted increased $5,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and $2,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks. The system's holding of bills bought in open market showed practically no change for the week, while holdings of United States bonds increased $2,000,000, of Treasury notes, $14,000,000 and of Treasury certificates and bills, $4,000,000. Changes in the amount of reserve bank credit outstanding and in relative items, during the week and the same week of last year follow, in millions of dollars:

Wool Market.

Boston, Nov. 2 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agri.).—Most wool houses in Boston are receiving practically no business. A few are receiving some inquiries, but most of these have not developed into sales. An occasional buyer comes into the market for small quantities for which prices fully up to recent selling quotations are being paid. Some 12 months Texas wool has recently been taken out of the market. Choice 12 months wools in original bags are quoted steady at 81-82 cents scoured basis, while graded lines have realised prices slightly above this range.

Curb's Prices Close Firmer As Sales Gain

Alcohols Record Rises as Turnover Mounts to 188,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—The curb market closed with a degree of firmness today after riding over a few rough spots in earlier dealings. Repeal shares were the uplifting force throughout the session, while the action of the petroleum issues was also encouraging. Small offerings appeared in utilities and some of the metals around midday, but both groups strengthened in the last hour.

Shares closing 1 to 2 points higher included Armstrong Cork, Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A," Distillers Corporation - Seagrams, General Tire & Rubber, Hiram Walker, Gulf, Humble Oil, American Gas & Electric, International Petroleum, National Distillers (new), New Jersey Zinc, Newmont, Sherman Williams, Singer Manufacturing and Technicolor.

Trading continued its recent dull pattern, although some improvement was noted on the uptrend. Transfers approximated 188,000 shares, compared with 173,000 for Wednesday.

Soft Coal Production Declines 200,000 Tons

The National Coal Association, from incomplete car loading reports from the railroads, estimates bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended October 28 as approximately 7,275,000 net tons. Production for the corresponding week: 1932, 7,475,000 tons; 1931, 8,100,000 tons.

The report of the Bureau of Mines shows production of 6,710,000 tons for the week ended October 14, and 7,030,000 for the week ended October 21, 1933.

Bank of France.

Paris, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold decreased 754,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 1,000,000; bills discounted at home increased 629,000,000; bills bought abroad decreased 29,000,000; advances decreased 21,000,000; circulation increased 160,000,000; current accounts decreased 382,000,000. Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today announced no change in its 2 per cent rediscount rate.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—A meeting of the Association of Railway Executives will be held in Chicago November 9 for the purpose of receiving suggestions for the new railroad law being drafted by Secretary of Commerce Roper and a committee.

Guaranty Trust Co. announced today that $2,480,000 of Dutch East Indies 25-year external 6 per cent gold bonds have been drawn for redemption January 1 at the rate of 2.4525 guilders per dollar face value.

Carl D. Berry, president of National Bellas Hess, Inc., stated today sales of the company for October were 58 per cent higher than for the corresponding period last year. He said Government checks distributed through the cotton region had increased sales in that area tremendously.

An order for 5,000 tons of steel rails will be placed immediately by the Reading Co., it was announced today. The business will be booked at the price of $36.375 a ton negotiated by Railroad Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman, and the road will pay for the rails directly instead of availing itself of the Government's offer of loans for that purpose.

A statement of the financial condition of the Railroad Credit Corporation as of October 31 shows that the corporation has obtained repayments of $4,502,384 from borrowing carriers, which reduces the outstanding loan balances to $69,188,984. The corporation is now engaged in liquidating the pool created by the railroads with revenues derived from the emergency freight rates granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Beginning November 11, Saturday trading in futures will be resumed on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

Woolen Mills Irregular.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Woolen mill operations are irregular, says the New York Tool Top Exchange Service. Curtailment was particularly noticeable this past week in mills specializing in women's cloakings and dress goods, but "the industry as a whole is running at a fairly high rate."

Cotton Renews Advances on Trade Buying

December Sells at 9.56 as General Market Rises 1 to 4 Points.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Cotton prices fluctuated within a range of some 8 or 9 points today. December contracts, after advancing to 9.59 at the start, sold off to 9.51, but just about recovered the loss and closed at 9.56, with the general market ending steady at net advances of 1 to 4 points.

A moderately early demand from the trade or commission house sources was supplied by Southern selling.

May declined from 9.93 to 9.85 with active months generally showing net losses of about 2 to 5 points before the end of the morning.

Buying Becomes Active.

Trade buying or covering became a little more active at the decline, and prices worked back to about the opening quotations, with active months selling some 3 to 5 points net higher during the afternoon. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best for the day.

December liquidation was a little more in evidence during the morning, but it was absorbed by spot house buying, believed to be partly in the way of fixing prices and partly against sales of later deliveries.

Exports today, 47,667 bales, making 2,441,972 bales so far this year. Port receipts, 40,746 bales. United States port stocks, 3,963,027 bales.

Futures Price Range.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil today closed net unchanged to 5 points higher. Firmness of grains and crude oil and steadiness of cotton and lard, led to scattered covering and local buying, while offerings were light owing to reports that many mills were shutting down. Sales were 14 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; December, closed 4.48; January, 4.60; March, 4.80; May, 4.95.

Gold Buying Called Copying Europe's Plan

New York, Nov. 2.—President Roosevelt's present gold policy merely takes a leaf from Europe's book, in the opinion of Dr. Lionel D. Edie, Wall street economist, who has little patience with "the uproar of protest" from abroad.

"The steps being taken by the American Government," he said in an interview, "differ only in details from the broad pattern of procedure followed in most European countries after the World War. Progressive efforts to secure an exchange control and freedom to modify the domestic price of gold without interference and dictation from outside countries are clearly established precedents."

Dr. Edie said it was to be hoped that the United States would be as cooperative as possible with other countries in the present emergency, but added it was equally to be hoped that she would not surrender her independence on the basic monetary question or leave the international position of the dollar to the determination of chance or of the British equalization fund.

Recalling that European countries have freely changed the price of gold in their own currencies, that even before the United States went off gold Great Britain had run the price of gold up in terms of sterling about 50 per cent, Dr. Edie said efforts to construe the Administration policy as a declaration of economic war were decidedly difficult to justify.

"As I understand the announced policy, the Administration has made no irrevocable commitment to rely solely or mainly upon revaluation of the gold dollar as a means of lifting the domestic commodity price level. The official statement indicated the desirability of exchange control to eliminate sharp fluctuations in foreign exchange as an obstruction to the numerous and varied policies of the Administration calculated to lift commodity price levels."

Loans to Brokers Gain $18,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by weekly reporting member banks in New York City amounted to $749,000,000 during the week ended November 1, the Federal Reserve Board reported, representing a gain of $18,000,000 for the week.

The loans for the week ended November 2, 1932, were $362,000,000. The board's detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with follows:

| | Nov.1 | Oct.25 | Nov.2. 1932 |
|---|---|---|---|
| *For own account... | $641 | $620 | $343 |

846,949 Depositors to Get Cash; RFC Loans Aid Institutions.

On November 15, possibly sooner, 846,949 depositors in the two large closed Detroit National banks—the Guardian National Bank of Commerce and the First National Bank—will be paid $53,674,563 by receivers of those institutions, J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, announced here yesterday.

The receivers of the two Detroit banks and their staffs are working day and night in an effort to pay these large dividends to depositors as soon as possible. Present indications are that the payments will be made the middle of the month, but if the clerical work can be completed sooner, the date will be advanced.

The dividend to be paid by the Guardian will amount to 20 per cent on unsecured claims, or $19,374,563 and will bring the total paid to 60 per cent, or $58,338,958, while the First National dividend will amount to 10 per cent, or $34,300,000, bringing the total paid to 50 per cent, or $169,992,357.

R. F. C. to Make Loan.

To make possible the present Guardian payment, a commitment for a loan of $26,000,000 has been granted by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the comptroller. The next dividend will be distributed to 140,000 depositors, 134,000 of whom had accounts with the bank of less than $2,000.

They had on deposit at the time of the bank's suspension $96,872,815, which figure does not include secured deposits or claims for borrowed money, all of which have since been paid in full or will be finally disposed of before starting the next distribution.

There have been three previous dividends of 5, 5, and 30 per cent by the Guardian, totaling $36,496,651. Over 50,000 depositors holding claims aggregating $6,169,360, have not yet proven claims or called for their dividends, and the receiver is holding in cash $2,467,744 with which to pay these previous dividends. Loans previously obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to aid in these dividends have since been paid off.

Schedule of Claims.

At the time of previous dividend payments, Guardian depositors were asked to sign a schedule of claims, and this will not have to be done again. All work in connection with deliveries of Guardian dividend checks will be from the old Commerce Bank on Fort street, Detroit. The first notice received by the depositor will be the receipt, through the mails, of the form of receipt which he must execute.

This can be mailed to the receiver, whereupon a check covering the dividend will be sent out within 24 hours, or brought to the office for cash. Receipts will be mailed to all commercial (checking) accounts first. Savings accounts and other classes of liabilities will follow, and the mailing will be done alphabetically.

The receiver estimates that from 10,000 to 15,000 checks can be handled daily. Depositors are asked to await receipt of the communication by mail, advising the receiver in event of change of address. All checks for Guardian dividends will be drawn on the Manufacturers Trust Co., Detroit.

Loan of $48,000,000.

In order to pay the coming First National dividend, the Comptroller obtained a $48,000,000 loan from the R. F. C. The distribution will be made to 706,949 depositors, of whom 614,076 had accounts of under $500. At the time of the bank's suspension, total deposit liabilities were $398,763,166, since reduced by allowance of offsets and payment of secured deposits and claims.

A reserve of $7,500,000 has been set up against possible real estate liability losses. There have been 3 previous dividends by the First National of 5, 5, and 30 per cent, totaling $133,310,695. To aid in these distributions, a loan was obtained from the R. F. C., while the bank was still in conservatorship, on which there is still due $26,328,813.

Previous dividends have been called for by some 500,000 of the 706,949 depositors only, and there is still awaiting distribution to those who did not previously participate the sum of $2,381,662. Of previous dividends, $31,089,407 was paid out in currency and $102,221,288 in checks.

Next Dividend Plans.

In the distribution of the next dividend, First National depositors will be advised of the date and plans of the receiver by the Detroit newspapers. They will be requested to call at the 32 branches and offices in groups of about 15,000 daily, selected alphabetically, and they will be waited on, night and day, by over 400 employes.

Detroit depositors will be asked to call at one of the offices, bringing evidence of their claims—pass book, certificate of deposit, &c.—which will thereupon be canceled and returned to the depositor, who must sign a schedule of claim, showing the amount and the previous dividends paid. Necessary work on the claim will then be done by the office force, and, within 72 hours of the filing of the claim, a check will be mailed to the claimant, drawn upon the National Bank of Detroit.

B. C. Schram is receiver for the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, and C. O. Thomas is receiver for the First National Bank.

European Rye Cargoes Headed for U. S. Ports

Montreal, Nov. 2 (AP).—Approximately 15,000 tons of European rye will arrive tomorrow for transshipment to United States ports of the Great Lakes. The actual destination of the cargos was not learned.

The grain is in two shipments, one from Poland and one from Roumania. It was understood the possibility of prohibition repeal created the demand.

"Footlight Parade" Given Public Preview at Warner's Metropolitan Theater

Great Musical Spectacle Has Unique Beauty

Reaches Huge Climax From Slow Start; Other Theater Items.

"FOOTLIGHT PARADE." Warner Brothers' picturization of a story by Manuel Seff and James Seymour, featuring James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Hugh Herbert, Frank McHugh, Claire Dodd, Ruth Donnelly, Guy Kibbe and scores more, with beauty chorus, swimmers and dancers. Music and lyrics by Harry Warren, Al Dubin, Sam Fain and Irving Kahal. Action directed by Lloyd Bacon; spectacular musical numbers by Busby Berkeley. Previewed in October.

Having inaugurated a new national cycle of screen musical productions with "Forty-Second Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933," both of which soon were approximated in general form and content, if not in public appeal, by the releases of a considerable number of competitive producers, the Warner Brothers evidently made up their minds that for their third adventure in chromatic cinema they would give the boys something to shoot at possibly just a little beyond their range.

"Footlight Parade," presented for the first time in Washington at a public preview in the Metropolitan Theater last night, is the result of that determination—if any such there were.

Big and Beautiful.

"Footlight Parade," it is safe to say, will not be matched in spectacular splendor and seemingly illimitable magnitude until another Busby Berkeley comes along. Mr. Berkeley it was who staged the musical numbers in both "Forty-second Street" and "Gold Diggers," but they seem to have been merely tuning-up exercises for the magical effects he has achieved for the climacteric scenes of this picture.

In his handling of color, form and movement and the employment of vast multitudes of people in scenes of mammoth proportions, Mr. Berkeley apparently thinks in terms measured upon a Gargantuan scale that no other director as yet has apprehended.

Tells Real Story.

But this is getting ahead of the story. "Footlight Parade," primarily, traces the history of the hectic business of providing prologues, presentations and unit stage shows for motion picture theaters that find it difficult to survive upon a steady diet of screen fare alone. Chester Kent is a youngster with ideas, whose inspired flights of showmanship are constantly nullified by a pair of chiseling partners with an eye single to the immediate dollar—especially if it comes out of Chester's split of the ostensibly nonexistent profits.

Embellishing this major mercenary theme are a brace or two of flaming romances, a deal of comedy—some delightfully spontaneous, some lamentably labored—and a comprehensive close-up of the bitter business of planning, rehearsing and presenting stage units that will attract customers to the box office.

The whole thing finally simmers down to the presentation of three mighty stage spectacles in three different theaters in a single evening to clinch a handsome contract with the most opulent picture exhibitor in town, at the moment suffering an acute attack of indigestion as a result of the banqueting to which he has been subjected by the producers as a means of winning his favorable consideration!

Three Stupendous Spectacles.

These trip-hammer premieres constitute the picture's smash. The three are built around the most pretentious tunes written into the picture's score, "Honeymoon Hotel," "By a Waterfall" and "Shanghai Lil."

The "Waterfall" interlude is unique in its treatment of the aquatic motif and its utilization of seemingly hundreds of beautiful girls in a series of most unusual swimming formations and "Shanghai Lil" unleashes a military pageant hardly less spectacularly impressive than a whole modern army on parade. It is with this fanfare and riot of mass motion that the film comes to an end.

There can be no gainsaying that "Footlight Parade" builds its early dramatic situations slowly and in its initial scenes gives no hint of the glories that are to come. The rehearsal episodes with Jimmy Cagney's high-pressure driving and Frank McHugh's deep discouragement, as a matter of fact, at times become just a bit irksome. This, however, is a condition that usually is speedily overcome by the spontaneity of Joan Blondell, the ingenuous charm of Ruby Keeler or the droll comedy of Hugh Herbert and Ruth Donnelly.

Mr. Cagney, when he drops his "big executive" explosiveness finds time to surprise the gentry by unfurling a fair singing voice and revealing unsuspected agility as a tap dancer. Ruby Keeler, on the other hand, hasn't half enough dancing to do to satisfy her admirers.

From beginning to end, "Footlight Parade" is played in a high key and at breakneck speed. The action rushes along tumultuously, betraying only the single defect of repetitiousness—to many one of the cardinal sins.

The feature is so self-sufficient that only a brief Paramount Sound News is offered as an auxiliary item.

A bulletin hot from the smoking typewriters of the publicity department of Loew's Fox Theater announces that at the 7 o'clock performance tonight the teams, coaches, cheering sections and bands of George Washington University and the University of Tennessee football squads will be guests of City Manager Carter Barron, an old gridiron hero himself, to enjoy the speedy entertainment provided by "Broadway Through a Keyhole" and the Cotton Club's "Stormy Weather" revue. So, if it is the collegiate spirit and football enthusiasm that you crave, Loew's Fox tonight at 7 will be the place to find it. Finding a seat may not be so easy!

With Hollywood Trimmings.

The premiere presentation of "Midshipman Jack," the attraction at RKO-Keith's following Charles Laughton in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," at the Fort Myer Theater, Fort Myer, Va., next Monday night—so one learns from a protracted telephone visit with Julia Gwin, diminutive but dynamic publicity and exploitation expert from the New York home office of RKO-Radio, in Washington in the interest of "Rodney," being filmed at Fort Myer by George Archainbaud—will take on all of the excitement, much of the glamour and a great deal of the novelty of a genuine Hollywood premiere.

Bands will play, sun arcs will pierce the sky with their penetrating beams, a loudspeaker public address system will announce the arrival of the distinguished guests, a radio broadcast will carry their voices from the microphone to listeners all over the country and in addition to "Midshipman Jack," the program will include studio "rushes" of scenes already filmed of "Rodney," with Walter Huston and Frances Dee.

This will be not only the first time rushes of a new picture will have been shown at a local premiere, but the event will mark also the first time a Navy picture ever has been given its premiere at an Army post.

The proceeds of the showing will be devoted entirely to the needs of the Army Relief Society.

A distinguished audience will be present, headed by Secretary of War George H. Dern and Mrs. Dern and high ranking officers of the Army and their families and friends.

Tonight at 9, by the way, George Archainbaud, director of "Rodney" will be guest of honor at the special public reception to be staged at RKO-Keith's Theater. He will be surrounded on the stage by the members of the "Rodney" company, including Walter Huston and Frances Dee, all of whom, later, will be entertained at a backstage buffet supper at which they will be greeted by members of the local press. Joel McCrea, whose marriage to Miss Dee was solemnized only a little over a week ago, last evening signified his intention of being present with his wife unless an unforseen call to duty before the cameras necessitated his leaving the Capital sometime today.

New Dance Impresario.

Inaugurating a series of dances, bringing to Washington outstanding names in the dance-band world, Bert Lown and His Orchestra will play a special one-night engagement in the ballroom of the Willard Hotel tonight, beginning at 9 o'clock and continuing until 1 a. m.

Lown's is a well-known name to dance enthusiasts as well as to those who keep abreast of popular music and its composers. He is the author of such famous tunes as "Bye, Bye, Blues," "You're the One I Care For" and "By My Side." His most recent engagement was in the Cocoanut Grove of the Park Central Hotel in New York. Prior to that he and his organization played at the Biltmore Hotel for a period of more than three years.

Dancers at the proms of Georgetown, Dartmouth, Yale, Princeton, V. M. I., Washington and Lee and many other institutions of higher learning are familiar with the Lown music.

The series of dances, of which this is the first, is being sponsored by Eddie Carr, well known in Washington amusement circles, as well as among those who enjoy ballroom diversion in the promotion of which he has long been active.

It is worthy of note that when "Dinner at Eight," the all-star Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of the stage play of the same name, begins its second week as a road-show attraction at the National Theater on Sunday, three performances will be given. The first Sunday projection of the picture will be at 2:45 p. m., to be followed by a second at 6 and a third and final showing for the day at 8:45. Throughout the remainder of the week, showings, as heretofore, will be twice daily at 2:45 and 8:45 p. m.

Famous Last Lines.

Victim of Stormy Film Romance

Symphony Star Barytone Wins Concert Crowd

John Charles Thomas Is Recalled 10 Times for Orchestral Solos.

By Ray C. B. Brown.

As orchestral soloists frequently do, John Charles Thomas carried off the honors of applause yesterday afternoon at the concert of the National Symphony Orchestra in Constitution Hall. Admiring auditors recalled him 10 times, receiving the reward of two extra numbers, and four of the recalls followed the last extra. The barytone was in good voice, although he did not fully utilize its best qualities of warmth and vibrancy until the second half of the program.

There was some restraint of tone in his singing of the three selections that constituted his opening group: the Handelian aria, "Dank sei dir, Herr," Cesti' "E dove t'aggiri" and the "Zueignung" of Richard Strauss. Resonance and breadth of phrasing were there, but the lyric fervor of emotion seemed to fall just short of conviction. When he returned, however, to sing "O du, mein holder Abendstern," he warmed to that romantic apostrophe, and became wholly the bard, a moving impersonator of Wolfram von Eschenbach.

Gives Iago's Soliloquy.

At his appearance after the intermission, he gave an excellent reading of Iago's sardonic soliloquy, "Credo in un dio crudele," from "Otello." With voice thoroughly warmed, he moulded it to each bitter phrase of mockery and despair. And it was still more plastic and persuasive in the concluding encore, "Di Provenza il mar," which was rich in color.

Dr. Hans Kindler opened the program with a transcription for harp and strings of that charming slow movement by Benedetto Marcello which Bach used in the third of his "Vivaldi" concerto for harpsichord. It was played eloquently with a fine quality of string tone, and Miss Sylvia Meyer was commendably apt with the solo harp.

Beethoven's "Self-Portrait."

The symphony of the day was Beethoven's eighth, which one may call his self-portrait, painted when he was in the mood to see himself as a genial companion. In it we hear the rollicking humor, the prankishness, the high spirits that marked those occasions when he relaxed. Here there are no questionings of fate, no broodings over the problem of good and evil, on inward raptness of spirit. Only now and then, in those transitional passages in which he knew so well how to suggest a scene of apprehension, does it hint at the mysteries surrounding mortals.

The concert closed with the two characteristically Iberian dances from the second act of Manuel de Falla's opera, "La Vida Breve." Their verve and rhythmic subtleties were well brought in the performance.

Judges Search Rhyme Deluge For Best Poem

Hundreds Submitted Up to Last Midnight; Prizes to Be Awarded.

The two erudite judges, Dr. George Bowerman, librarian of the Washington Public Library, and Mr. Stephen Kramer, first assistant superintendent of Capital schools, today were focusing critical eyes on the wealth of birthday poems readers of The Post have penned to Marie Dressler.

These poetic contributions were inspired by The Post and the local Loew theaters which fostered a contest, that will contribute a fitting ode to the beloved actress—who has entertained Americans for 50 years—when the Nation helps her celebrate her sixty-second birthday on November 9.

The contest closed last midnight after an unusually large number of readers had entered poems that were commendably clever and original.

As soon as the judges have selected those which they deem most meritorious, winners will be announced in the columns of this paper.

In addition to earning a $15 cash prize, the best verse contributed will be sent to Hollywood to be entered in a national competition that offers as first prize $250 in cash. Washington's second best poem will receive $10 in cash, and the 10 next best writers will each receive a pair of guest tickets to the Loew theaters, the Fox, Palace or Columbia.

Enrico Odierno Here to Make Opera Plans

International Company Will Come to Capital Nov. 19 for Week.

Enrico Odierno, technical adviser and assistant director of the International Opera Company, spent the day in Washington yesterday conferring with his chief, Maurice Frank, regarding preparations for the week of grand opera to open November 19 at the Washington Auditorium.

Odierno, who reported that New York rehearsals are progressing satisfactorily, spent part of the day with Armando Jannuzzi, one-time grand opera singer and now an adviser in the staging of the Washington opera.

Odierno for 32 years has managed some of the world's most famous operatic temperaments, has appeased the artistic idiosyncracies of the Carusos, the Cardinalis, the Melbas, the Lillian Nordicas.

Mild Mannered Man.

Odierno has cast and organized 120 operas, some of them for Heinrich Conried and Oscar Hammerstein in the earlier days of the Metropolitan.

He is a small, mild man, this Odierno who has made Jiannia Russ, Maria Gay and De Segurala sing roles they didn't want. He looks at you through spectacles with lenses as thick as window glass and talks diffidently of Scotti, Tetrazini, San Marco.

Wanted "Wrong" Roles.

"They all at some time or other wanted to sing roles in which they were no good," he said. "I never told them that, though. I told them they would be magnificent, but asked them to sing the roles in which they were truly great as a favor to me. They always did."

For the first time in his long operatic experience, Odierno is casting grand opera for the Nation's Capital where the highest priced seat will be 55 cents. For the last 12 years he has been associated with Frank as assistant director of the International Opera Company, which has arranged with The Washington Post to distribute to Post readers at half price reserved seats to a week of grand opera, opening at the Washington Auditorium Sunday, November 19.

Ponselle Will Sing.

Casting for each opera will be complete in a few days, Odierno said. Several of the leading roles already have been filled. Carmela Panselle, Metropolitan soprano, will sing "Carmen" for the performance the night of Monday, November 30, and "Aida" Thursday night.

A complete sell-out of The Post's entire block of 3,000 seats for each opera was predicted by Frank, the director. More than 1,000 tickets were sold at the Steiff piano store, 1340 G street northwest, yesterday, Frank said.

To readers of The Post, reserved seats are still available at 30, 46 and 55 cents. The remainder of the seats are to be sold by the opera company at 25, 50, 75 and 90 cents.

Miami Cafeteria Firm To Open Business Here

A lease of business space by which Holsum Cafeterias acquire 20,000 square feet in the Washington Building, Fifteenth and G streets and New York avenue northwest, has been signed, it was learned yesterday.

The cafeteria organization with headquarters in Miami has leased through Weaver Bros., Inc.

Halbert Denies Relief Charges

Inquiry Into Handling of Funds Welcomed, Director Says.

Thorough investigation of the handling of emergency relief funds will be welcomed at any time, Leroy A. Halbert, director of emergency relief, said yesterday in reply to charges of irregularities and misuse made by Edward L. Hunter, secretary of the Friendship Citizens Association, at a meeting Wednesday night.

Mr. Halbert denied each charge, except criticism of employment of Howard University students and alumni as case workers. These are employed solely in colored cases, Mr. Halbert said.

Mr. Halbert also denied a statement that single men were employed full time out of relief funds while married men were given only part-time work.

Utility Expert Tells Basis Of Land Value

Doyle Cites Prices Paid for Property Near Gas Station.

Board's Counsel Grills Company Witness on Appraisal.

Harold E. Doyle, appraisal expert, testified before the Public Utilities Commission yesterday that his appraisal of the land at the West station of the Washington Gas Light Co. had been increased by considering what the land would bring if used for other than industrial purposes.

Mr. Doyle, a company witness, was under cross-examination by William A. Roberts, commission counsel, throughout the day. He had cited prices at which other land in the general neighborhood had been sold for apartment houses and other uses. These prices were higher than he had appraised the gas company land, he said.

Under questioning he admitted he would not have placed $1,350,000 value on the land if he had considered its future use solely for industrial purposes.

Appraisal Explained.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, member of the commission, interjected that valuing the gas company land on such a basis seemed "like carrying coal in a Cadillac limousine."

Stoddard M. Stevens, jr., of company counsel, said Mr. Doyle had not based his appraisal on prices paid in the sales cited, but much lower.

Considerable attention was devoted to comparison of the east station land of the company, which Mr. Doyle valued at $1,188,000, and a large plot purchased by the Potomac Electric Power Co. at Buzzards Point, at an average price of 70 cents a square foot.

Mr. Doyle had valued the gas company east station land at $2.25 per foot. The appraiser refused, however, to concede he had overvalued and said he had taken into consideration all of the factors which go to make an accurate appraisal. Despite the long barrage of questions he insisted he had done the same thing in appraising each parcel of real estate.

Resume Hearing Today.

Cross-examination of Mr. Doyle and Charles A. Jones, another company land expert, is to be completed by Mr. Roberts and Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, when the hearings are resumed at 10 a. m. today.

Appraisal by commission experts is to be put into the record when hearings are resumed Monday morning. The commission appraisal does not take into consideration closed streets and alleys, wharfage privileges, easements and other privilege of use enjoyed by the company. Company appraisals have included these benefits. In several instances where comparable appraisals have been made the figures of the commission experts are higher than those of the company appraisers.

Brown to Wait On Blood Tests

Says Drunken Driver Plan Must Be Legal.

Members of the Police Department will not enforce Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer's blood test program for drunken drivers until the legality of the test is established by the corporation counsel, Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown said yesterday.

"I am not opposed to the plan," Maj. Brown said, "but until I am assured the taking of blood from a prisoner against his will does not constitute assault, I will not authorize the plan's enforcement."

New Engineer Chief Honored at Luncheon

District officials who served with Gen. Edward M. Markham, newly appointed chief of engineers of the United States Army, yesterday gave a luncheon in his honor at the Occidental Hotel. Gen. Markham served as assistant engineer of the District from August 14, 1907, to August 28, 1912. He had the rank of captain at that time.

Zanzig Directs Singing Of Community Center

Community Center Department members engaged in half an hour of singing at the Franklin School yesterday, led by Augustus D. Zanzig, director of music service of the National Recreation Association.

Mr. Zanzig has come to Washington to conduct a music institute to be sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies. Mrs. Gertrude Lyons, president of the District Federation of Music Clubs, is institute chairman.

Bird Lovers Battle Anglers About Rights To Creeks Crossing Mt. Vernon Highway

D. C. Club Raid Nets Evidence And 2 Arrests

Alleged Liquor, Gambling Equipment Seized by Vice Unit.

A raiding squad of the police headquarters vice unit late yesterday descended on third-floor quarters of the Champlain Club, 817 Thirteenth street northwest, arrested two men and confiscated alleged liquor and gambling equipment.

Hundreds of spectators were attracted by the raid. Moving vans were loaded with the club's furnishings. Lieuts. George M. Little and N. O. Holmes led the squad.

The establishment was reputed to be well patronized.

John Sweeney, described as a bartender, and John McGriff, porter, were arrested.

Sweeney was charged with permitting gaming and sale of liquor. He was held under bond of $1,500. McGriff was held under a $500 bond on charges of illegal possession.

Crime Reduced In Fifth Precinct

Lieut. Varney Admits Area Is Undermanned.

Answering complaints of inadequate police protection in the Fifth Precinct, Lieut. Frank Varney last night told the Burroughs Citizens Association that less crime had been reported in that area since October 20 than in any other precinct.

He admitted, however, that the precinct, like all others, is undermanned. Following his talk he answered a barrage of questions.

David Babp, chairman of the milk investigating committee, reported that he was looking into the grade of buttermilk sold in Washington as he believed it failed to comply with the pure food and drug act.

Music Rally Planned For Students, Parents

A music and song rally for students of Roosevelt High School and their parents will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the school auditorium.

Wedding of H. L. Roosevelt's Ancestors Told in 1808 Note

Letter Found by Woman Here to Be Given Swanson Aid.

Wedding bells that rang 125 years ago are echoed in a letter just come to light and which will be presented to Col. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, distant cousin of the President.

The letter was written here on November 21, 1908, by R. Henry Latrobe to his fellow architect in Philadelphia, Robert Mills, who years later was to design the Washington Monument. Mr. Latrobe was Col. Roosevelt's great-great-grandfather.

"My dear sir," the letter said, "I received your letter this day, athank you for the pleasant intelligence that the bank is at last removed. If I have not answered your last letter you must excuse me. The pressure of public business upon me since the death of Mr. Leuthall is excessive, abesides that, my daughter Lydia was married on the 15th to Mr. Roosevelt aby the arrangements necessary to this event my mind and time have been very much occupied.

"I shall now be in Philadelphia in about a fortnight and stay to settle Mr. Markoe's affairs, as well as Mitchell's. Will you be so good as to tell these gentlemen so. I wrote, by the bye, to Mrs. Markoe by Mr. Roosevelt. I have but a few moments at present to acknowledge your letter atobeg my best respects to Mrs. Mills in which Mrs. L. joins. Believe me truly yours, B. Henry Latrobe."

Mrs. Robert Mills Evans, 3050 P street northwest, found the letter this week while rummaging through old correspondence. She is the great-granddaughter of Robert Mills.

Both men are buried near each other in Congressional Cemetery.

Guard Fatally Stricken On Duty at Treasury

Rauch, who lives at 2642 Myrtle avenue northeast, collapsed in the guard room at the Treasury. He was taken to the hospital by fellow employes. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Amie Trumble, Mrs. Marivin Young and Miss Esther Rauch.

Proposed Fisherman Ban, 'Ridiculous,' Retort of Dr. Holton.

Everyone knows that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, but are two birds in the bush worth a bass in the pan?

Such is the controversy rending apart the District's nature fans—creating a vast gulf between bird lovers and followers of the ancient art of angling.

Which shall it be, a baked black bass smoking in the white sauce or a heron in the binocular's field? Will followers of Audubon or of Izaak Walton win the fight for the creeks that run across the Mount Vernon Memorial highway?

Dr. Paul Bartsch, curator of mollusks at the Smithsonian Institution, speaks for the bird lovers when he requests the Interior Department ban fishermen because they frighten away the birds.

"Utterly ridiculous" is the rejoinder of Talbot Dinmead, of the Black Bass Propagation unit of the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

Heron fanciers already have won a victory in the contest, for Arno B. Cammerer, director of national parks, buildings and reservations, has forbidden angling at Roaches Run.

But J. T. Bell, commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, and officials of the Biological Survey have written Mr. Cammerer, protesting this ban and will take similar action on Dr. Bartsch's request that the no fishing dictum be extended to include Four Mile Run and Little Hunting Creek.

Dr. Bartsch's statement that anglers frighten away the birds also was described as "ridiculous" by Dr. William H. Holton, chemistry professor at American University and chairman of the river pollution committee of the Washington Chapter of the Izaak Walton League.

The contention of the curator of mollusks is refuted by the experience of the Biological Survey which allows fishing on all the bird preserves which it administers.

Mr. Dinmead declared that he was just as much interested in the birds as Mr. Bartsch, but said the recent death of herons in the creek was due to the cold night that sent them southward rather than the few fishermen.

It is ridiculous, the black bass expert said, to think of banning the anglers when traffic roars on the highway and the creeks are lined with houseboat dwellers.

In his letter to Mr. Cammerer asking extension of the ban, Dr. Bartsch said the pasing of automobiles or the presence of persons in parked cars did not disturb the birds. He added:

"I may say it is my firm belief that the presence of fishermen in these reaches will have an unsatisfactory effect on the bird population, particularly such species as our herons, which are very largely day feeders.

"I think the birds give a far bigger return to the thousands and thousands of passersby than the occasional tug at the line by a fish gives to the few, and for that reason I would give precedence to the birds and close these places to the anglers."

Western High Pupil "Lived" On Empty Lot

Discrimination Denied by Kramer; Defends Boundary System.

Illegal enrollment at Western High School by students claiming residence within the school area, although their parents live beyond it, was revealed yesterday by Assistant Superintnedent of Schools Stephen E. Kramer.

Dr. Kramer made the disclosure in answer to charges of discrimination in transfer of pupils from the school to other high schools. Complaint was made that some students who have been transferred live in the same apartment houses with other students who are still at the school.

Dr. Kramer explained that cases have been found in which children, with parents and homes outside the Western boundaries, have taken up temporary residence with relatives living within the area. Some of the children do not even spend the night with these relatives, Dr. Kramer said. One child, living in Virginia, gave a vacant lot in the District as his residence, he revealed.

Enrollment Now Is 1,800.

"We have ordered such pupils transferred to other schools," Dr. Kramer said. "The school officials have no intention of discriminating. We are doing everything humanly possible to accommodate pupils who are entitled to attend Western. But we are getting to the last straw and if enrollment increases by a few more pupils the school will have to be placed on a part-time basis. The enrollment at present is about 1,800."

He said an exception is made for half a dozen children living at Fort Myer, because this territory is Federal property. There is a bus route direct from the reservation to the school, he pointed out.

Old Students Continue.

Students enrolled at Western before the boundary was set up are allowed to continue at the school. The fact that some of these students live outside the boundary may account for some of the complaint of discrimination, Dr. Kramer believes.

The boundary established by the Board of Education prohibits enrollment at Western of children living east of Connecticut avenue to where it meets Columbia road, and from Columbia road to Adams Mill road and Rock Creek Park. Children living west of this boundary are admitted. Residents of Chevy Chase are not within the boundary.

"In setting up this boundary we are inconveniencing a great many children and parents," Dr. Kramer said. "But we are trying our best to deal fairly with every one."

Washington Civitans To Visit W. Va. Estate

Fifteen members of the Washington Vivitan Club will go to Hedgesville, W. Va., today to be week-end guests of President Shelton T. Cemeron at his country estate, Back Creek Valley Orchards.

A hunting expedition is planned. The party will include Percy C. Adams, local architect; A. J. Richards, G. Marguard, C. J. Morgan, G. W. Bonnet, R. Sparrow, T. J. Crowell, R. Jose, L. S. Taylor, N. D. Parker, M. W. Hysong, J. E. Nell, J. Kerkham, J. Kerkham, jr., and W. Koch, of Texas.

Police Asked to Seek Three Missing Persons

Washington police yesterday were asked to search for three missing persons.

Chicago asked the department to watch for Jack Switzer, 13, and Tom Switzer, 16, missing from their home in Cicero, Ill. The boys are known as the "Arizona Kids," and are experts with ropes, checkers and cards.

Montreal requested a search for Harry Faucher, 38, who left that city several weeks ago to come to Washington. Faucher is 5 feet 7 inches tall, has brown eyes and hair and wore a gray overcoat and hat.

One Too Slow

"Drop Pocketbook" Suspect Caught, 2 Escape.

Police last night believed they had broken up at least one of the groups of "drop pocketbook" thieves after Private D. J. Murphy had outrun one of a trio in a two-block race.

Murphy saw two men and a woman apparently planting a pocketbook in front of the Hamilton National Bank branch, Eighth and H streets northeast. When he started toward them all three ran. A colored man, who gave his name as William Harris, of Lynchburg, was arrested and held for investigation. Police said he confessed he is a confidence man.

About 15 cases of robbery by the "drop pocketbook" method have been reported to Washington police within the last month. Victims are induced to turn over varying sums of money to the operators under promise of sharing in a rich "lost" purse.

Maret Witness Tells of $250 For Five Words

Surprise Testimony Backs Larceny Count Against Gormley and Countess.

A surprise witness, called by the Government, was the first to testify yesterday as Countess Grace DeBenque and George Gormley went on trial in District Supreme Court, charged with larceny of $5,000 from Miss Louise Maret, proprietor of the exclusive Maret School.

The witness was Charles A. May, of Takoma Park, allegedly hired as an "officer" to accost Gormley and Miss Maret in an automobile parked on Brookeville road, Md. May testified that in October, 1931, he was hired by Gormley to approach the parked machine and ask: "Is the car broken down?"

May was the only witness called. The Government hopes to prove Gormley and Countess DeBenque swindled Miss Maret in frightening her to surrender an amount of "hush money."

According to testimony, Gormley first asked May if he wanted to make some money. All he had to do, May said he was told, was to approach the car parked at a given spot and ask the question.

At a time set by Gormley, May declared, he walked to the machine and did as he was told. Gormley stepped from the car, spoke to May and told him to follow him into Washington.

Says "Officer" Asked $15,000.

The next day, May testified, he went to the home of Countess De Benque, on Wyoming avenue northwest, and received $250 from Gormley. He said the countess did not appear.

Miss Maret went to the United States attorney with her story. She said the "officer" demanded $15,000 through Gormley.

R. W. Bliss Asks Permit to Build

S Street Structure Planned as Workmen's Quarters.

Robert Woods Bliss, former Ambassador to the Argentine, filed application yesterday with District Building Inspector Oehmann for a permit to build at 3245 S street northwest a two-story building. It is to serve as an office and quarters for supervisors and workmen employed in the care of his estate in that vicinity.

The building, to be erected between Thirty-second and Thirty-third streets northwest, will be of brick and concrete and contain 30 rooms. It will be 105 feet wide and 37½ feet deep. Its estimated cost is given as $20,000. The application lists John W. Davis as builder and Beatrix Farrand, New York, as architect.

D. C. Delegates Named To Women's Convention

Thirty-one delegates selected to represent Washington at the convention of the National Women's Party in Wilmington this week, called to discuss discriminations against women and to formulate plans for a campaign in the interests of the equal rights amendment, were made public yesterday.

They are Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Miss Anita Pollitzer, Miss Laura Berrien, Mrs. Lucien Greathouse, Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, Miss Nina Allender, Miss Maud Younger, Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, Miss Faith Binkley, Mrs. Carl W. Greene, Miss Carrie Harrison, Miss Mary Schuman, Mrs. Mary Maginniss, Mrs. E. B. Scheele, Miss Sara Woodward, Miss Genevieve Sheldon, Mrs. John E. Huhn, Mrs. Rose E. Snodgrass, Mrs. Gertrude Payne, Edwina Avery, Lillian Niccum, Emmy Nunan, Rosalie Taylor, Abbie Owen, Gladys Whalley, Evelyn Cornick, Margaret Shumac, Grace Cochran, Evelyn Dixon, Edith Forster and Emma Shaw.

Jurors Fail To Solve Boy's Death Mystery

Coroner's Verdict Held Francis Long Drowned, Cause Unknown.

The circumstance surrounding the death of Francis P. Long, 13-year-old Washington Post carrier boy, whose body was found in the Washington Channel October 15, remained a mystery after a three-hour inquest yesterday.

After deliberating for a half hour, the jury decided that Francis came to his death by asphyxia caused by drowning "under circumstances unknown to the jury." The boy disappeared from his home on October 10.

George De Zerne, a Central High School student, told the jury that Lawrence H. Miller, 1101 Eleventh street northwest, had cautioned him never to mention his name "in connection with that boy."

De Zerne testified he was called upon by police for information concerning the Long boy and when he told this to Miller, the warning was given.

Miller was arrested during the investigation on the complaint of Hubert C. De Zerne, of 902 M street northwest, but was released three days later. Frequently, Miller testified, he took youths on boating trips on the river, but he insisted he did not know the Long boy.

The only person who saw Francis after his disappearance was Bernard Robb, who said he saw Francis and another boy drinking a soda in Forster's drug store, Eleventh and M streets northwest, about 7:30 p. m. October 10.

Frank Nightingale, owner of a houseboat, told of finding an upturned canoe in the channel on the night of Francis' disappearance and on October 15 he found the body in exactly the same spot.

Liquor Control Ideas Invited by W. W. Bride

Views of any group on regulation of liquor after prohibition will be welcomed, William W. Bride, corporation counsel, said yesterday, after receiving a request from John F. Costello, counsel, and Bert L. Olmstead, president of the Association of Retail Beverage Dealers, for a hearing before any legislation was recommended to Congress.

Engaged in drafting measures for the control and regulation of liquor in the District, Bride said he had no preconceived plan. Alternative plans will be embodied in measures for consideration by the Commissioners and Congress, he said.

Civil Service Calls More Typist Tests

With 150,000 Still Eligible, Commission Orders Examinations.

Action 'Not Surprising,' Harry B. Mitchell Declares.

With approximately 150,000 persons already on eligible lists, the Civil Service Commission has announced eleven examinations for vacancies this month.

Harry B. Mitchell, commission president, defended new tests for stenographers and typists, of whom 24,095 were reported by the commission as on present eligible rolls. He withheld comment on reports that the new examinations were ordered to pacify hordes of job-hunters.

The commission president also declined to comment on statements that the commission could avoid large expenditure for printing and reduce personnel costs by employing present records instead of holding examinations for new eligible lists.

Examination of commission rules disclosed the organization has authority, if it desires, to revive the lists from year to year as they expire. Commission officials said the 150,000 total is the largest eligible roster in the history of the merit system and revealed that in the past some lists have been revived as many as five times to avoid holding new tests.

"Not Surprising," He Says.

"There is nothing at all surprising," Mr. Mitchell said, "in the action of the Civil Service Commission in announcing a stenographer and typist examination at this time. Indeed, never before has such a long period elapsed between examinations for these positions.

"The date set for the close of receipt of applications for the examination now open is November 7, 1933. The date set for the close of receipt of applications for the next preceding examination was October 8, 1931, more than two years earlier. From this latter examination the present register was established."

Mr. Mitchell said experience indicates the present eligible list will be two years old before the register established from the pending examination can be compiled.

One Test in 1930.

"One examination," he added, "was announced in 1930, two were announced in 1929, one was announced in 1928, and three were announced in 1927. Before 1927 the examinations were even more frequent.

Pending tests, in addition to those for stenographers and typists, include junior graduate nurses, agricultural economists, teachers of home economics, junior high school teachers, superintendents of Indian agencies, assistants to forestry technicians, student fingerprint classifiers, junior medical officers, Secret Service operatives and assistant psychologists.

Tests Will Be Given For School Clerkships

An examination to obtain a list of eligibles for clerkships in the white public schools will be held at 9 a. m., November 18, at Roosevelt High School, Thirteenth between Upshur and Allison streets northwest.

Applications must be received at the office of the board of examiners, Franklin School, by 5 p. m., November 16. The positions and salaries are: General clerical, grade 1, minimum salary, $1,260; maximum, $1,620, and stenographic, grade 2, minimum salary, $1,440; maximum, $1,800. The salaries are subject to the economy act reductions.

Eastern, 21; Roosevelt, 6.

CENTRAL clashes with McKinley Tech in the "turning point" game of the interhigh series at Central Stadium today. The winner of this game will take a long stride toward the coveted 1933 title, which will hinge finally on the outcome of the Tech-Eastern fracas a week from today.

It is Central's problem to knock Tech off its perennial championship roost, and McKinley's proposition to remain thoroughly imbedded at the top of the heap. The aspirations of both elevens will be ironed out today.

The game, expected to draw a crowd of 9,000, marks the thirty-first meeting between the two schools, the series dating back to 1902. McKinley has won 14 games while Central has copped 11 over that period. Five have been ties.

Both schools have great teams this year. The Mount Pleasant Club has shown itself to be one of the best to represent the school by virtue of its impressive record to date. Five teams have met the sting of defeat at the hands of the Coggin-coached eleven, while the other—Eastern—whose sterling team is on a par with Central and Tech, was held to a scoreless draw in the first game of the interhigh series.

Tech Lost One Game.

Tech, which has engaged in five games, lost a 6-0 battle to Episcopal at Alexandria a month ago.

Central's Frank Kocsis, perhaps the most outstanding gridder on the field today, will bear a particular amount of watching. Tech hopes it has devised a means of stopping this 175-pound torpedo, but it is a question if the lighter Technician line can hold up under his terrific battering.

The long suit of Hardell's club is the large list of reserves. Where Tech has two complete changes of back fields that can be hurled into the fray without any loss of power, Central can rely only on Bryant and Gass.

McKinley's starting back field many pounds lighter than that of Central's, will stack up with Paul Lynch at full; Holmes Heatwole and Butch Coutts at halves and Vito Pisani. Ready to relieve these four in the Tech back field are Pete Alley, full back; Bogan and Bogeley, halves, and Blondy Cooper at quarter.

Should the Tech running attack fail to get by the heavier Central line, a forward passing barrage, featuring Pisani to Coiner and Bill Smith, probably will blacken the stadium sky.

Richardson May Shift.

One dubious spot in the otherwise strong and heavy, but calm and collected Central line is that left vacant by Sartwell, sturdy right tackle, who 'flunked" his scholastic work for the six-weeks span. His place will probably be filled by Melior, a recent transfer from New York, but a last minute change by Burt Coggins, may find Bill Richardson, a half back, small but capable, lined up for tackle duty.

Five substitutes have passed out of the picture as far as the Mount Pleasant outfit is concerned, through poor scholastic standing. They are Kline, Sabitini, Rash, Di Pretoro and Munn.

The probable line-up

Shikat, Steele Both Tossed From Ring

Referee Counts Them Out and Calls Bout Draw; Little Beaver Wins.

THEY pulled something new hereabouts at last night's rasslefest at the Auditorium and most of the 4,000 fans went home thinking Referee Bennie Bortnick had won, for he was the only man in the ring when the program was declared completed.

Dick Shikat and Ray Steele had been toiling rather evenly for half an hour, when suddenly Ray charged at Dick. Their heads cracked together with a sound resembling that of a couple of empty cocoanut shells. Both went, down, came up, and then Steele stumbled roughly against Shikat. Finally both fell out of the ring and lay there until partially revived by the echo of Bortnick's toll of 10. As far as the competitors were concerned, it was declared no contest, a draw, or anything the fans who paid to see it want to call it.

Below Expectations.

Truth to tell, the bout—what there was of it—did not live up to expectations. It was rather tame much of the time and adding to its tameness was the fact that Referee Bortnick was exceptionally strict. But the finish was something novel in this neck of the woods and that should give the customers something to talk about.

It remained for one of the preliminaries—the bout between Paul Boesch, 21-year-old New York schoolboy, and Little Beaver, from the North Carolina Cherokee Reservation—to supply most of the pyrotechnics. The "first American" finished second in this melee, but not until both had almost committed murder at one time or another during the unusually rough going. Time, 20 minutes.

The semifinal, bringing together George Zaharias and Dick Raines, was a surprise in more ways than one. Zaharias won, as was expected, but Raines showed talent which he had kept well hidden in previous bouts and forced the big Greek to the limit to win. Then again, both broke cleanly when so ordered by the referee so often—and this was a novelty for either—that many of the fans were calling them sissies at times. This go lasted 18½ minutes.

Marshall Disqualified.

One disqualification was ruled, Son Jennings, another Indian, being given the verdict over Floyd Marshall when the latter kept forgetting that the strangle hold was supposed to be barred. Finally, after 24 minutes of action. Referee Bortnick became tired of reminding Marshall to quit choking and waved him out of the ring.

Vanka Zelesniak, the bewhiskered Siberian wild man, was a little too wild for Lou Plummer in the opening bout and copped the verdict as a result of crotch holds and body slams in exactly 8 minutes. As Plummer is one of the recognized villains, the victory of the Siberian, who looks like he might have graduated from the House of David, was quite popular.

Rassler Socked by Dempsey Says "Forget It," and Shakes

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 2 (AP).—Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion, informally came out of retirement here last night to score a knockout in what started as a wrestling match and ended in a slugging bee.

Refereeing a match between two heavyweight wrestlers, Dempsey socked Marshall Blackstock, of Chattanooga, Tenn., when Blackstock disregarded warnings to stop slugging and choking his opponent, George Cochrane, of Houston, Texas.

Dempsey's punch, a straight jab with his right, opened a half-inch gash on Blackstock's face. The wrestler had made several passes at the referee. Mike Mule, the promoter, separated the participants, Blackstock was disqualified and the bout awarded to Cochrane.

After the bout, Dempsey and Blackstock met at an informal party at the home of Mayor V. V. Lamkin and Dempsey said he regretted having to use "such drastic measures."

"It was necessary to make the boys behave," he told the wrestlers.

Wendall, Noted Swim Instructor, Kills Self

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 2 (AP).—G. Peter Wendall, 41, secretary-treasurer of the Midwestern Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, shot himself fatally late today in a small dressing room just off the swimming pool at the hospital where he conducted his swimming classes.

Wendall, known widely as "Pete," had taught more than 12,000 persons to swim and had developed more than 100 champions, among them 6 Natioanl A. A. U. champions. He had been swimming instructor at the Nicholas Seen Hospital here since 1919.

Lou Brouillard Shifts To Light-Heavy Class

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2 (AP).—Lou Brouillard, short term holder of the welterweight and middleweight boxing championships, will not attempt to regain the middleweight crown he lost to Vince Dundee Monday night. The Worcester fighter issued a statement today saying he would never again fight in that division, but would take on all comers in the light heavyweight class.

He declared his poor showing Monday was caused by weakening himself in order to make the stipulated weight.

Loyola Contest Breather for C. U. Today

Bergman, With His Eye on Detroit Game, Will Use Reserves.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY will practice as usual this afternoon, but the workout includes a game with Loyola College, of Baltimore, which may detain the boys a trifle longer. The kick-off will be at 2 o'clock.

Looking ahead at the Detroit U. game next week and anxious to have his squad at full physical strength for the Titans from Automobile City, Coach Dutch Bergman will use reserves throughout the greater part of today's contest. In the remote interior of the C. U. mentor's mind, however, is the idea that he may be able to uncover some valuable material which has blossomed unnoticed thus far.

C. U. to Experiment.

Bergman intends to use the regulars at some stage of the game and also will use several combinations including regulars and reserve. It it be possible to assemble a team that will make a better showing a week hence by incorporating the talents of some B squad players, he will do it.

Loyola has not shown much this season, failing to win a game of major importance. Tony Comerford usually turns out a well-balanced team for the Greyhounds, but handicapped by a dearth of material his handiwork this season is incomparable of Loyola teams of the past.

George Waidner, giant tackle, and Walter Dunne, end, are bulwarks on Loyola's defense, and their play has featured every game this season. Joe Azzarello, center, and "Butch" Miraglia, another wingman, are the only other regulars who were with the team last season.

Thibodeau in Starting Debut.

Catholic's starting line-up will have Sniscak, at full back; Callender and Norton, halves; Thibodeau, quarter back; Ball and Mulligan, ends; Karpowich and Lennon, tackles; Lajousky and Rosenfield, guards, and Christianson, center. Thibodeau, a former Gonzaga High School star, will be making his debut in a starting role. He got the call over Charley McVean in a last-minute shift.

The appearance of Sniscak in the line-up has much significance. Impressive in the few times he has

Play of Ends Key to G. W. Success

Defense Showed Flaw in Clash With Auburn; Long a Problem.

THE yardstick by which George Washington coaches are measuring their team's chances of successfully repelling Tennessee's invasion to morrow afternoon is the defensive play of the Colonial ends. Regarded as the most vulnerable sections of an otherwise iron-bound line, and correctly so, the wingmen hold G. W.'s fate in the palms of their hands.

As far back as September and as recently as two weeks ago, the board of strategy expressed its displeasure at the manner in which the end zones were protected. Infrequently, the players occupying these positions have given evidence of attaining the perfection desired, but for the greater part of the season they have failed miserably in fulfilling expectations.

Must Smear Interference.

Bill Parrish and Henry Vonder Bruegge or Arnold Benefield, the trio now fighting for positions in the starting line-up, will be put to the acid test by Tennessee's corps of backs tomorrow. The Vols pet formula for shaking a ball carrier loose is to keep pounding away at tackle with a spinner play. Gradually the defensive end moves in toward the line to help protect this territory. Then, bingo! They pull another spinner. The quarter back fakes the ball to a man driving off-tackle, moves back a step or two and hands it to the No. 3 back coming around from the far side for an end run.

George Washington's ends must be cool and have their wits about them, and still have the fire and enthusiasm to step in and smear the Vols before they get under way. If they expect to stop Beatty Featers, "Breezy" Wynn, who will be playing for the first time since the opening game, incidentally, and Fred Moses, they'll have to stop their interference, first.

Ends Weak Against Auburn.

Al Rogers, elusive little Auburn half back, lugged the ball around his own left side of the line on a lateral pass for his team's first and only score. Every end run attempted by the Bengals netted a gain, and G. W.'s coaches were amazed, and thankful, that the visiting quarter back neglected to avail himself of the opportunity for gains that beckoned to him at the flanks.

"Zuzu" Stewart, Hardy Pearce and the secondary did most of the tackling in that game. The plan of battle was for the ends to break up Auburn's blocking backs and let the secondary do the tackling, but they failed to do this, and the backs coming in behind them had to stop both the interference and the ball carrier.

As far back as September, when the team was in the earliest throes of preseason training, the coaches admitted that the key to G. W.'s success lay in the end and center positions. "Red" Rathjen has given a satisfactory account of himself at center, although he will encounter his toughest opposition of the season in Talmadge Maples, Tennessee's captain, but the ends tell a different story.

The Colonials spent an hour and a half yesterday afternoon drilling on new forward passing plays which they will use against Tennessee. An hour of scrimmaging with the freshmen eleven followed.

Tennessee's squad, 33 strong, will arrive in Washington this morning and will be welcomed at the station by a delegation of George Washington students. The squad will proceed to the Harrington Hotel where it will be quartered during its sojourn. In the afternoon the Vols will practice at the stadium.

Alumni of Tennessee To Welcome Gridmen

Several hundred Tennessee alumni and the "greeters" organization of George Washington University will welcome the visiting University of Tennessee football squad upon the latter's arrival at Union Station this morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Social activities in connection with tomorrow's intersectional classic at Griffith Stadium include a theater party for the contending teams tonight at the Fox Theater at 7 o'clock and a dance at Corcoran Hall of G. W. U. at 10.

Navy Expects Fight in Air With Irish

Offensive and Defensive Drill on Passes Held at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 2 (Spl.). Every phase of football came in for a share of attention today as the Navy gridders went through their last hard workout for the game with Notre Dame in Baltimore Stadium on Saturday.

Offensive and defensive passing again was stressed in a brief scrimmage—for it is believed that both teams will take to the air frequentlly during the struggle. The Tars reeled off their passes in good fashion, and at the same time had gratifying success in checking those launched by the shock troops. In the scrimmaging and also rehearsal of the general running attack in the signal and formation drills that covered a period of two hours, all of the players who are likely to see action against the Ramblers were given a chance to warm up to the task.

Spirited Rally Staged.

The kickers, chiefly Clarke and Larson, also were drilled in speeding up punts, while individual instruction as to charging was given the men in the forward wall. In all it was a peppery workout, and the session was enlivened by a spirited rally staged by the regiment of midshipmen, during which they rehearsed their songs and yells that will be part of the colorful ceremonies attendant upon Saturday's game.

All of the players have been pronounced in fine fettle physically and they are keyed to a high pitch mentally. An attitude of stern determination pervades the Navy camp. Many of the Navy folks see the best opportunity of a Navy triumph that has marked the series between the institutions, covering seven years. Those close to the team maintain a feeling of hopefulness. All realize that a tremendous task confronts the naval lads, however.

As the game nears Notre Dame's

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

IT seems that Reds Barry is back in circulation again, plying his trade among the cauliflowers a safe distance from Washington where local fight fans long since bade him Godspeed to fistic oblivion after he had piled disappointment on disappointment.

The Southeast Redhead, who made good everywhere but in his home town, comes back to the ring wars under the protective wing of James Aloysius Erwin, who has exacted Barry's promise to keep in condition. He was never a fighter to adhere strictly to training rules, which explains why, at the age of 19, he is essaying his second comeback.

But there is evidence of a reform in Barry, who has fought two winning fights and one draw under the Erwin banner in the past month. He has been campaigning in Pittsburgh and Asheville, N. C., far away from disillusioned Washington fans, whose memories of Barry are not fond.

Erwin is the latest manager to own a piece of Barry, who is now contributing to the income of four mentors—Mushky Jackson, in New York, and Patsy Donovan, Fats Cornell and Jimmy Erwin in Washington. As yet he has paid only small dividends under the Erwin standard, but his stock in Pittsburgh, where he beat Sunny Jim McVeigh, is booming.

Four months of idleness after he had been flattened by Tony Galento in a New York ring was too much for Barry and he pleaded with Erwin to book some fights for him. As manager of Les Kennedy, who had soundly thrashed the poorly-conditioned Barry earlier in the summer, Erwin viewed with suspicion Barry's promise to keep in shape.

"He's in shape now," said Erwin. "Pittsburgh and Asheville fans want more of him. He's a red-hot favorite in Pittsburgh where they had a $21,000 gate for the Vince Dundee-Teddy Yaroz fight. It's the hottest fight town in the country today. A boy who can beat Gastanaga and Unknown Winston is no palooka. He can do it all over again in the shape he's in now."

As an example of big business in the football arena, the story of Chick Meehan's regime at New York University is told with many and pertinent details in Collier's. When N. Y. U. decided to go into the football business in 1924, it drafted Meehan from Syracuse at $10,000 a year, armed him with scholarships and spending money and told him to produce a football team.

With 7,000,000 persons in the immediate vicinity to draw from, Meehan set about to build up N. Y. U. as a football attraction. He toured the hinterlands for players, borrowed spectacular costuming and rythmic formations from Broadway musical shows, assembled his crowds by issuing passes with a free-hand, and began the build-up scientifically.

Within 3 years, he was producing winning teams for N. Y. U. which was netting itself $200,000 per season from football. But soon came the report of the Carnegie Foundation's famous Bulletin No. 23. N. Y. U. was pointed out as a horrible example of over-emphasis. The faculty shuddered, Meehan resigned.

Rosenbloom Is 8-5 Choice to Defeat Walker in New York Title Fight Tonight

Battle Is Due To Attract 10,000

Loss Will Bring Either Fighter Near End of Fistic Career.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Two Merry-Andrews of the ring, Maxie Rosenbloom and Mickey Walker, will tangle in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, with the world light-heavyweight championship at stake.

Rosenbloom, clouting comedian of the Ghetto, is an 8-to-5 favorite to retain his title over the roly-poly Rumson bulldog. It may develop into a savage brawl because both veterans are battling for bread and butter after scattering hundreds of thousands of dollars along the primrose path during the "golden decade."

Near End of Careers.

Defeat will bring either man close to the end of the fistic trail. The 32-year-old Walker has been fighting steadily for 13 years. Rosenbloom, now 29, has been swapping punches for 10 years. Victory will give Walker not only a new lease on his pugilistic life, but also his third world title, enabling him to equal Bob Fitzsimmon's achievement as winner of three crowns. Mickey is a former welter and middleweight champion.

Rosenbloom would be at least a 2-to-1 favorite to beat Walker, recently defeated by Lou Brouillard, of Boston, were it not for the fact that the New York Boxing Commission barred him from using the open-glove "flick" with which he has bewildered so many opponents.

Hopes to Wear Down Foe.

Walker, a busy, mauling type of fighter, hopes to wear down the champion with a body attack, while Rosenbloom expects to fight his usual cuffing, jabbing battle, hoping to open cuts over the shorter man's eyes and win by a technical knockout. It will be Maxie's third title defense this year. He turned back Bob Godwin and Adolphe Heuser earlier.

Walker will enter the ring weighing about 173 pounds, with Rosenbloom close under the 175-pound limit. Garden officials announced today that the advance ticket sale indicated a crowd of about 10,000.

Bobby Goldstein Wins In Bout at Richmond

Richmond, Va., Nov. 2 (AP).—Bobby Goldstein, former captain of boxing at Virginia, won by decision tonight against Joe Piscatella, of the Third Corps Army area and South Atlantic A. A. U. featherweight champion.

Goldstein, taking his time and never missing opportunities, allowed Piscatella to lead the first round, but after that he methodically piled up points with shortened rights.

Air Attack Planned By Navy's Coaches

recent setbacks are not being taken as seriously as before. It is pointed out that the South Benders are practically a veteran aggregation, possessing weight, power and experience, but there is a cog somewhere that has prevented the team clicking in the manner of which it is undoubtedly capable. And it is the possible rebound that is most feared by Rip Miller, the Middies head mentor.

The Ramblers will have a decided advantage over the Tars in weight. Their team average will be greater than 16 pounds to the man. The comparative figures:

The greater preponderance is in the back field. The Notre Dame quartet averages 195 pounds, to Navy's 165. In the line, the figures are, Notre Dame, 189 5-7; Navy, 181 3-7. The difference of 8 pounds in the line would be halved in the event that Johnston starts at right guard for Navy, instead of Burns. Johnston weighs 189, and Burns 162.

The Postilion Football Contest

The Post herewith presents the second of its weekly football contests in conjunction with The Postilion, this newspaper's radio program broadcast over Station WMAL by Harris B. Hull.

Again the contest is based on 40 of next Saturday's outstanding games, selected from the schedule by Shirley L. Povich, Sports Editor of The Post, as the feature games of the week. Each fan is invited to test his own powers as a prophet or football expert by predicting the result.

The coupon below is for your convenience, although it is not necessary to use The Post chart. In the left-hand column, headed "Your Selection," fans are invited to submit their scores. On Saturday night The Postilion announcer will broadcast the results in the same order. The "Result" column provides you with a convenient form on which to record the final scores as they are broadcast.

To the fan selecting the greatest number of winning teams, The Post will award free four choice seats to the George Washington-Washington and Jefferson game at Griffith Stadium one week from Friday night.

To the fan placing second in the contest three choice seats for the game will be given. To the fans placing third, fourth, fifth and sixth will go two choice seats each.

Each fan is limited to one entry. Priority of receipt will govern in case of ties.

Victory Spirit Displayed by Maryland

Team, in Practice, Appears to Be Developing Into Strong Outfit.

MARYLAND will seek to break its four-straight losing streak against Virginia tomorrow at Charlottesville. The manner in which the Terps went through a long, heavy drill yesterday has given the team and its supporters assurance that they will be at top form, with a good chance of winding up on the right side of the scoring. Yesterday they resembled a winning team, instead of a losing eleven and their spirit is expected to carry them far in tomorrow's contest.

The Old Liners have shown a drive in their practice sessions the past two days and the prediction that a "November team that would be hard to beat" is materializing.

However, Virginia also is reported to be in the mood for a hot battle and the more experienced Cavaliers will rate the favorites.

The Terps are slated to take the field with the line-up that opened the fall campaign, but which was juggled somewhat for the Western Maryland tilt at Baltimore last week. Completely dominating the probable starting combination are seven sophomores. They are Ennis and Bernie Buscher, ends; Minion and Callahan, tackles; Bradley, guard; Yaeger, half back, and George Sacks, full.

The College Park team will taper off its strenuous week's workout with a light drill this afternoon. The squad, augmented by the student band and a host of students and alumni, will leave over a special C. & O. train from Union Station tomorrow morning at 8:15. The train also is available to the Virginia alumni.

Howard, Morgan In Battle Tonight

Determined to avenge defeat at the hands of the Morgan College Bears tonight at Bugle Field, Baltimore, the Howard University Bison aggregation last night held their final workout at the Griffith Stadium to accustom the gridders to the arc lights. Last year Morgan defeated the Bisons, 13 to 7.

The Bears, in four conference games, have scored a total of 167 points, more than the eight teams of the Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association combined. In addition, Morgan has scored 25 points against Cheyney, for a total of 192 points this season. The Bears have not lost a game since 1931.

A large crowd of rooters will accompany the Bisons to the Oriole City, a brilliant clash being expected.

Tournament Tomorrow For Left-Handed Golfers

About 25 of the putter pushers who play backwards will swing into action tomorrow at the Indian Spring Country Club in competition for the Namandji Ninji Trophy awarded each year to the best left-handed golfer in the District. The coveted symbol of golfing unorthodoxy was won last year by Bryne Curtis, who sprang a surprise by defeating Sam Rice.

High School Games Listed for Today

Landon vs. Severn, at Severna Park, Md.

Hitting the Headpin . . .

THE end of the week's bowling in the District League found the Occidental Restaurant team still locking horns with King Pin for first place, both teams winning the odd game of their matches last night. Occidental, with high set of the night of 671, won two from Hyattsville, on the Convention Hall alleys. Henry Hiser, Hyattsville leader, counted 9 pins on a spare in the last frame to save the suburban team from a washout. Joe Harrison (Occidental captain) took high set of the match with 383. King Pin won two out of three from Georgetown Recreation on the King Pin drives. Benson, Recreation star, and former National all-events champion, captured high individual set, toppling 360 pins.

Eadie Espie's 378 set was the leading factor in Convention Hall's taking the odd game from Lucky Strike on the Lucky Strike alleys. Beacon Sign Co., topping 1,890 maples, high team set for the night, made a clean sweep of its match with Columbia, on the latter's drives. Johnny Anderson's 170 games and 411 set and Irving Billheimer's 159 game and 416 set, aided the Beacon team in painting the Indian sign on the loses. At the Northeast Temple alleys, the Temple team upset the Arcadians, by taking the odd game. Frank Mischou led the victors with a 145 game, while Paulie Harrison, with a 409 set, was high man for Arcadia.

Williams (War College, No. 2) took individual honors in the War Department League at Arcadia, banging out a 151 game and 368 set. Hydrographic Office took team honors, rolling a 603 game and 1,714 set.

The Meter team with a 554 game and the Engineering team rolling a 1,567 set carired away the team honors in the Kilowatt League at Convention Hall alleys. Alvin Belk (Engineering) was the individual star, scoring a 135 game and a 367 set.

In the Daylight League at Convention Hall, the Washington Herald team captured high-team game honors, gathering 561 pins, while The Washington Post Team, No. 2, carried away high-team set with 1,608. Deloe (Herald) took individual honors with a 134 game and 361 set.

Helen Doyne (Chi Sigma No. 1) led the list of individual feats in the Inter-Sorority League last night on the Columbia drives, toppling the maples for a 134 game and 337 set. Chi Sigma took team laurels with a 498 game and 1,397 set.

Herbert Booth was the individual star of the Nation-Wide Grocers League at Convention Hall, taking high game with 127 and annexing high set with 352. Schindlers, with a 527 game and 1,458 set, carried away team honors.

The Takoma Tailors held on to their lead in the Takoma-Silver Spring League on the Takoma drives last night by taking the odd game from Lohr Real Estate. Carl (Lohr Real Estate) was glorious in his team's defeat, rolling high set of the night of 351. Snee, rolling 148, high game of the night, was instrumental in his team taking the odd game from Kimble Lacey Co. In the other matches, Takoma Tigers won two from Southern Railway; Takoma Sea Food swept its match with Montgomery Country Club, and Marinian Food, with a 600 game, took the odd game from Youngblood Hardware.

Esther Burton, captain of the Treasury Team, aided her team in carrying away all the honors in the Ladies Federal League at Arcadia last night.

Internal Revenue, with Kasson's 380 set and a team game of 608, carried away the honors in the Independent League on the Lucky Strike drives last night, and took the odd game of its match with Judd & Detweiler. In spite of Burdett's high individual game of the night, 142, Sholl's Cafe lost the odd game to the J. C. Flood team. Diamond Coffee Shop's 1,668 set was enough to take three games from B. & O. Frank's Place took the odd game from National Furniture.

S. Kann & Sons jumped into first place in the Department Store League at Lucky Strike alleys last night by sweeping their match with the Hecht Co. team. The winners set two new season marks for the league, rolling a 621 game and 1,743 set. Hissey, Jelleff's star, captured individual game honors, with a game of 144. Cohen (Hechts) and Tubbs (Kanns) were tied for set honors, with 380.

Two individual records were broken in the Automotive League on the Lucky Strike alleys, when Tom Davidson, rolling with Stanley Horner, pounded the maples for a 165 game and 405 set. Stanley Horner's 561 game and 1,653 set was unsurpassed.

Lorraine Gulli, president of the Washington Women's Duckpin Association, announces a special meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Columbia Bowling Alleys. All secretaries of the Women's Bowling Leagues rolling in and around the District are urged to attend.

G. U. Team Off For Contest In Boston

27 Players Make Journey; Will Practice Today at Battle Scene.

MINUS a guard or two here and there, and whistling to keep its courage, Georgetown's football team left for Boston last night, where it will encounter Boston College tomorrow in the first of the Hilltoppers' three most important games. The squad is due in the Northern city this morning and will be quartered at the Westminster Hotel. Twenty-seven players made the trip.

Before its departure, the team went through its paces at the Hilltop. The workout was brief and light, consisting merely of signal and kicking practice. It is scheduled to drill today at the scene of battle.

Coach Jack Hagetry announced that Joe Meglin, his promising sophomore back, will do the kicking against B. C. Meglin displayed his best form of the season yesterday, getting off several beautiful punts for distances averaging 45 yards. Hagerty believes he has succeeded in correcting Meglin's principal fault, taking too much time in getting the ball away. The lad was booting the ball from quick-kick formation for consistent gains yesterday.

Joe Mylnarski, a regular guard, was left at home because of a sore neck which would prohibit his use. Gildo Russo, another guard, made the trip, but will not play unless his knee responds to treatment. After hoping to be at full strength for the game, Georgetown finds itself crippled by more injuries, a jink that has pursued the team since the second game of the season.

The starting line-up will be drawn from among Saverine, Kennedy or Costello, quarter backs; Meglin and Parcells, half backs; Bradley, full back; Muti and Murphy, ends; Becker and Katalinas, tackles; Walacavage and Downer, guards, and Capt. Callahan, center.

Ramey to Fight Bowen Tuesday

Wesley Ramey, second ranking lightweight, has been signed to meet Ray Bowen, local boxer, in a 10-round bout, which will feature the boxing card at Portner's Arena next Tuesday. Ramey decisively outpointed Tony Canzoneri in a 10-round, nontitle bout before Canzoneri dropped his lightweight crown to Barney Ross. Bowen has been working for two weeks in preparation for the bout.

Henry Irving will meet Sailor La Bonte in a six-round semiwindup. Three more sixes and a four will round out the bill.

American and Gallaudet In Battle

Kendall Green Is Scene of Clash of D. C. Foes; Eagles Favored.

TWO victory-starved football teams will tear into one another at Kendall Green, where American University encounters Gallaudet. The game, which shares the local spotlight with the Catholic U.-Loyola scuffle at Brookland, will start at 2:15 o'clock.

Neither eleven has scored this season. American U. is credited with being the closest to achieving that distinction by virtue of its 2-to-0 defeat by Bridgewater College. Bridgewater later got a safety and a touchdown on Gallaudet for an 8-to-0 triumph. So on paper the Eagles look to be one touchdown better than the Blues defensively. Offensively they appear to be equally matched.

Annual Grid Clash.

It is an important game for the teams, aside from the fact that it is an opportunity of breaking into the win column, for they have been meeting in annual combat the past several years. Gallaudet has a slim margin over its rival, but American senses a chance to even the score today.

American will be without the services of Lee Esper, veteran guard, who was injured last week. A bulwark on the defense, Esper will be sorely missed by his mates. Jack Hoover, a husky substitute, will take his place in the line-up. George Borsari, quarter back, and Ed Lower, full back, will bear the brunt of American's attack.

Gallaudet is in good physical shape and will present the same line-up that started against Upsala last week. Huff Hofmeister and Steve Obranovich are its outstanding backs.

| Gallaudet | Position. | American. |
|---|---|---|
| Baughman | L.E. | Porter |
| Ladner | L.T. | Crampton |
| Galigiari | L.G. | Hoover |
| Miller | Center | Duckworth |
| Antila | R.G. | Randle |
| Davis | R.T. | McLendon |
| G.Brown | R.E. | Gutteridge |
| Akin | Q.B. | Bosari |
| Long | L.H. | Buffington |
| Hoffmeister | R.H. | Lowder |

Gunners to Face Mercury Eleven

Fort Humphrey to Play Marion Sunday.

Two outstanding features in the unlimited class of the National Capital Grid League on the Sunday card will be the Seamen Gunners-Mercury battle at the Seamen Gunners' Field and the Fort Humphrey-Marion A. C. embroglio at Fort Humphrey. Both games are listed for 2:30.

The Gunners game will be augmented by a preliminary attraction. The Brookland Coal Co. will play the Mercury Juniors, 135-pound class, starting at 12:30.

The Palace A. C. will battle the Meridians, 150-pound class, at Silver Spring Field, at 2:30. The game will be preceded by a preliminary game with the North East Boys Club stacking up against the Palace Preps at 12:30.

At Potomac Park, Field No. 2, the Apache Preps meet the Centennials at 1 o'clock while the Cleveland A. C. take the field against the Georgetown Boys Club at 3 o'clock. Both games are 135-pound affairs.

First Boxing Program At Northeast Boys Club

The Northeast Boys Club will inaugurate its home fall and winter boxing season tonight, meeting opponents from Alexandria, Georgetown and Merrick boys clubs, at 8:30 o'clock.

The bouts:

85-pound class—Sammy Fusco (Northeast) vs. Dick Torreyson (Georgetown).

Yale Stresses Defense for Dartmouth

(Associated Press.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2. Yale ended its intensive drive for the Dartmouth game with a long workout, in which defensive measures against the Green's running and passing attack were emphasized. The varsity was on the defense all through an hour's dummy scrimmage. Jimmy de Angelis returned to right guard, leaving the line exactly as it was in the Army game.

Colgate Awaits Tulane.

Hamilton, N. Y., Nov. 2.—A light workout and an enthusiastic send-off for the team were the features of Colgate's final preparations today for the Tulane game. Andy Kerr worked over every Colgate play in an effort to improve the offense that failed to score against Lafayette last week. Tonight a squad of 33 left for Travers Island, where the team will remain until just before the kick-off Saturday at the Yankee Stadium.

Penn Tries Passes.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—Penn's drill pointed toward an air attack on Lafayette. Passing took up the greater part of the session. Coach Harvey Harman said after practice, "The team's morale is fine. I look for a much better exhibition of football than at any time since the first half of the Dartmouth game.

Harvard in Light Drill.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 2.—Bob Haley and Allie Sherman were named to start at quarter back and left half, respectively, for Harvard against Lehigh Saturday after a light workout wound up preparations for the game. Much of the time was devoted to individual instruction, but there was a long forward passing drill.

Syracuse Center Out.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 2—Milt Singer, regular center, will be missing from the Syracuse line-up when the Orange plays Penn State. He has not yet recovered from last week's injuries, and George Grader was named for the starting job. Dutch Ginter will replace Henry Merz at half back, but the rest of the line-up will be unchanged.

Cornell Line-up Stands.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Cornell wound up its preparations for Columbia with a short dummy scrimmage and signal drill. There were no changes in the line-up, but the possibility still remained that John Terry would replace Jake Goldbas and Homer Geoffrion go in for Walt Switzer in the back field. Switzer apparently is recovered from his injuries, but may be saved until late in the game.

Army Uses Wet Ball.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 2.—After receiving a scout's report on the strength of the Coe team, Gar Davidson, Army coach, called a halt in the preparations for Harvard and began tuning up for the team from Iowa. Figuring on rain for Saturday, the coaches dipped the balls used today in tubs of water to give the squad some practice with a wet pigskin.

Horsemen to See Trials of Yearlings

Audley Farm Youngsters to Be Sold at Auction.

Joe F. Patterson, who has a thoroughly fit string of horses belonging to Bernard B. Jones at Pimlico to bear the silks of Audley Farm through what is to come of Maryland fall racing, has arranged to take a number of horsemen now in these parts to Lexington, Ky., for the public trials Sunday of 23 thoroughbred yearlings Jones and L. A. Moseley, of Hopkinsville, Ky., will sell through the Fasig-Tipton Co., of New York, the night of November 14. The speed tests will be over the Lexington race track. The sale will be conducted at E. J. Tranters pavilion, hard by.

For the trials pads bearing numbers that will correspond with numbers on the saddle cloths of the yearlings and giving the sex and color scheme and markings of each will be distributed among the watching horsemen. The yearlings will be worked in pairs. The stallions owned by Jones and others that will contribute to the sale on the night of the 14th are Carlaris, Strolling Player, Sir Barton, Spanish Prince II, Bright Knight, Tryster, Mars, St. Henry, Hourless, High Cloud, Bracadale, White Satin. The yearlings are Kentucky bred. The object of the sale is to dissolve a partnership in most of the lots and, at the same time, reduce the unwieldy Audley Stable to handleable proportions. There are upward of two score yearlings now at Audley that Patterson will have to break and develop for next season's racing.

Great Finish Staged by Gelding

Comes From Far Back to Score by Length; Flagstone Second.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 2.—If it isn't Winooka, it's Chase Me. Yes, they are still chasing Chase Me around the Maryland race tracks. They chased him at Havre de Grace. They chased him at Laurel. They chased him today at Pimlico. They change the chasers, they shift the jockeys, they try various distances, but the result remains the same.

The son of Purchase and Mayanel was given to Mrs. John Bosley, jr., as an ungainly 2-year-old not fitted for racing. She sent the horse down on her farm, where he jumped fences and streams and developed into a healthy horse. Mrs. Bosley believed that Chase Me had speed and turned the horse over to Trainer Ed Young, who brought him to the races for the first time in his fourth year.

Fourth Victory in Row.

Recent developments from a Chase Me angle are fresh in the minds of those who follow the races. Four times Chase Me has been seen in action; four times Chase Me has outclassed his opposition, and four times Mrs. Bosley has waited at the judges' stand, her face wreathed in smiles, for Chase Me to return for his reward—a half of an apple. Today she followed the horse down the track as he was led back to the stable.

Jimmy Sullivan, one-time Washington Post newsboy, rode Chase Me to victory today as the horse definitely stamped himself as stake timber. Chase Me and Sullivan were a length in front of Flagstone and Tred Avon with the time 2 seconds off the track record.

May Race Winooka.

As has been the case in his last three races, Chase Me lagged along toward the rear of the field, circled the leaders at the stretch turn and drew away at the finish.

It is beginning to look as though C. V. Whitney will have to bring Equipoise out of retirement if Chase Me is to be beaten. There is some talk of a Chase Me-Winooka race at seven furlongs.

Rideaway, which couldn't get out of his own way with light weight at Laurel, ran away with the Towson Steeplechase today. In front from start to finish by a margin varying from 2 to 8 lengths, Rideaway was never threatened and led Sandy Flash, a first-time starter, to the wire. Silverskin was third and the only one of the heavily-played leepers that ran anywhere near true form.

Aside from one bad landing by War Eagle, the race was free from mishaps. It was the third kick in the slats for the favorite players who went to Red Bridge in a big way. Those who played Rideaway toted away $18.80 for each $2 wager.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BATAILLE, $11.00, $5.20, $3.60; FLIGHT, $4.80, $3.40; GUIDING LIGHT, $7.80.
BATAILLE, slower than usual to settle in her stride, worked her way to the leaders rapidly in the last half mile, swung to the outside for the final issue and in a game finish was up in the concluding strides. FLIGHT, in nearest pursuit of ASKE, wore the latter down to open up a good lead when straightened into the home stretch, but could not resist the winner. GUIDING LIGHT went in the thick of contention and held on well. FEEDEEQUE came willingly for the final test. BARKENTINE lost ground at the first turn and then made up some ground when in her best stride. TRIANGULAR was weakly handled for the entire trip. ASKE stopped badly. CAROCHON was away very slowly. NANCY C. quit.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-old and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 1:59½. Off at 2:01. Winner, F. A. Carreand's b. f. (3), by Transmute—Prim Lady. Trained by F. C. Travis. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 2-5, 1.39 3-5, 1:46 3-5.

| Horses | Wgt. | Post | St. | ¼ | ½ | ¾ | Str. | Fin. | Jockeys | Straight |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| PRIMUTE | 107 | 2 | 10 | 7½ | 6h | 3½ | 1h | 1h | Young | $5.30 |
| RENAISSANCE | 113 | 3 | 2 | 1h | 1h | 1h | 2½ | 2h | Lowry | 5.30 |

| SEAWORTHY | 116 | 8 | 5 | 8h | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 | Bejshak | 645.10 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRIMUTE, $12.60, $7.40, $3.80; RENAISSANCE, $9.20, $6.20; LOTTA AIRS, $7.60.
PRIMUTE, avoiding interference at the first turn, secured racing room on the inside to enter a forward position, displaced the leaders with a rush and held RENAISSANCE safe. The latter, hard hustled from the start, shook off JUST FUN and BLACK FEATHER, but was no match for the winner. LOTTA AIRS worked her way out of tight quarters and finished in game fashion. STONE MARTIN began slowly and closed a good gap. JUST FUN was made too much use of in the early stages. PRETTY WISE was rushed off his feet while forced out at the first turn and he stopped. EUCLID suffered much interference from SEAWORTHY going to the first turn. He entered contention, but had too much taken out of him.

THIRD RACE—Two miles. Purse, $1,000 claiming. Towson Steeplechase. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:25. Off at 2:30½. Winner, Gwladys Whitney's ch. g. (5), by Wildair—Bubble. Trained by J. Lamberti. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 3:45. Thirteen jumps.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RIDEAWAY, $18.80, $10.60, $6.00; SANDY FLASH, $45.80, $10.60; SILVERSKIN, $4.00.
RIDEAWAY, going in greatly improved form, sprinted into a long lead while fencing boldly, was shaken up after the twelfth fence and held away to the finish. SANDY FLASH, forwardly placed and jumping nicely, closed with good courage. SILVERSKIN saved ground all the way and was easily the best of the others. JUSTA KING could not reach the leaders. REDBRIDGE, reserved for the first mile, made a bold effort in the last 5 furlongs, but was not good enough. He was being eased approaching the finish. BAGATELLE almost unseated Bellhouse at the third jump and again at the seventh. He sulked thereafter.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $300; allowances. The Carroll. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:04. Off at 3:10½. Winner, Mrs. J. Bosley jr.'s br. c. (4), by Flying Ebony—Mayariel. Trained by E. Young. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:33, 1:42 3-5.

| KEEP OUT | 103 | 3 | 7 | 7 | 7 | 7 | 7 | 7 | Tipton | 67.70 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHASE ME, $6.20, $4.40, $2.80; FLAGSTONE, $8.40, 3.40; TRED AVON, $2.40
CHASE ME, saving ground at the first turn and going along on his own courage for the first 5 furlongs, moved up rapidly on the outside when entering contention and, closing with a rush, took command in the final furlong. He had something in reserve at the finish. FLAGSTONE, prominent from the beginning, held on resolutely through the final drive. TRED AVON, eased out of close quarters at the first turn, moved up on the outside at the final turn and finished stoutly. CURACAO, steadied until forced to a drive, weakened in the closing stages. ROYAL BLUNDER was through after 6 furlongs. DARK HOPE and KEEP OUT had no excuses.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. The Arlington. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:39. Off at 3:44½. Winner, Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's b. c. (2), by Time Maker—Surplice. Trained by F. C. Travis. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:12 1-5.

| MERRIE MARIE | 105 | 4 | 12 | 12 | 12 | 12 | 12 | Renick | 685.20 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TIME SUPPLY, $10.20, $4.20, $3.40; PEACE CHANCE, $4.00, $3.00; BROWN JACK, 3.40.
TIME SUPPLY, a keen factor from the start, wore BRIGHT HAVEN down when approaching the home stretch, sprinted into an easy lead and was not threatened thereafter. PEACE CHANCE suffered early interference, secured racing room and closed stoutly in the last half mile. BROWN JACK, racing clear on the outside, held on with good courage. BRIGHT HAVEN, hustled under his weight, weakened badly in the last quarter mile. CARBINA showed a good effort.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:15. Winner, Everglade Stable's b. c. (4), by Dodge—Anality. Trained by B. W. Ward. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:46 3-5; 1:12 1-5.

| LADFIELD | 113 | 7 | 8 | 8h | 8h | 8h | 8h | Young | 15.90 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DYAK, $24.60, $9.40, $6.60; DE VALERA, $7.00; $5.20; WEDDING RING, $10.00.
DYAK, steadied off the early pace, came to the outside when reaching the home stretch and, closing fast, was up in the last sixteenth. DE VALERA, in close attendance of the leaders, came with a belated rush after dropping back at the turn. WEDDING RING raced FANCY FLIGHT into defeat but weakened suddenly inside the final furlong. FANCY FLIGHT was rushed stoutly to enter a forward position, and she stopped under punishment. FANFERN had good speed and raced willingly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:41. Off at 4:41½. Winner, S. S. Prindiville's b. c. (3), by Catalan—Brilliance. Trained by G. Travis. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:46.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STANDOUT, $22.40, $10.60, $4.60; CAPITALIST, $18.80, $5.20; TELA, $3.40.
STANDOUT, rated close to the pacemaker, slipped up on the inside to take command midway of the final turn, was strongly shaken up when straightened into the home stretch and drew clear slowly. CAPITALIST improved his position gradually and closed with good energy. TELA, slow to get going, came around her field and finished stoutly. MINEY MYERSON weakened steadily after reaching the main stretch. MAJOR GENERAL saved ground and raced well. CARBON, usually a slow beginner, was rushed off his feet to stay with the leaders.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:08. Off at 5:10. Winner, B. B. Stable's br. or blk. c. (3), by Flying Ebony—Dragnet. Trained by H. Jacobs. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, 50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48¾, 1:14, 1:40, 1:46 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLYING DRAGON, $8.00, $4.80, $4.20; CHARLIE K., $3.60, $2.80; GRAND HOPES, $4.40.
FLYING DRAGON, whipped to the first turn and hurried along while chasing CHARLIE K., was stoutly punished in the last half mile, gained command and was under severe urging at the end. CHARLIE K., hurried to the front and kept under pressure, held on gamely when forced to a strong drive. GRAND HOPES, forwardly placed, finished full of run in the final drive. VOTE worked his way up steadily and finished courageously. AXENBY, slow to get going, secured racing room on the inside and closed a good gap. ATHOL raced in spots. BURNSIDE could never enter contention. FERVID tired.

Belmont, Pimlico Tests for Winooka

Baltimore, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Maryland Jockey Club tonight announced the acceptance by Rufe Naylor, manager of the American tour of Winooka, the Australian horse, for an invitation match race Saturday at the Pimlico track.

Naylor earlier today completed negotiations for a similar match to be run at the United Hunts meet at Belmont Park on next Tuesday. The distance of each race is to be 6 furlongs.

Four of the horses which the Australian sprinter defeated in a sensational race at Pimlico yesterday, according to Matt L. Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jockey Club, likely will comprise the field against Winooka for a purse of $2,500 added. The subscription is $50 each with the owner of the second horse saving his fee.

Widener's Jamestown May Never Run Again

Baltimore, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—George D. Widener's Jamestown may never again race in competition, it was revealed today by Bert Mulholland, second string trainer of the Widener horse.

Mulholland said that Jamestown came out of last Sautrday's mile and a quarter Washingotn Handicap, run over the Laurel track, very sore, and that the horse early yesterday morning was shipped to Widener's Erdenheim Farm, near Philadelphia.

Jamestown's latest trouble was in a tendon which bowed early in the summer of 1932.

Waggoner Horses Run One, Two Three in Race

Arlington Downs, Tex., Nov. 2 (U.P.).—W. T. Waggoner not only supplied the first, second and third horses in the initial running of his Texas Futurity today, but he ran them at his own track after having bred them himself at his Three Ds Farm.

When Money Getter, Open Range and Morning Cry crossed the finish line of the featured Futurity, three rousing cheers went up for the popular Waggoner silks.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Value of Canned Milks.

It can be accepted as a fact that condensed milk, evaporated milk, milk powder and cottage cheese have essentially the same food values as fresh liquid milk and can be used in place thereof.

Evaporated milk is sterilized by heat during the evaporation of the water. It is whole milk with all of the ingredients of that food except the water. It is true that in the heating process of evaporation some of the vitamin C is destroyed, and this was once urged as an objection to it and to all other forms of prepared milk. The opposition has little weight because of the general use of fresh fruit and vegetable juices along with all kinds of milk, because of the well-known fact that even the best and freshest of June milk is a poor source of vitamin C. In the process of evaporation no food element is rendered less digestible.

Condensed milk is evaporated but at a lower temperature than is the milk going by the name evaporated. The temperature to which the milk is subjected is not sufficiently high to completely sterilize it. Therefore sugar is added to the evaporated milk, the principle being the same as that used in preserving fruits. The addition of so much sugar, as well as the subtraction of so much water, changes the balance between the milk solids. This fact must be taken into account in using condensed milk as a food for children, and also in using it in coffee.

Milk powder is milk from which the water is evaporated and the solids are left in the form of a powder. In the earlier processes used by the trade, nearly all of the vitamin C was destroyed in the making of this powder. In those now in use, the milk is dried very quickly and in this way most of the vitamin C is spared.

In selecting a brand of milk powder or, for that matter, evaporated or condensed milk, one should know the proportion of fats and other solids it contains. This information may be found on the label or wrapper.

Milk powder is better than liquid milk for feeding babies with certain disorders and some health departments and physicians prefer it for use with the average run of children, including babies.

Cottage cheese is milk that has been somewhat soured and from which much of the water but nothing else of importance has been abstracted, but most persons flavor their cottage cheese with sugar and some add butter. The acid reaction increases the digestibility.

One advantage of these milks over the fresh liquid product is that they can be more cheaply and conveniently merchandised and they require less refrigeration in the home. If properly sold, bought, and used, they are more economical than fresh liquid milk.

Low Blood Pressure.

Reply.

Some cases are relieved by dieting. The diet should be low in starchy foods and sweets. It should contain much buttermilk, sour milk, acidophilus milk, lactic acid milk. Lactose can replace other sugars. Other cases are relieved by wearing abdominal supporters. Some are benefited by training. They should train themselves to become interested in and excited by sports and competitions generally.

Callus on Foot.

V. M. B. writes:

1. I have a big callus under my foot.

What can I do to get rid of it?

2. What is the cause?

Reply.

1. Apply moleskin adhesive. Use this for a month or two. Wear broad shoes. Trim the callus down to moderate size.

2. Undue rubbing is the direct cause. If the rubbing of the shoes against the soles is evenly distributed the skin thickens evenly. The amount of thickening is proportionate to the amount of rubbing. If the rubbing is uneven the skin piles up unevenly. The thick places are called calluses.

They serve a purpose. It is to protect the nerves, blood vessels, soft tissues, bones, and joints that would otherwise be unduly rubbed. Wearing narrow shoes throws some bones out of position and thereby subjects some areas to undue rubbing. As age increases the tendency to callus formation increases.

Foolproof Eechnique.

There is a constant advantage to the expert in a thorough knowledge of sound technique. Many times a player will arrive at a contract which seems so easy to make that he forgets to be careful, and in the one time out of a hundred that appearances are deceptive he has reason to regret his overconfidence. When one has once acquired a knowledge of correct technique, his alertness should never lapse. Seemingly needless precautions should be taken as a matter of course, for they are never costly and are sometimes productive of great gain.

In the hand given below it was necessary to consider every card played with extreme caution. As it happens, the player involved was prepared for every contingency, and successfully fulfilled his contract by a series of beautiful plays.

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♠ | 2◇ | Pass | Pass |
| 4♣ | Pass | 5♣ | Pass |
| 5♠ | Pass | 6♠ | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

West opened the King of hearts, and South ruffed not with the four of spades but with the eight. Few people would have considered this play. There seemed nothing to do but to draw trumps, run the club suit, and concede the Ace of diamonds. But South could remember hands on which this play was necessary, and having learned his lesson, he saw no reason not to take advantage of it. Having taken the first trick, he played the Ace and King of spades, exhausting the adverse trumps. He then considered the club suit carefully. If it was divided 3-1 his contract was assured: if West held four clubs he would be defeated; but if all four clubs were in East's hand, by a series of two finesses he could bring in the suit without the loss of a trick. In order to find out what the situation was South first led a small club to Dummy's King. Note that the lead of the Ace or Queen would have ruined the necessary double finesse position. When West showed out, South won the King in Dummy and led back through East's Knave-10-5, playing the Queen when East split his equals. The Ace and 9 now represented a major tenace over East's Knave-5, and the important six of spades in Dummy was higher than the four which South had so carefully retained, furnishing the necessary entry to take that finesse.

It is obvious that without having an entry in the six of spades, South must have been defeated, for West could have prevented a diamond entry into Dummy by refusing to win his Ace if South first led the King. Unfailing attention to details will bear fruit sooner or later.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Commissioners of the District of Columbia, Washington, October 20, 1933. Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of an item authorizing changes in the permanent system of highways contained in D. C. Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914 (Public Act No. 435, 62nd Congress), approved March 14, 1913, as amended by an act approved April 30, 1926 (Public Act No. 158, 69th Congress), the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will give a public hearing in the Board Room of said Commissioners on November 13, 1933, at 10 o'clock a. m., to all persons interested or owning land within the territory affected by proposed changes in the plan of said permanent system of highways, as described as follows, viz: 1. Property in the northeast section along the line of Kenilworth avenue between Benning road and 42nd street. 2. Property in the southeast section located within the territory bounded by Nash place on the north, Branch avenue on the east, Pennsylvania avenue on the south, and 30th street on the west, in connection with proposed change affecting the location of O street and P street within said area, as shown on the highway plan. 3. Property in the northwest section located within the territory bounded by Whitehaven parkway and Whitehaven street on the north, Lovers lane and Rock Creek drive on the east, R street on the south, and Wisconsin avenue on the west, in connection with proposed change affecting the location of 33rd street and T street within said area, as shown on the highway plan. 4. Property in the northwest section located within the territory bounded by Brandywine street on the north, Nebraska avenue on the east, square 1773 on the south, and U. S. Reservation No. 542 on the west, in connection with proposed change providing for the elimination of 39th street within said area, as shown on the highway plan. Plats showing proposed changes in the highway plan of streets within the territory described above are on display in the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia, Room 329, District Building, and may be examined by interested parties during business hours prior to the hearing. Such plans will also be displayed at the hearing, and the Commissioners will consider any suggestions or protests concerning the proposed changes as shown on above-mentioned plans. L. H. ## Walt Mason, Himself

A Bad Cold.

An epidemic fearful afflicts our little town, and people, sad and tearful, are chasing up and down; they tell me how they suffer, and every passing day beholds their luck grow tougher, all comfort swept away. Some call it influenzy, and others call it grip; and in a sort of frenzy all mournfully they skip. This punkest of diseases has seared their flesh and bones, and all their sighs and sneezes are intermixed with groans. I have been brave and cheerful in panic times like these; I give my friends an earful concerning remedies. I tell them I could cure them with plasters on the chest, and stoutly I assure them that Jimpson's pills are best. "Go soak your feet," I tell them, "in lukewarm gasoline;" the evils that befell them would then no more be seen. "Try Mother Hubbard's bitters, it's sold in gallon jugs, it's good for ailing critters, it beats all common drugs. Apply a mustard plaster before you go to bed, and it is sure to master the spasms in your head." I find much joy dispensing my counsel everywhere, advising folks and sensing their fury and despair. But now to my annoyance, I've caught a cold myself, and all life's glee and joyance are laid upon the shelf. And all my friends come handing my counsel back to me, they tell of cures outsanding, to make my ailments flee. They tell of pill and powder, of potions in a flood, and, ever waxing louder, they keep me sweating blood.

Pieces of Eight — Capt. Teach's Wedding Feast — By Charles B. Driscoll

In the river off Plum Point lay the Queen Anne's Revenge, known on seven seas as the ship of Blackbeard, the pirate. The crew had orders to be ready to sail at a moment's notice. There would be boisterous celebration.

A table was spread on deck, and the whole countryside was invited to celebrate his wedding with Capt. Teach, who was not known ashore as Blackbeard. Bride and bridegroom sat at the head of the table, the Governor of North Carolina at their right.

In the midst of the feast, a great chest was brought by sailors, and dropped in the center of the table. "See the bride's chest," cried Capt. Teach. "We won't return till that chest be filled with gold and jewels for the bride."

"What ho!" cried the pirate chief, "will ye drink with me—to the bride?" There was a roar and clinking along the table. "To the bride!" But the little bride stopped her ears and wept. She was frightened almost out of her senses.

Radio Waves and Ripples

AMALGAMATED Broadcasting System folded up yesterday after little more than five weeks' operation, returning its Washington outlet, WOL, to its old 12-hour-daily broadcasting of local talent and recordings.

The station operated on the 12-hour schedule yesterday and two newly acquired announcers, Justin Winkle and John Watt, were layed off until a new program service is acquired or the old Ed Wynn chain revived.

Possibility of an A. B. S. revival is considered remote. Wynn resigned October 25 leaving an estimated $125,000 in the venture. Efforts of some of his former colleagues to dispose of the chain to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer failed. Radio-wise reported the network owed $21,000 in bills and salaries.

Some of the salaries, according to these minds, were owed to the network's musicians. The musicians union, it was said, threatened to order a walkout last Tuesday night when Wynn returned to the air as the Fire Chief unless four weeks' salary was paid them. Wynn paid, the minds say, slightly more than the sponsors of his N. B. C. program are paying him each week—$7,500.

Whisky, gin or other hard liquor advertising will be taboo on Columbia networks, the minds in New York announced yesterday. Only wine ads will be accepted "with extremely careful scrutiny of the nature of both the entertainment and the advertising content."

"It is with extreme reluctance that we are deciding that a class of merchandise about to be legalized by a popular vote probably of 3 to 1 shall not be allowed to use our facilities, because we are exceedingly sensitive about impeding any legitimate business enterprise," a statement issued by President William S. Paley said.

"We feel, however, that the best interests of the vast radio audience are paramount and that a medium which enters the homes of so many millions of persons and which carries its message to groups of listeners of every conceivable assortment is not the proper vehicle for the promotion of the sale of those beverages colloquially known as 'hard liquors.'

"Our decision, on the other hand, to permit the advertising of wines is based on the common knawledge that wine-drinking countries are temperate countries and our belief that the time may have come to America, particularly under present condition, when millions of our people will welcome the opportunity to be informed about milder beverages.

"We hope that Columbia's decision will be recognized as fitting the peculiar conditions of radio broadcasting and that it will not be construed as intended in any way to reflect on policies which may be adopted by other media which reach their people in different ways."

The minds say public announcement of this policy was made so that all would know where they stand. Prospective advertisers and others interested in knowing about radio liquor ads have been asking questions, say the minds.

The minds, it seems to us, wish to be very safe. They expect Congress after repeal to supplant the provisions of the national prohibition act which prohibit liquor advertising with similar provisions in the legislation that will protect dry States.

Whitecaps.

WRC—Full-hour concert by the Marine Band, 3 p. m.; Cities Service Concert, songs by Jessica Dragonette and Frank Parker, the Cavaliers and Bourdon's orchestra, 8 p. m.; Fred Allen's Salad Bowl Review, 9 p. m. WMAL—N. B. C. Music Appreciation Hour, Walter Damrosch, abilities of flute and clarinet illustrated for younger children, uses of music to describe motion illustrated for older children, 11 p. m.; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, "The Girl Scout in Her Community," for National Girl Scout Week, 10 p. m.; Floyd Gibbons, 10:45 p. m. WJSV—Philadelphia Orchestra, Leopold Stokowski, "Adagio," "Mountains," 2:30 p.m.; March of Time, best news of the week dramatized, 8:30 p. m; Olsen and Johnson, 10 p. m.

N. B. C. and Columbia are airing the Fordham-St. Mary's football game from the Polo Grounds in New York tomorrow afternoon at 1:45. WMAL and WJSV carry it locally. WRC has the Purdue-Carnegie broadcast, starting at 2:45. p. m.

Both chains are doing what they can to help Washington young to an apreciation of music.

N. B. C.'s WRC, for instance, has the National Capital Cadet Orchestra, which microphones again tomorrow morning at 11, with a special arrangement of Rubinstein's "Kamenio Strow," played by a saxophone trio.

Charles Williams has organized this unit, composed of boys and girls whose ages range from 9 to 17, and taught them to play solos and together. The group is sponsored by the Parents Club. It has been a regular Saturday morning feature for N. B. C.

As for Columbia's WJSV, it is helping out Appreciation of Music Week with a series of five programs starting Monday under the direction of August Zanzig, head of the music department of a New York recreation center, who comes to Washington to give music lectures in the high schools next week. There will be little lecturing on the programs, mostly music. The first, at 10:50 p. m. Monday, is expected to be a string quartet.

WJSV's Three Maids and a Mike—Grace Shannon, Hazel Money and Jane Utgard—think they can put one over on the minds by applying as one for the early morning lady announcer job. They've rigged up an act for the Sun Dial which is said to entail, among other things, the singing of announcements. The minds are expected to say no.

The D. A. R. Roundtable today deviates from the usual speech program to present Elena DeSayn in a violin recital to be accompanied by Pianist Winifred Lakeman (WRC 11:30 a. m.), Bach's "Prelude Adagio" and DeBussy's "En Bateau."

Maryland University President R. A. Pearson is a National Education Association speaker (WMAL tonight, 6 o'clock) with "What Higher Education Means to American Progress."

Mrs. Franceska Lawson, Washington soprano, sings for the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs on WRC today at 11 a. m., with Mrs. Mabel Finch Rawlings playing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Helen Morrison Hunter, federation radio chairman, will be the announcer.

Kate has made more than 550 broadcasts since debuting with Columbia in May, 1931. In that time the minds have had to cancel but one program for her, and that was when she went to Norfolk for the Byrd farewell and couldn't get back to New York in time.

She will play the vaudeville boards for eight weeks, coming to Washington the week of November 24.

Washington's WJSV and 58 other C. B. S. stations are taking the first Byrd expedition broadcast—a speech by the admiral aboard the flagship, Jacob Ruppert, en route to the pole, and music from Columbia's New York studios. The program has been given the 10 p. m. spot November 18.

N. B. C. and Schenectady's WGY are to have special broadcasts every other Saturday night to the expedition.

National will take a week to celebrate the opening of its new headquarters in Radio City Armistice Day.

No angle of radio entertainment will be overlooked, every aspect of American life will be covered, say the minds. They mean to call out the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Metropolitan Opera Company, the movies and the NRA before they get through. They mean for the people in the United States and most of the countries of Europe and South America to know their new home is Radio City in Rockefeller Center, New York.

Ripples.

Colgate's Coach Andy Kerr is an Eddie Dooley guest broadcasting tonight, WJSV, 6:30 . . . NRA controversies and the racial struggles in Palestine are some of the news happenings to be put into drama on the March of Time show tonight, WJSV, 8:30 . . . "Gallagher," Richard Harding Davis story, is an N. B. C. drama tomorrow, 10 p. m. . . . Fordham-St. Mary's goes on the Columbia net tomorrow, Husing at the microphone, 1:45 p. m. . . . Three Scamps—Dal Calkins, Jay Fallon and Ed MacDowell—try "Chinatown" and "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" on N. B. C., 5:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Arkansas Man Who Called Family in Smithfield, Va. Praises Phone

Mr. A. R. Coleman of Little Rock, Ark., made a long distance call to his mother and father in Smithfield, Va., recently.

So pleased was he with the result that he wrote us this letter:

"I had been away from home over three months, so I decided to call them up. Priceless are the voices of those we love. Through Chicago, Philadelphia and finally to my mother and dad in Smithfield, Va., went my request—and I talked with them, heard their voices. Afterwards, reflecting on the call, one of the most marvelous things to me was this—that out of 120,000,000 people in this country (like a big crowd) you reached out and tapped just two on the shoulder for me, and then granted me the means of talking to them. Surely I rubbed Aladdin's lamp!"

Call by number after 8:30 p.m. and talk 135 miles for 45c.
